FIREMEN AT BLAZE GET SHOCK

Stream from Hose Acts as Conductor During Burning of Beach Auto Works

Fire starting from a short circuit in the battery room of the Beacon Auto Works at 1227-1231 South Hill street partly destroyed the garage and burned several cars stored in the place early last night. The loss was estimated at about $50,000.

The fire also slightly damaged the roof of a large rooming-house at 1221 South Hill street. Prompt work on the part of the fire department confined the fire which had gained much headway because of the inflamable nature of the contents of the garage.

A half-dozen firemen handling one of the hoses were knocked off their feet when the stream of water they were directing came in contact with high-tension power lines in the rear of the building.

Strong, Cobb & Co.,
City.

Gentlemen: (Attention Mr. S. Strong.) Had I any reasonable doubt as to my ultimate destination after death, I would want to cross the last river with a bottle of your "Noburn" in my hand. As it is, I will certainly not take my summer vacation without one bottle for myself and two for my friends.

Will you kindly have three bottles mailed to me, or advise me where it can be obtained?

Please mail invoice to me here.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM M. RAMSEY.

Just one application of "Noburn" applied before each exposure and you are sunburn proof. You get the tan, but not the burn. An invisible, odorless, harmless liquid, quickly applied, easily washed off.

Made and guaranteed by Strong, Cobb Co., of Cleveland, who have been in business for ninety years. "Noburn" is sold at all good drug stores.—[Advertisement.

AFFRONT GIVEN AMERICANS BY BRITISH OUTFIT

BY CHARLES DAILEY
[BY GIRLS—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.]

SAIGON (China) July 3.—It develops that the credit of the American government is not acceptable to a British concern, even after reference to London, which incident is causing much comment in the American Navy, especially after it depleted its own fuel stores, by conveying a new plane from Manila to Akyab, aboard a destroyer to enable the British aviator, Stuart MacLaren to continue his flight.

Only the personal advance of approximately $1,000 in cash by Acton Peulet, manager of the Standard Oil Company at Saigon, enabled the destroyer Noa to obtain sufficient fuel to rejoin the Pacific Fleet.

VESSEL OUT OF FUEL

Owing to the emergency trip from Saigon to Tourane, conveying the new motor for the flight commander, Lieut. Smith, the destroyer Noa remained here, after the departure of the world flyers, owing to insufficient fuel. The Standard Oil Company here had the fuel, which is solely in the hands of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, a British subsidiary.

When Commander Theobald approached the local manager of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, the latter replied he must first obtain the consent of the London office, to which office cabled its consul here on the condition of a cash payment. Commander Theobald and his fellow officers and crew raked their pockets, but were short of the required amount. Acton Peulet thereupon stepped into the breach and paid the sum demanded by the Asiatic company, thus enabling the destroyer Noa to proceed northward.

The Americans in Saigon are incensed over London's refusal to extend credit to the American fleet, and may possibly adopt a resolution at the Independence Day celebration at the Consulate.

Another incident is the indifference in Saigon to the American flyers which occurred during their stay here. When Lieut. Smith and Commander arrived at a continental hotel in Indo-China, they were denied suites, because they were not wearing coats, and reported embarrassed.

SHORT OF GARB

The correspondent knows from personal association at the reception given by the Tourane Club, that the flyers were not provided with white clothing, having only the olive drab, which is utterly unsuited for the tropics. The officers of the destroyer Hart loaned them

LA FOLLETTE'S SUPPORTERS TO CONVENE TODAY

BY THOMAS WREN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Satisfied and contented they are intrenched against any Muscovite influences to undermine the structure of their political ambitions, delegates representing forty-eight varieties of poltical shades and hues are gathered here confident in the belief that the oportune time has arrived to launch a third party movement with Senator Robert Marion La Follette as the standard-bearer.

And that is the program the third party advocates will demand tomorrow morning when the convention of the Conference for Progressive Political Action convenes in the same auditorium used by the Republican National Convention a few weeks ago. They will demand the third party launching regardless of the looming opposition of several important factions of the rail workers executives to sponsor such action.

The convention conference will be opened with an invocation by Bishop Frances J. McConnell of the Methodist Church. The prelate was the chairman of the Inter-Church Commission, which investigated the steel strike of 1919. Similar services at subsequent sessions will be performed by Archbishop Joseph Schreb of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland and Rabbi Silva.

PLENTY OF SPEECHES

The "keynote" address will be delivered by William H. Johnston, chairman of the progressive conference and international president of the Machinists' Union. While the credentials committee is completing its roster of delegates brief speeches will be made by several others.

The conglomeration of political theories of the delegates assembled here range from the teaching of Karl Marx and Tolstoy to the policy adopted decades ago by the American Federation of Labor, which resents the intrusion of any third party movements in the political field and advises workers to remain within the ranks of both major parties and vote for candidates most friendly to the cause of organized labor.

The policies of the conference are defined and its proceedings dominated by two groups of the rail workers executives. Of the two the bulwark along financial lines is composed of the train service organizations—locomotive engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen. This group is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The second and

FLORES AND CALLES PUT UP CONTEST

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—The campaign for the Presidential election next Sunday has been on a more or less personal basis between Generals Angel Flores and Plutarco Elias Calles. In the main, organizations of a radical character have aligned themselves behind Calles, while the conservative elements have announced for Flores.

Mexican parties are now mostly small local groups. Political party registrations with the Department of the Interior show that the principal political organization supporting Calles is the Party Alliance, a Mexico City organization.

Jean Perier, French Minister to Mexico, today submitted to the Mexican Foreign Office a draft of a claims convention between France and Mexico similar to that ratified by the United States and Mexico. The convention is a reply to an invitation tendered by Mexico to foreign countries whose nationals suffered damages during the 1910 revolution.

Child Burns to Death in Auto; Another Dying

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

REDDING, July 3.—Helpless in the rear seat of an automobile Mary Wilson, 3-year-old daughter of F. E. Wilson of Ukiah, burned to death today when her father struck a match under the engine to look at the oil gauge. Jimmy, 1 year old, was so seriously burned it is feared he will not recover. The family was traveling with all its possessions in an automobile and a trailer.

SHIPPING EXPERT DIES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Jeremiah F. Daily, 55 years of age, manager of the marine department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce for nearly forty years, died suddenly at his desk today, presumably from a heart attack. He was said to have been one of the best-informed shipping men on the Coast. He is survived by his widow.

MEXICO HAS UPPER HAND

BY JACK STARR-HUNT
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—Mexico is generally credited with having the upper hand in the British-Mexican deadlock, because British interests in Mexico amount to many million pounds while Mexico's holdings in British territory are virtually nothing. In spite of Mexico's apparent commanding position in the dispute, Great Britain appears to have won the first round in the diplomatic battle waged through mutual nonrecognition.

Mexico has been forced to suspend payment on her external loan interest because of an adverse ruling on the proposed loan given by an international bankers' committee. It has been learned here that the loan, which Mexico needs to pay pressing internal and external obligations, was not forthcoming because the bankers held that 80 per cent of the interests, represented by England, France and other European nations, outweighed the favorable recommendation of 20 per cent represented by American bankers.

CREDITORS CLAMOR

With the Presidential elections a stone's throw away Mexico decided it would be more politics to suspend payment of foreign obligations than no "submit to unavoidable force." Internal obligations, such as payment of several million pesos of back government salaries and bills due Mexico City merchants, are held as more pressing because of the clamor of the creditors.

That suspension of payment of $17,500,000 interest due on the 1st inst. consists virtually of a forced loan from international bankers is the belief here. Mexico, however, has not definitely broken away from the Lamont agreement nor have bankers declared Mexico a defaulter.

Mexico intends to continue accumulation of the oil-export tax for future resumption of payments. This, it is pointed out, will counter the threat by oil companies that such payments should not now be expected in view of the fact that they are not being applied to the original purpose intended.

MEXICAN VERSION

Although the Finance Ministry is unaffected by pressure brought to bear to elicit a statement clearing up the situation, it is observed that sources capable of harming or aiding the Mexican government are being supplied with Mexican version of the situation. This version is that oil operators and bankers are hand in glove. It is further declared that Mexico originally requested a loan of $20,000,000. This was said to have been turned down by banking interests, who agreed on $10,-

Disabled Navy Plane Towed to Bar in Coos Bay

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MARSHFIELD (Or.) July 3.—The steamer Griffdu, which arrived here tonight from San Francisco, reported that she had picked up the United States naval seaplane 2-S-3 at sea off the Northern California coast yesterday and towed it as far as the Coos Bay bar. The United States destroyer Shirk was to bring it in here, the Griffdu officers said, but is said to have wrecked it in trying to tow it.

The big seaplane was disabled by the bursting of a connecting rod and had to alight at sea. Another plane with the 2-S-3 proceeded in flight, it was said. Lieut. Maloney was in charge of the plane with Capt. Moses, squadron commander, as passenger. It was believed they were taken aboard the destroyer.

Boy From This City Drowns in Lake Elsinore

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, July 3. — John Broate, 20 years of age, of 439 East Fifty-eighth street, Los Angeles, was drowned in Lake Elsinore tonight while attempting to swim to shore from a small boat in which he had been sailing with Wallace Clark of Elsinore.

The two boys had started for a sail across the lake when they found they had forgotten part of their equipment.

Broate volunteered to swim back after it but sank when a short distance from shore.

The body was recovered almost immediately but use of a pulmotor for more than an hour failed to revive him.

CONVENTION DEADLOCK BREAKS ALL RECORDS; END NOT YET IN SIGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 3.—Even by surpassing the party record for continuous balloting the Democratic National Convention has failed to nominate a candidate for the Presidency. At the close of the sixty-first ballot the convention adjourned after midnight until 1 p.m. tomorrow—the Fourth of July—with the deadlock tighter than ever and the grip of both principal contenders unshaken.

McADOO AND SMITH CONTINUE TO LEAD IN FUTILE BATTLE

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 4. — At 1 o'clock this morning after four days of fruitless balloting on the nomination for President, the Democratic National Convention adjourned until 1 o'clock this afternoon, not only still deadlocked on the sixty-first roll call, but having shattered the previous record for deadlocks held by the convention which nominated Stephen A. Douglas on the fifty-ninth ballot in 1860. On the last roll call before adjournment the vote for the principal candidates was:

McAdoo, 469 1-2; Smith, 335 1-2; Davis, West Virginia, 1 60; Ralston, 37 1-2; Underwood, 42; Robinson, 23; Glass, 25; Cox, 54; Ritchie, 16 1-2; Saulsbury, 6; Walsh, 3; Oken, 24; Bryan, 3.

LEADERS STILL BATTLE

With McAdoo and Smith still battling desperately but effectually blocking each other at approximately the same strength, respectively, they have held since the beginning of the contest the convention voted nineteen times today, most of the time listlessly, wearily. The only feature was the appearance of Senator Ralston of Indiana for a time in the first rank of contenders with a vote that nearly touched 100.

Then in the session tonight a war fare of reprisals between the McAdoo and Smith forces began which woke the convention from its torpor and left Ralston ground between them down to approximately the number of votes he started with.

At midnight, after the sixtieth ballot a motion to adjourn was beaten overwhelmingly, with the McAdoo leaders conspicuous among those who were clamoring to go on voting all night. But an hour later the motion to adjourn was renewed by Edward Moore of Ohio, following the sixty-first ballot on which McAdoo remained stationary and Smith gained five votes contributed by Illinois. This time with hopelessness of further voting tonight becoming more and more apparent the motion was carried overwhelmingly.

NO PREDICTIONS

Whether the deadlock can be broken when the convention reassembles on this fourth of July, none of the leaders would dare predict as the delegates were trooping to bed. George E. Brennan, the Illinois leader, is prepared to ballot all today and tomorrow if not next Monday. He sees no hope of an agreement on a nomination until McAdoo either withdraws or is eliminated. McAdoo, however, is showing only a grim determination to keep up the fight and exercise a veto power on the choice of the ticket if he cannot achieve the nomination himself.

There will be a conference of leaders of both factions this forenoon to endeavor to lay the foundation for a compromise.

The first bribe story of the con-

The McAdoo management placed the blame on the favorite sons, who, they said, by remaining in the balloting when they should have withdrawn, have prevented the real strength of both Gov. Smith and Mr. McAdoo from being shown.

Plodding steadily through a day and night session the convention had rolled off a total of sixty-one ballots, two more than the previous high record of the party, made in 1860 when Stephen Douglas was nominated for the Presidency after taking fifty-nine ballots.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

After adjournment from a seething session that had swung a handful of States back and forth among the leaders, the situation appeared to be almost precisely where it had been twenty-four hours before. McAdoo remained far in the lead, while Smith continued holding second place and all the others trailed far behind.

So serious was the tangle and so determined the plan of campaign that was being laid down by the strongest of the contending elements of the convention that the party chiefs consulted over possible methods of amending the convention rules to permit of a choice.

One plan proposed was that both McAdoo and Smith be called upon to withdraw, permitting their strength to go to some compromise candidate. This proposal was pronounced "absurd" by David Ladd Rockwell, the manager for McAdoo, and was characterized as "ridiculous and wholly impossible" by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the field marshal of the Smith forces.

Another suggestion was that a new rule be adopted under which the low man on each ballot automatically be eliminated from the voting until only three remain. The move in that direction may bear fruit in the presentation of a formal resolution on the subject at tomorrow's session.

The adjournment until noon was taken to give the leaders more time to consider these questions and to talk over possible candidates upon whom enough votes could be certered to nominate.

In today's voting there was a trend away from McAdoo for a short period and a consequent gain by Ralston of Indiana until he passed John W. Davis and stood in third place with almost a hundred votes. But before the night session was over virtually all the McAdoo strength had returned and Ralston was again trailing far behind.

PROPOSAD SCOUTED

The proposal for withdrawal of the two high men led Mr. Rockwell, speaking on behalf of the McAdoo supporters to issue this formal statement:

"The newspaper suggestion which has been made that the name of Mr. McAdoo, the overwhelming leader in the convention voting, and Gov. Smith, receiving the next highest figure, be withdrawn so that some of the candidates receiving a far smaller vote may be able to be nominated, is absurd as well as unjust. Whoever heard of a candidate withdrawing who is receiving practically one-half of the convention's vote.

"The withdrawing comes at the other end. If there be any withdrawals they should of right be from among the list of favorite sons, the attitude of whose friends

FAGGED-OUT DELEGATES WOULD QUIT

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 4.—Democrats in national convention are approaching the end of their patience in their attempts to make a nomination for President and Vice-President. This morning, just as this is written, the convention adjourned until 1 o'clock in the afternoon to let delegates get some sleep and to make one more attempt at a compromise on some candidate who can get two-thirds of all the votes and be the Democratic nominee for President. All previous attempts have proved futile and this looks like another failure.

Delegates are worn almost to a shred and have lost their tempers. Prospects are good for a split of this convention with a possibility of the radicals of progressives joining the third-party movement at Cleveland if a nominee cannot be secured by next Tuesday. Many of the liberal and progressive members of the party, disgusted with the attempted domination of Tammany and the resistance of McAdoo to any compromise, are agitating the breaking away of all the progressives and joining the La Follette movement convening today in Cleveland. The seriousness of this movement depends very largely on the failure of the Democrats here to agree and nominate a ticket at once.

RALSTON FAILS

Ralston proved to be a miserable failure in the balloting tonight and lost all his previous increase of votes. He may have another chance, but if he does not make a better showing he will be taken off the list. All delegates except those of Indiana deserted him on the last ballot, save for a scattering nondescript following of seven and one-half votes scattered over several States. When the sixty-first ballot was finished just before the adjournment this morning McAdoo had taken another brace and led all candidates with 469½ votes. Smith had 335½; John W. Davis of West Virginia, 60, and Ralston had only 37½.

Two previous attempts to change the balloting during the evening failed. One delegation wanted the session to remain in continuous session with informal recesses of but ten minutes each until nominations were completed. The chair ruled this motion was out of order. The delegates wanted to try to force a definite progress toward nominations and permanent adjournment, but failed utterly and at last decided to quit till the afternoon.

With the convention deadlocked from within and with La Follette delaying final action of his third party plans at Cleveland until the Democrats have finished their job here and can name their President and Vice-President, the Democratic convention seems to be frozen tight inside and out. Inside there is a Democratic deadlock that looks like a permanent disease and outside it looks like Mr. La Follette had applied a new and powerful brake to Democratic action and independence. It is a great way to celebrate the glorious Fourth, which, unfortunately for the Democrats, is also Calvin Coolidge's birthday. There is no enthusiasm about celebrating either the independence or Cal's birthday at Madison Square Garden this afternoon. The fight is too serious.

YOUTH JAILED HERE CONFESSES SHOOTING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, July 3.—Ova N. Tuggle, 17 years of age, said by detectives to have served a jail sentence in Los Angeles for robbery, admitted tonight he shot and fatally wounded Arthur Riley, 43 years of age, in his room in a lodging-house here when Riley refused to obey a command to hold up his hands, according to the police.

Two others captured as they fled from the scene of the shooting—Thomas Levins, 20, a sailor from the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, and William Glancy, 17—said they participated in the affair, according to the police.

'HOLD FIRM' IS McADOO'S BATTLE CRY

Writes Loyal Chairmen Progressive Forces Are Entitled to Victory

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 3.—William G. McAdoo, in personal letters addressed today to the chairmen of State delegations supporting his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination, declared "The strength we have manifested entitles us to victory."

"Your fine delegation fought a splendid battle yesterday and I want you and them to know how deeply I appreciate their continued support and how warmly I admire their courageous stand," Mr. McAdoo told the delegation chairmen.

"We can win this fight if the progressive lines hold firm. The tactics of our opponents are, of course, to try to wear us out, but this is just as impossible as to change the significance of July 4. The opposition cannot maintain a merely obstructive position. The strength we have manifested entitles us to victory and this fact will impress itself upon all fair-minded delegates in the convention with the progress of events.

"It is not reasonable to expect the progressive forces which so largely control the convention to capitulate to the minority. That would not be Democracy."

DEMOCRATS SET RECORD BY BALLOTS

Mark Reached in Race of Douglas Left Behind on Sixtieth Vote

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN (New York) July 3.—When the Democratic National Convention reached the fifty-ninth ballot tonight it tied the record in party history, and as no nomination was reached, the convention then began setting a new record.

The greatest number of ballots heretofore cast in a convention was in that of 1860 which nominated Douglas. The convention began at Charleston, S. C., where fifty-seven ballots were taken; it then adjourned and reconvened in Baltimore where two more ballots were taken—fifty-nine in all and Douglas was nominated.

The next approach to the old record was in the Baltimore convention of 1912, which took forty-six ballots to nominate Woodrow Wilson and coming after it was the San Francisco convention of 1920, which took forty-four ballots to nominate James M. Cox.

SWING TO SMITH IS ASKED BY NEVADANS

DELEGATES ARE URGED TO DESERT McADOO AT FIRST CHANCE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RENO (Nev.) July 3.—Democratic leaders in Nevada today telegraphed the State delegation at the Democratic National Convention urging the delegates to swing from McAdoo to Smith of New York. The delegation is bound by the unit rule and today's dispatch was sent at the request of George B. Thatcher, one of the delegates.

Thatcher also asked Nevada leaders to urge the delegation to vote for Gov. Smith of New York when a break from McAdoo should come, if it came. The telegram was sent in reply as Thatcher requested. Leaders here say no request was made to break the unit rule, but it will continue to vote in a body as determined by majority of the delegation.

CYCLIST HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

A cool head in a tight place probably saved the life of Robert Wilcox, 19 years of age, when a motorcycle he was riding last night skidded while rounding a curve at Sixth street and Manhattan Place and spun him and his machine beneath a street car. Wilcox caught hold of the brake beams of the car and hung on for half a block before it came to a stop.

A superficial scalp laceration was his only injury. Wilcox lives at 1321 Sierra Bonita avenue.

RUNAWAY BOY JAILED IN AUTO THEFT CASE

Paul Steinvick, 13-year-old runaway, was held at the City Jail last night after H. S. Wilson of 753 South Hope street told the police he saw the boy trying to drive away with his machine which was parked in front of that address. Wilson ran out and grabbed him before he could get the engine started. At the Police Station the boy said he ran away from his home, 151 East Eighty-eighth Place, a month ago.

NOLAN FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA BARBARA, July 3.—Charles Raymond Nolan, of a prominent New Haven (Ct.) family, was found guilty of manslaughter after fifteen ballots had been taken in Superior Court here tonight. Jack Carlton, co-defendant, was acquitted. The men were charged with slaying Charles Love, proprietor of a local hotel, after an altercation in which Love was said to have attacked Nolan with a blackjack.

NEW ENDURANCE RECORD IS MADE

Sixty-one Ballots Fail to Bring Nomination

Dark Horses and Leaders in Race Obdurate

"No clique or cabal should be allowed to thwart the will of this convention. The Democratic party can ill afford to copy the tactics used by the Republicans in Chicago in 1920."

Unable in another long day of balloting to break its deadlock over the nomination the convention went into the night session with its leaders apparently as much at sea as ever over ways and means to extricate it from its disagreements and vexations.

Four hours of fruitless conferences intervened between the afternoon adjournment and the reassembling of the delegates for another evening under the glare of the great chandeliers in Tex Rickard's vast auditorium, whose walls had looked down on many a bitter contest, but never on one like this.

The McAdoo leaders who had lost ground during the day's voting still were struggling to keep together enough of their strength to stem a rising tide of dissatisfaction which already had sent two McAdoo delegations over to the cause of Senator Ralston of Indiana, and one to the standard of Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Thomas Taggart, pilot of the Ralston boom, declared he was not preparing to urge on the growing total for his candidate as long as the McAdoo and Smith forces still were determined to keep their candidates actively in the race. The Indiana leader declared he was well satisfied to loaf along for the present, with his candidate in third place by virtue of a gain of sixty votes in the twelve ballots taken at the long day session.

The Smith cohorts likewise were sitting tight, saying they did not desire to attempt to draw out the reserve strength for their candidate until the opposition had definitely begun to disintegrate.

It appeared to the delegates that every one of the campaign managers of the rival candidates was attempting to outwait the others in the hope that something would "turn up."

One of the plans that the leaders were turning over in their fruitless conferences was a proposal to amend the convention rules so that the low candidate on each roll call would drop out automatically, until only two remained. But no one seemed to know how such a result could be obtained.

WOULD KEEP IN SESSION

A new hint of the restlessness of the delegates was given convention officials as soon as the night session began when John A. Lusk of the Alabama delegation presented a resolution proposing that the convention remain in session without recess until a nomination for President was made.

J. J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn immediately made a point of order against the proposal and Chairman Walsh sustained it and ordered the secretary to proceed with the next ballot.

The night session opened with prayer by the Rev. Henry Clay Risner, a Baptist minister of New York. Chairman Walsh announced that should the business of the convention not be completed tonight, tomorrow's session would take due notice of the significance of Independence Day by listening to a concert of patriotic airs. On the opening roll call of the night session—the fifty-fifth since the voting began Monday morning—Ralston kept picking up one or two here and there but there was no decided trend in any direction. The Indiana Senator got one in Arizona that had gone on the previous ballot to Franklin Roosevelt, and two in Illinois that had been cast before for Gov. Bryan of Nebraska.

The missionaries of the McAdoo cause had been at work during the recess, and the lines of the McAdoo States again were holding under the combined attack of the opposition. The chairman of the Georgia delegation, rising to respond to the call of his State, shouted up defiantly to the chairman to "record Georgia as voting on the next 500 ballots for William Gibbs McAdoo."

When Nevada was reached, however, there appeared a threat of trouble. The State has been voting continuously for McAdoo, but it asked that it be passed while the members of the delegation consulted as to their future course.

RALSTON GETS TWO

Meantime Ralston was given another two votes in Pennsylvania. They previously had been cast for Gov. Bryan.

The poll of the Nevada delegation showed four for McAdoo and two for Smith.

Chairman Walsh ruled that under the instructions of the Nevada delegation its entire six votes must go to McAdoo.

The fifty-sixth roll call went all the way down the list of States to North Carolina before there was a single change. Then the tar-heel delegation, which had been giving a few scattering votes to Underwood and Davis and the balance to McAdoo, created a moment's diversion by throwing its entire vote of twenty-four into the McAdoo column. The net result was a gain of three and a half for McAdoo.

Pennsylvania took one away from Davis and gave it to Glass of Virginia.

The growing tensity of the situation, which had made delegates and campaign managers restless and irritable, was relieved somewhat between the fifty-eighth and fifty-ninth ballots by what the convention accepted as a touch of rare humor. Reading from an announcement sent in by a New York patriotic society, the secretary invited the delegates to attend a Fourth of July flag-raising at sunrise, and a gale of laughter swept over the assemblage, while someone shouted back "Nothing doing."

SMITH GAINS TEN

A moment later Michigan, which had been casting fifteen votes for McAdoo and fifteen for Smith voted twenty-five for Smith and five for McAdoo.

The Michigan shift set off another demonstration by the Smith forces, who had sat silent throughout the last decade of ballots while their candidate was barely maintaining his standing. The banners of the Smith States were clustered about that of New York in the center of the hall and once more the vast assemblage was swept by the tempest of cheering.

Failing to get possession of their State standard, the Nebraska delegates who have been voting for the New York Governor, carried over to the New York section a home-made standard of their own, inscribed "Al Smith's Nebraska Contingent." On the insistance of M. F. Healy, the party blind war horse of Iowa, the Iowa standard was carried into the group, which soon began a parade around the garden with an American flag torn from the wall decorations carried at the head.

The Michigan standard was taken into the procession by Representative Clancy of Detroit and the cheering Smith delegates joined with the Smith supporters who packed the galleries in a noisy welcome to the new arrival. Then the floor and gallery together took up the war cry "We want Smith; we want Smith," and shouted it over and over in unison while Chairman Walsh pounded in vain for order. It was several minutes before he got the convention under control again and ordered the secretary to continue the roll call. A moment later the McAdoo supporters got back at their foes when the Mississippi delegation, which had gone over to Ralston earlier in the day, returned to the McAdoo fold twenty strong. Texas first, and then the other McAdoo States sent their banners to be grouped about that of Mississippi and the Smith parade of a few minutes before was duplicated by a procession of the McAdoo standards, except for the different personnel of the marchers and the different reception accorded them by the galleries. Many of the Smith people who had come as spectators booed the demonstration but the McAdoo men and women kept it up with as much fire and enthusiasm and noise as if their candidate already had the nomination in his vest pocket.

While the parade was on word was passed around that Missouri also would quit Ralston when it was called and returned its solid vote to McAdoo.

PLOT IS CHARGED

The Smith managers declared the switching of the Mississippi and Missouri votes was a plot on the part of the McAdoo floor leaders to induce the supporters of the New York Governor to pull out their full reserve strength.

It was declared by the managers for Smith that the time for that had not yet come, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Smith field marshal, sent word over to Michigan to return some more of its strength to McAdoo on the next ballot.

There was another long sweep of cheering when Missouri, standing next to Mississippi on the roll call, announced its reversion to McAdoo. A woman delegate, standing on her chair, shouted up to the chairman, "Thirty-six for McAdoo," in a shrill voice that set the McAdoo rooters going again for a spell, but there was no attempt at a prolonged demonstration or a parade. Another member of the Missouri delegation challenged the vote, and Chairman Walsh ordered that the delegation be polled after the roll of the States had been completed.

An active effort was being made to bring back into the McAdoo column the vote of Oklahoma, which had slipped away to Senator Robinson of Arkansas. When the vote was cast for Robinson a McAdoo delegate challenged and a poll was ordered.

The poll of the Missouri delegation revealed a majority for McAdoo and the entire vote of the State was cast for him under the unit rule.

Mississippi and Missouri with fifty-six votes between them, returned to McAdoo on the fifty-eighth ballot, restoring much of the strength he had lost during the day's balloting and almost wiping out the sudden strength that had been cast to Ralston of Indiana.

TAGGART WAITING

Both of the States had been casting their votes for the Indiana Senator, along with the thirty votes of Indiana. The McAdoo people hailed the change as the beginning of a new climb in the McAdoo vote, while Thomas Taggart, the Ralston manager, said he expected both States to return to his candidate later.

Oklahoma, which should be voting for Robinson of Arkansas, also went back to McAdoo on the same ballot. The net result was to restore the leaders to about the same position they had occupied at the beginning of today's balloting.

When Oklahoma was called at the end of the roll call she changed her vote from Robinson to McAdoo and the challenge was withdrawn.

The poll of the Missouri delegation showed twenty-four for McAdoo, nine and a half for Ralston, one for Underwood, Walsh, one-half, with one absent. Under the unit rule the entire vote went to McAdoo.

As the see-saw of the balloting went on without decisive result, agitation for a change in the rules to end the deadlock reached a point where Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska drafted a resolution calling for the elimination on each ballot of the low man. The Senator said he would introduce it tomorrow unless tonight's session brought some indication of a break.

The resolution says:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of this convention that beginning with the (blank) ballot, the candidate receiving the lowest vote should signify to his supporters his withdrawal as a candidate until only three candidates remain before the convention."

The vote on the fifty-ninth ballot went along about as usual until Louisiana was reached. After giving a complimentary vote to Mayor Behrman on the previous ballot, the Louisiana delegation swung back to John W. Davis.

Despite the advice of the Smith managers, Michigan continued to vote 25 for Smith and 5 for McAdoo.

There was another outburst of cheering and a near-demonstration by the McAdoo delegates when the vote for Georgia, a stalwart McAdoo State from the start, was announced for him by Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of Woodrow Wilson, and a sister of Mrs. McAdoo. She was on the floor visiting friends from Georgia, her mother's native State.

In North Carolina, two votes were taken from McAdoo and given to Ralston and there was another whoop from the Indiana delegation.

On the fifty-ninth ballot, Oklahoma, which had just returned on the preceding ballot to the McAdoo column, left it again and voted solidly for Senator Owen.

In South Dakota, McAdoo gained one, which previously had been going to Senator Walsh of Montana.

After announcing the vote of the Georgia delegation for McAdoo, Margaret Wilson went over to the Texas delegation and announced the "forty for McAdoo" from that State while the McAdoo delegates cheered again.

INTRODUCES MAUGHAN

Then, between ballots, the whole convention and the galleries were given an opportunity to cheer together when Chairman Walsh introduced Lieut. Maughan, who recently made the dash-to-dawn flight across the continent. For five minutes he stood in the glare of the spotlights at the speaker's stand, bowing his acknowledgment of the reception given him. The standard of Utah, his home State, was brought forward and held up in front of the platform and someone shouted "a compromise candidate for the nomination."

It was literally the first time the opposing factions had joined in applauding anything for days.

While the demonstration continued Chairman Walsh announced that the vote of the Fourth of July was passing and that midnight would arrive before the next ballot could be completed. He proposed that the convention unite in the "Star Spangled Banner," led by Madame Alma Clayhuoch, Metropolitan opera star, who came to the front of the platform and stood beside Lieut. Maughan while the delegates and spectators joined in the swelling, stirring strains of the National Anthem.

After the results of the sixtieth ballot had been announced C. M. Bryan of Memphis, Tenn., moved that the convention adjourn until 10 a.m. The viva voce vote on the motion appeared inconclusive, the volume of "ayes" about equaling that of the "noes" and Chairman Walsh finally decided that the motion had been lost.

On the sixty-first ballot Smith took five votes from Ralston in Illinois and the Smith delegates whooped it up again, aided ably by the galleries. It gave the New York Governor a total of twenty-five of the fifty-eight Illinois vote.

LEADERS STILL FIGHT GRIMLY

vention began circulating when it became known in the garden that the Boston Herald is printing this morning an interview with Daniel J. Daley of Brookline, who said he had been offered $1000 if he would change his vote from Smith to McAdoo and $5000 to spend among the delegates to bring about changes.

STORY IS DENIED

McAdoo's managers denied the story as a vicious falsehood, designed to prevent any of the Smith men from hopping aboard the McAdoo bandwagon. They countered with charges that the Smith leaders were spending freely, passing out $50 bills to delegates who were getting sick of the convention, were broke and who would vote for anybody who would pay their expenses.

The convention which resumed balloting after a recess for dinner had been in a torpor all day. With the clerk droning through the roll calls, recording no extraordinary changes and the crowd being not sufficiently moved to indulge in the customary demonstrations in celebration of a half vote gained by a favorite candidate.

But on the fifty-eighth ballot began shortly after 10:30 the convention suddenly awoke to an unusual degree. Al Smith gained 10 votes from McAdoo in Michigan and 15,000 people packing Madison Square Garden to the girders went wild with joy. There was much cheering and marching about with State standards.

Immediately, however, McAdoo had his inning for Mississippi quit Ralston for whom it had been voting all day and returned to the Californian, as did Missouri. Oklahoma quit Robinson and returned to McAdoo. There followed a McAdoo demonstration but not half so noisy as the one for Smith. It appeared that the galleries were not for McAdoo.

McADOO NEARS PEAK

These recoveries put McAdoo back at a new high point for the day and only 3 votes short of his maximum of the entire period of balloting.

Then McAdoo began slipping again while Smith kept gaining till he had reached on the last ballot this morning his maximum of the contest—335½ votes.

To such desperate straits have the Jeffersonians come in the effort to pick a nominee measurably proof against disastrous attack and giving measurable promise of commanding united party support that the future is beginning to look hopeless to many Democratic leaders. The comment is heard on every side that the party is being shaken to its foundations by the upheavals of long-submerged forces in this convention beginning with the outcropping of the religious issue.

"The old party is committing suicide," is the way the fear is oftenest expressed by Democrats, who came to New York confident their party could not possibly lose this election no matter who might be nominated, but now doubt Democracy can win under any circumstances.

NINE DAYS IN SESSION

The convention now has been in session nine days and it is nearly two weeks since the vanguard of delegates arrived. The leaders are tired and are taking naps between sessions. The delegates are tired and many are broke and want to go home. The situation is decidedly up in the air. Almost anything may happen at any time. No surprise would be occasioned if the delgates should break away from all leadership and settle the nomination in mob fashion.

All sorts of schemes have been proposed to break the deadlock. Some of the McAdoo following, waxing restive in the unfriendly atmosphere of New York City, which is strongly impregnated with Al Smith sentiment, are in favor of adjourning the convention to another city, preferably Chicago, a month hence. This is reminiscent of the 1860 deadlock and the adjournment from Charleston to Baltimore where Douglass finally was named.

The most seriously considered plan was that proposed informally by former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska. He suggested that a resolution be adopted providing that the low candidate on each ballot should be dropped from consideration and that the convention be required to vote for the survivors, this process to be continued until a nomination should be effected.

BRYAN INTERVENES

Mr. Hitchcock's proposal met with considerable favor among the delegates without regard to faction, but W. J. Bryan put a quietus on it. He pronounced it preposterous and not in accord with the principles governing the selection of candidates by the Democratic party.

The plan to change the rules so as to provide for nominations by a simple majority of the convention, instead of a two-thirds vote, also was revived with new interest being taken in the proposition not only in the McAdoo, but the anti-McAdoo camp. Ed Moore of Ohio said he would support the change if the unit rule were abolished also. Brennan of Illinois, said that, of course, the unit rule must go if the two-thirds rule were abolished, but he was not in favor of changing the rules at all so far as this nomination is concerned.

Brennan was still sticking to his plan of battle, which has been from the start to wear down the McAdoo forces in an endurance test as he and his associated foes of McAdoo at San Francisco did when they put Cox over.

McADOO SLIDES

McAdoo began hitting the toboggan slide again on the first ballot of the day when Oklahoma again deserted him and swung to support of Senator Robinson of Arkansas. That took McAdoo's vote down from the 502 of the night before to 483. He held his own for several ballots after that, but on the forty-ninth, Mississippi quit him and on the fifty-first he suffered another blow when Iowa abandoned the unit rule for that ballot and showed its true division in its ranks. There were only nine of Iowa's twenty-six delegates for McAdoo, while 7½ Iowa votes went to Smith and 4 to Ralston.

The break up of Iowa on that ballot sent Smith to a new high mark and took McAdoo down to the lowest vote he had mustered since the day's voting began. But McAdoo was in for still further reverses, for while Iowa went back to him as a unit on the fifty-second roll call he found himself deserted by both North Carolina and Missouri, the latter going to Ralston. On the fifty-third McAdoo got fifteen of the North Carolinians back, but his total vote still was below the number with which he started on the first roll call last Monday.

RALSTON STARTS

Ralston has been going along for days with the thirty votes of the Indiana delegation and one or two besides, and he did not start climbing until the forty-ninth ballot when Mississippi went over to him bodily and George Brennan tossed him five votes from Illinois, curiously enough just the number of votes which Tom Taggart, the Indiana boss, tossed to Brennan in the platform fight last Saturday night, when Brennan asked his old buddy for ten votes to put over the plank denouncing the Klan by name.

The next big boost Ralston received was on the fifty-second ballot, when Missouri contributed its entire thirty-six votes, placing the Indiana Senator close to the 100 mark.

All this time, John W. Davis had been losing strength until he was down to approximately the sixty votes with which he started in the race last Monday.

Taggart throughout the day made no effort to stage a drive for Ralston. He did not deem the time propitious. He accepted what support came to his candidate naturally and bided his time. But he did not cease boosting the Indiana Senator.

The position of David Franklin Houston, who was placed in nomination with the request "that no votes be cast for him unless and until the leading candidates should be eliminated by a deadlock," was defined as being unchanged.

WOMEN TRIO IN ROW AT CONFAB

Daughter of Champ Clark Called Down

Margaret Wilson Takes Up McAdoo Cudgel

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—The bitterness that has grown out of the fight in the Democratic convention divided the women this afternoon, with a resultant row in the Louisiana delegation involving Genevieve Clark Thomson, daughter of the late Champ Clark, Annette Funk, a McAdoo worker, and finally Margaret Wilson, daughter of the late President.

Mrs. Funk charged down upon the Louisiana delegation to demand that Mrs. Thomson prove what she was said to have made that McAdoo would be indicted on charges of violating a Federal statute in appearing before the Treasury Department only a short time after leaving office.

"You hate McAdoo for personal reasons," said Mrs. Funk.

"Yes, I hate him, and we'll beat him," replied the daughter of the ex-speaker.

Mrs. Thomson said she had said nothing more than to quote a statement of Senator Reed in Kansas City.

George Hurley, Assistant Attorney-General of Rhode Island, joined in the scrap and as the row broke up under pressure from officers on the floor, Margaret Wilson came down from a box and joined forces with Mrs. Funk.

"I think it is terrible the way Mrs. Thomson is attacking McAdoo," she declared.

Then as Mrs. Thomson moved from delegation to delegation urging McAdoo, Mrs. Funk and Miss Wilson followed her, and pleaded the Californian's cause.

DELEGATES GET HURRY CALL BACK

Summoned to Convention from Chicago; Session May Last Until Next Week

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 3.—Developments here today make it probable that the Democratic National convention will go over until Monday and possibly until next week.

This is indicated by the fact that George E. Brennan, Illinois politician, astute politician and one of the dominating powers at the convention, today summoned eleven delegates and alternates to New York instanter. They had gotten word of the proceedings and returned home. The Illinois leader went today to take a train immediately after receipt of his message.

The telegrams did not disclose the reasons for the summons. Some of the delegates decided that they wanted to know what assistance they could render in New York and were making plans tonight to get Brennan on the long-distance telephone.

The generalissimo of the Smith forces made it plain that he considered it highly important that every one summoned should leave Chicago immediately, and be in New York by 9 o'clock Saturday morning. No Democrat could be found who professed to know definitely why the missing delegates or alternates had been requested to go speedily back to Manhattan.

NO POLITICAL CONTROL

Their combined memberships are said to exceed the 500,000 mark. When figuring this number as a unit of votes to be delivered at the will of union heads, it has been demonstrated that the claim exists on paper only. Like the rank and file of 95 per cent of the trade unions in the country, the railroad workers vote according to their own dictates.

Interspersed in the functioning of the progressive conference are the socialists factions. Several farmers leagues, nonpartisan groups, international unions and other factions of political theorists.

LA FOLLETTE SENDS "ACCEPTANCE" MESSAGE

By Donald Ewing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 3. — La Follette's message to Cleveland—that he is ready to run for President—is on its way and already plans for an intensive, wholehearted campaign intended to persuade the multitudes that he alone can lead them from the political wilderness are under way. Twice today Wisconsin's insurgent Republican Senator was urged to don a candidate's halo and twice he privately signified his willingness, but each time he insisted that the formal public announcement must not come until the Conference for Progressive Political Action, meeting tomorrow in Cleveland, officially proffers him the nomination.

A FEW GESTURES

Early in the day the Wisconsin Senator received a communication from Cleveland leaders formally asking his consent to be nominated. It was considered a mere gesture—the plans have gone on for months. Robert La Follette, Jr., the Senator's son and official representative, is authorized to tell the delegates that his father is willing. And he carries with him a message that is both a denunciation of the major parties and a draft of the platform on which the senior La Follette will run.

Then, in the afternoon, came Zona Gale, Wisconsin authoress, and W. P. Raleigh of Freeport, Ill., representing the La Follette-for-President Club, organized in Chicago last February, with Jane Addams, Gilbert Roe, Julius Kesspohl of Illinois, Donald Richberg of Chicago, and others as members.

"Here are petitions which have been in circulation only one month, yet they carry more than 200,000 names asking you to become the leader," they said. "These petitions come from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Great Lakes to the gulf. We await your command—your "forward march."

There was nothing new in this, either, for the arrangements for staging this little drama had been arranged weeks ago. Again there was no announcement of La Follette's reply, but again it was privately learned that he admitted he was ready.

Tomorrow is expected to be Der Tag for the La Follette group for the plan is to put him before the country officially as the conference's candidate on that date—the Fourth of July, birthday of American independence. His backers think coupling of the nation's birthday with La Follette's Presidential campaign birthday will be a favorable omen, but there is a slight possibility that the nomination may be delayed. The Fourth also is Coolidge's birthday. It may be the political birthday for a Democratic candidate, and too many birthdays may mean too little newspaper space for each.

CHICAGO IS PIVOT

In the meantime plans for the La Follette campaign are being rushed. Congressman John M. Nelson of Wisconsin is to be the campaign manager and headquarters are planned for Chicago, which is considered better geographically than Washington.

La Follette is expected to issue many statements and make some speeches during the campaign, but will do little traveling. His age and health are against that. But radio will be substituted and the air will be filled at regular intervals with La Follette spellbinding.

La Follette, it is understood from his closest friends, still is far from believing that he can be elected President, but thinks he may not run third and that he will certainly throw the election into the House of Representatives, where his backers hold a balance of power.

NEW YORK, July 3.—James W. Wakeley, nationally known sportsman and financial backer of the late John L. Sullivan, world's heavyweight champion, died in St. Vincent's Hospital today of heart trouble. He was 75 years old. Wakeley was Sullivan's adviser during the champion's long career.

AD CLUB MEN NOW ON OCEAN

Local Delegations Sail on Lancastria

Will Arrive in London Week from Tomorrow

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Delegates from various advertising clubs throughout the United States sailed today on the Cunard liner Lancastria, headed by delegations from Southern California, including Los Angeles, Long Beach, Santa Ana and Pasadena, and New York City for the twentieth annual international convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, to be held in London, Eng., the 12th inst. Yesterday other delegations sailed on the United States steamship Republic headed by the Philadelphia delegation from the Poor Richard Club of that city. This ship was in charge of Lon E. Holland, president, and Carl Hunt, manager of the international organization.

The delegations on the Lancastria were headed by Jesse H. Neal, chairman of the transportation committee.

Earle Pierson, secretary of the London program committee, is in London making final arrangements for the convention.

Delegations from Massachusetts clubs headed by Boston have sailed from Boston on the Cunarder, Samaria; delegates from Canada and the Middle West headed by Montreal, St. Louis and Detroit have sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner, Montcalm from Montreal, and delegations from the South headed by Houston, Tex., have sailed on the French liner, De La Salle from Houston.

CROWDS AT DOCK

Delegates from Southern California arrived in New York City Tuesday. Reservations for the entire party had been made at the Commodore Hotel through the courtesy of the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel. They were entertained in the afternoon by the Advertising Club of New York in its palatial club quarters on Thirty-fifth street and Park avenue. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in looking over the city. A large crowd was down at the docks yesterday to bid bon voyage to the delegates from Southern California and those on the Lancastria from other clubs of the country.

The words "American Advertising Clubs" were painted in immense white letters on both sides of the black hull of the ship so that they were visible for a great distance. Pictures were taken by all the newspapers and news services of the departure of the Lancastria for feature news articles. This is the first time in the history of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world that the annual convention has been held outside of the United States. The Los Angeles delegation is going to London with the object in view of obtaining the convention in Los Angeles in 1932 during which year the Olympic Games will be held in Los Angeles.

THE BLUE PENCIL

Los Angeles and Southern California are going to be advertised extensively on the ocean trip. A special issue of the "Blue Pencil," the official organ of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles, was published and taken on the trip to be given out on the ship to delegates from other cities. Samples of Southern California fruits, canned foods and manufactured articles of clothing, etc., also were taken to be distributed on the boat and on Los Angeles night motion-pictures will be shown depicting the growth of this section of the United States.

Bryan Asked to Get Convention to Another City

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) July 3.—William J. Bryan's influence to effect adjournment of the Democratic National Convention, to meet in another city, is sought in a telegram to the Commoner, sent tonight by John W. Gaines and John A. Pitts, Nashville Democrats.

The message charged the New York galleries with "insulting our party and our nation," and said the delegates were "exhausted and need time for rest and matured, second thought."

STATE FARMER-LABOR AID FOR LA FOLLETTE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The executive committee of the Farmer-Labor party in California has repudiated the recent third party convention in St. Paul and its candidates for President and Vice-President and has pledged itself to support United States Senator La Follette for the Presidency, it was announced today by George G. Kidwell, secretary of the committee. A meeting of the full State committee of the party has been called for San Francisco on the 13th inst., to consider the action of the executive committee and to pass on a program for a lively campaign for Senator La Follette in California.

According to Kidwell, the party in California is watching the outcome of the Cleveland conference for progressive political action with keen interest and is prepared to stand back of the decision of that conference as far as lies in its power to do so.

"The St. Paul convention tended to disorganize rather than organize the progressive movement and failed to express the progressive ideals," Kidwell said.

JAPAN WILL PUNISH FLAG DESECRATER

Law Governing Insult to Nation Will be Invoked by Tokio Authorities

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, July 3.—The man who stole the American flag from the Embassy here recently, arrested at Osaka yesterday, will reach Tokio today, and following an examination at the police station, the disfigured flag will be returned to the Embassy. The man is an anaemic, nervously afflicted youth of 21, evidently slightly deranged. He was injured in the recent earthquake and was rescued by the police, since when he resolved to "do something heroic before he died for his country." He joined a reactionary organization formed to fight the spread of Communism, which organization committed a number of outrages against suspected reds during the earthquake.

Under Japanese law, the nation has been insulted and has the right to name a jail penalty of two years maximum. The Embassy has not decided on what action to take, but the Foreign Office says the youth must serve the term in order to prevent others from emulating him.

There is great relief in official circles that America views the flag incident so calmly.

BOLHEVISM NOT WORRY TO CHINESE

Tried Socialism 1000 Years Ago; Didn't Work Out, Says Speaker

China is in little danger of turning Bolshevik, said Garner Curran in an address yesterday before the World Traders at luncheon in the Turkish Village Cafe.

"China has lately signed a treaty with Russia," he said, "but this should not alarm us, as the Chinese are the keenest business men in the world and are not at all interested in the customer's religion or his form of government if there is any profit in a trade."

Also, he said, the Chinese themselves have tried state socialism and found it wanting. This was in the Sung Dynasty (960 to 1127 A. D.) when the state took charge of commerce, industry and agriculture, regulated daily wages and the price of merchandise and installed old age pensions, but the system was given up after ten years of failure.

"The system of civil government in operation in the Chinese villages today is very democratic and similar to that adopted by the early settlers in the New England States," said the speaker.

"Let us keep faith with the Chinese and aid them in establishing a true republican form of government. The greatest danger lies in ourselves. Is our government above reproach? Are we living up to our high ideals? Let us put our own house in order and so conduct ourselves that other nationals will be glad to adopt our methods of living without missionary effort.

"America with China's help in man power and resources can preserve the peace of the Pacific, so it behooves us to retain that great nation's friendship and confidence, which we have justly earned by past performances as well as promises," the speaker concluded.

G. Hohenthal spoke on the banking conditions in Mexico.

CHILD WINS IN CONTEST OVER WILL

Court Rules Instrument Made Before Birth Does Not Impair Rights

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 3.—The will of a father made before the birth of a child cannot cut off the child from its inheritance, under the laws of Texas, according to the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals in affirming the judgment of the District Court of Palo Pinto county. The opinion was written by Chief Justice W. S. Fly of San Antonio, Wednesday.

The bulk of the estate of W. F. Martin was left to Mrs. M. M. Taylor, a sister. The will was contested by Mrs. Willie L. Martin, the widow, for her son, T. O. Martin, who was born after the will was executed. The child was born in 1918, two years after Martin executed the will in question. Martin died suddenly in 1921.

NO EXCLUSION FUSS IN HAWAII

Japanese Not Excited Much About Immigration

Merchants See Futility of American Boycott

Foreign Prejudice Rapidly Disappearing Now

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONOLULU, July 3.—No disorder and little agitation has been caused here by the passage of the Immigration bill by Congress.

Naturally the legislation was not favored by the large Japanese element in Hawaii, and a substantial proportion of Americans felt that Congress was abrupt and hasty. However, against this, there is a strong feeling that Congress acted for the best interests of the country and in response to a nation-wide movement for selective immigration.

In Hawaii, the emphasis has always been on race harmony, and the spirit of tolerance which has long been manifest in race matters has helped to allay any active protest against the exclusion clause. No demonstrations, either anti-Japanese or anti-American, have occurred. Some of the Japanese language papers have been sharp in their criticism of Congress but no excitement has followed and Japanese and Americans have kept on doing business together as usual.

In fact, the Japanese business men here are openly against the boycott of American goods in Japan. The Japanese Chamber of Commerce here passed a resolution protesting against such a boycott and has forwarded it by cable to Japan.

EFFECT OF BOYCOTT

Such a boycott as is proposed inevitably would react against Japanese business men in Hawaii. Already the imports of Japanese goods into Hawaii are beginning to dwindle. This is because the second generation of Japanese here—those born in the islands—invariably want American goods, and they adopt American manners and customs with an ease and finality which would be astonishing to many Nipponese holding with the theory, "Once a Japanese, always a Japanese."

A few years ago Japanese rice was demanded by virtually all the Japanese here. Not only would they refuse Hawaiian rice, but even that grown in China, Formosa and Indo-China. Now they are readily eating California rice.

JAPAN EXPORTS LIGHT

This is only one instance of many that might be cited to show that the large Japanese population in Hawaii is turning toward American goods, which tends directly to decrease the business transacted between Hawaii and Japan. Local Japanese business men in recent years have been increasingly concerned with the tendency of the imports from Japan to fall lower and lower. The exports from Hawaii to Japan are very small—almost negligible.

Snuff Sneezes Reveal Illegal Entry by Aliens

The use of snuff by truck drivers engaged in smuggling debarred aliens across the Mexican border was generally banned yesterday following the arrest of four Hindus and two Mexicans at Indio by immigration officials.

Directly to the addiction of a Mexican driver to the use of snuff may the detection and subsequent lodgment in the County Jail of the Hindus, as well as the detention of the two Mexicans, be charged, according to Immigration Officer Jack, who brought the prisoners to Los Angeles.

The truck, apparently carrying nothing more interesting than empty crates, was stopped by immigration officials at Indio and even as the Mexican escorts were glibly explaining that the crates constituted their cargo, a battery of sneezes emanated from the vehicle. Investigation revealed the four Hindus stretched flat in the bottom of the truck beneath the crates, all in the throes of the sneezes.

Those arrested were Gara Singh, Delepa Singh, Harnan Singh, Chanshal Singh, Jose Marx and Fernando Geraldo. All will be deported.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 3.—Dr. F. T. Fahlen, State Superintendent of Health, today wired recommendation to Gov. Hunt in Prescott that the quarantine restrictions against California be continued and not lifted next Monday as proposed. He based this action on report of a new outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease in Tuolumne county.

SACRAMENTO, July 3.—A new outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease, the first recorded in any part of the State for the past eight days, was reported today to the State Department of Agriculture from Tuolumne county. Infection, it appears from a brief report, is confined to one herd of 382 cattle in the quarantined area of the county.

The State of Washington's embargo against California products has been modified, the department was notified by telegrams today, to include Solano county in the free list. The telegram states that Washington will accept fruit and vegetables from Solano county if accompanied by fumigation certificates.

AIR MAIL IS FULFILLING PREDICTIONS

Planes Now Running With Regularity and Carrying Heavy Consignments

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 3.—Transcontinental mail planes were rushing through the air with business-like regularity today, the third day of the new coast-to-coast day-and-night air mail.

The heavy run of air mail continued, satisfying Col. Paul Henderson, Assistant Postmaster General of the air headquarters here, that business generally has found the new service helpful.

"To date the traffic between New York and San Francisco, is, of course, the heaviest," Col. Henderson said, "and that between Chicago and New York is second, with the mail carried between Chicago and San Francisco third in volume. As to the actual amount of mail despatched from cities, New York and San Francisco are virtually equal. Mail in about equal quantities is being carried east and west."

One package, westbound today from Cleveland to San Francisco, carried nearly $200 in postage.

FIRST AIR MAIL REACHES LOS ANGELES

The first consignment of mail delivered in Los Angeles via the newly instituted air mail service arrived yesterday and was distributed during the day at local destinations. The consignment arrived from the Atlantic seaboard on schedule.

This box will be collected at frequent intervals week days and an especial collection at 9:50 a.m. for the closest possible connection for air mail service. Sundays and holidays this air mail must be brought to the Arcade postoffice station by 10 a.m. for close connection. Week days patrons may have a close connection through station "C" at Ninth and Olive streets, or main postoffice at 9:20 a.m. The above connections answer for ordinary letter mail, the rate of postage being 8 cents per ounce for the first air mail zone, Los Angeles to Cheyenne, Wyo., or intermediate points; 16 cents per ounce from Los Angeles to Chicago, Ill., or intermediate points, and 24 cents per ounce from Los Angeles to New York, N. Y., or intermediate points.

NEW MEXICO IS FOR ESPEE PLAN

Grouping With Central Road Held Aid to State

New Outlet from Southwest is Seen in Merger

Resolution Urging Deal to be Acted Upon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO, July 3.—Resolutions requesting the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the application of the Southern Pacific Railroad to acquire the El Paso and Southwestern and to group the New Mexico Central Railroad regionally with the Southern Pacific, instead of with the Santa Fe, as tentatively done by the commission, will be acted upon by the City Council at Santa Fe early next week, according to a communication received here today.

S. C. Munoz, president of the New Mexico Central, points out that in the proposed merger, the New Mexico Central will form the connecting link between the Southern Pacific and the Mountain, Intermountain and Middle West Railroad territory, making Santa Fe an important gateway. He also states that the merger will result in a new competitive trunk line through New Mexico, building of the Rio Arriba extension of the Mexico Central as an outlet between Texas, New Mexico and Arizona and the Middle West through Pueblo, Denver and Santa Fe and the broad ganging of the D. and R. G., line from Santa Fe to Alamos.

Mr. Munoz strongly urges the merger and stresses the fact that grouping of the New Mexico Central with the Santa Fe eventually would mean the dismantling of the Central except the line between Willard and Kennedy, New Mexico, connecting the Santa Fe main line with the cutoff and no new construction or competitive arrangement for Northern Mexico, whereas the Central would at once become an important feeder for the Southern Pacific. It is said that the merger would mean building of the Albuquerque Eastern, connecting Albuquerque with the New Mexico Central at Moriarty.

MERGER INQUIRY BY ARIZONA IS LIKELY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 3.—A suggestion by Gov. Hunt that the Arizona Corporation Commission investigate the merger of the Southern Pacific and Southwestern Railway systems is to be considered at a commission meeting Saturday. Two of the commissioners are in Tucson today and the Governor will be in Prescott over the Fourth.

Gov. Hunt does not express active opposition to the merger plan, but states that he has respect for the opinion of James Douglas, who has declared against it. At the capitol it was stated that the Corporation Commission probably would intervene in the approaching hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, but mainly to make sure that the Southern Pacific, or Arizona Eastern, will be obligated firmly to complete the main line through Phoenix within two years.

Such a promise has been made by President Sproule of the Southern Pacific but it will be asked that it be stipulated in the certificate that may be granted for the new construction.

CONTROL OF POWER NOT FOR NATION

Hoover Declares That in Paper Before Conference in London

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, July 3.—Demands for Federal control of power development come from a lack of understanding of the problem, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce of the United States, declared today in a paper read before the World Power Conference.

"Federal regulation is not the road to the solution of the problem of interstate movement of power," Mr. Hoover said. "The best solution should be found in co-ordinating regulations between groups and States with, perhaps, voluntary assistance from the Federal government in securing this co-ordination."

Superpower, he continued, did not represent a gigantic and grinding trust, but co-operation between utilities. Abuses had arisen and would arise in the creation and operation of great agencies of production but the test of our economic and social system was its capacity to cure its own abuses. Government could best contribute to the betterment of our lives through stimulation of and co-operation with voluntary forces.

MANDATE SOUGHT IN HIGHWAY BOND SALE

CONCERNS WANT ISSUES WITHHELD FOR ERROR IN ADVERTISING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The Anglo and London-Paris National Bank and the Bank of Italy in San Francisco applied for a writ of mandate in the State Supreme Court today to compel State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson to deliver to them $3,000,000 in State highway bonds which they bought at public sale on June 24, last, and which Johnson is withholding because of asserted errors over the sale advertising.

An alternative writ directing Johnson either to deliver the bonds or appear in court next Tuesday and show cause why he should not do so, was handed down by the court.

The action followed a notice by the treasurer to the purchasers that inasmuch as the San Francisco Journal suspended publication before fulfilling a contract with the State to advertise the sale for the number of days stipulated by law, the delivery of the bonds would be illegal.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS TO HAVE MORE WATER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) July 3.—Great benefit has been received by the Navajo and Hopi Indians, northeast of Flagstaff, through governmental activities in developing water on the two reservations. Indian sheep on the two reserves, stretching into New Mexico, now number 1,246,000 head, cattle total 44,152 head and horses 67,772. About $270,000 has been expended in bettering the water supply of the Indians, who number 31,000. Wells drilled unmber 269, with 194 of them considered successful. The numerous dry wells were experimental, designed to extend the grazing area into localities where surface water is lacking. Especially in the western part of the reserves, the country is too well drained, cut by deep canyons that lead to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado or to the Little Colorado.

SHEEP ARE ADMITTED TO NATIONAL FORESTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The district forester at San Francisco has been authorized to issue emergency permits to allow 10,000 head of sheep to graze on the Sequoia National Forest and 10,000 head on the Sierra National Forest. The decision to issue them was brought about by the poor conditions of ranges because of the drought. The foot-and-mouth disease was another factor entering into the decision.

The permits will specify trailing routes and grazing areas, and each permittee must deposit funds to insure the employment of enough forest guards to control the movements of the sheep. Funds must also be guaranteed to repair any damage to roads and trails traveled by the sheep.

Desaire a Nuestros Aviadores en Oriente

SAIGON (China) Julio 3.—Parece que para una empresa británica no es aceptable el crédito del gobierno americano, aun después de haber consultado el asunto con Londres. Este incidente está siendo motivo de muchos comentarios en la Armada americana, sobre todo por el hecho de que ésta gastó sus reservas de combustible en conducir un nuevo avión desde Tokio hasta Akyab a bordo de un destroyer, para que el aviador inglés Stuart MacLaren pudiera continuar su vuelo.

Se necesitó del anticipo personal que de mil dólares en efectivo hizo Acton Poulet, gerente de la Standard Oil Company en Saigón, para que pudiera el contratorpedero Noa conseguir combustible suficiente para incorporarse con la flota asiatica.

Debido a la emergencia del viaje de Saigón a Tourane para llevar el nuevo motor del Teniente Smith, jefe del vuelo, el destroyer Noa se quedó aquí después de la partida de los aviadores circunnavegantes, pues no tenía combustible suficiente. La Standard Oil Company de ésta no tenía tampoco petróleo, pues todo está exclusivamente en manos de la Compañía Asiática de Petróleo, empresa subsidiaria francesa.

Cuando el Comandante Theobald se acercó al gerente local de esta última compañía, éste le manifestó que debía primero recabar consentimiento de la oficina de Londres, la que contestó diciendo por cable que sólo se vendiera petróleo por dinero contante. El Comandante Theobald y los oficiales sus compañeros registraron sus bolsillos, pero no pudieron completar la suma requerida. Entonces, Acton Poulet intervino y pagó la suma exigida por la compañía asiática, permitiendo así que el destroyer Noa zarpase rumbo al norte.

Los americanos de Saigón están indignados ante la negativa de Londres de conceder crédito a la Armada americana, y probablemente van a adoptar alguna resolución en el Consulado americano, con motivo de la celebración del Día de la Independencia.

Otro incidente penoso ha sido la indiferencia con que fueron tratados en Saigón los aviadores americanos. Cuando se presentaron el Teniente Smith y sus camaradas en un hotel continental de Indochina, se les negaron habitaciones porque no gastaban americana o prenda equivalente, y tuvieron que salirse muy corridos.

MONTERREY (Méjico) Julio 3. Para atender al aumento de tráfico de viajeros entre Laredo, Tejas, y la Ciudad de Méjico, los Ferrocarriles Nacionales van a poner un nuevo tren rápido entre los dos puntos citados tan luego como se hagan arreglos para conseguir el equipo adicional que se necesita. Aunque la vía está ya en buen estado, se la está recorriendo cuidadosamente y reforzándola en los puntos que tal requieren. El nuevo tren se detendrá tan sólo en las ciudades principales y el proyectado itinerario reducirá considerablemente el tiempo entre los dos puntos terminales. En Laredo habrá conexión con el International and Great Northern, que correrá trenes rápidos entre ese punto fronterizo y San Luis, en combinación con las líneas del Texas Pacific y del Iron Mountain.

Méjico en Posición Ventajosa Respecto a la Gran Bretaña

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Julio 3.—Opinase en general que Méjico tiene la ventaja en el asunto de paralización de relaciones con la Gran Bretaña, pues los intereses británicos en Méjico ascienden a muchos millones de libras esterlinas, al paso que las propiedades de Méjico en la Gran Bretaña son prácticamente nulas. A pesar de la aparente posición ventajosa de Méjico en la disputa, la Gran Bretaña parece haber ganado el primer asalto en la batalla diplomática empenada con motivo del mutuo no-reconocimiento.

Méjico se ha visto obligado a suspender los pagos de intereses sobre su empréstito exterior a causa de una resolución adversa dada por un comité de banqueros internacionales sobre otro propuesto empréstito. Se ha sabido que dicho nuevo empréstito, que Méjico necesita para hacer frente a imperiosas obligaciones interiores y exteriores, no pudo concertarse, porque los banqueros sostuvieron que el ochenta por ciento de los intereses, representados por Inglaterra, Francia y otras naciones europeas, pesaba más que la recomendación favorable del veinte por ciento que representan los banqueros americanos.

Con las elecciones presidenciales inmediatas, decidió Méjico que sería más político suspender el pago de las obligaciones extranjeras que "someterse a la fuerza inevitable". Las obligaciones domésticas, tales como el pago de varios millones de pesos de sueldos atrasados de empleados de gobierno, y de facturas que se deben a comerciantes de la Ciudad de Méjico, se reputan más urgentes, a causa de la grita de los acreedores.

Aquí se considera que la suspensión del pago de $17,500,000 de intereses vencidos de la deuda exterior es realmente un préstamo de los banqueros internacionales. Con todo, Méjico no se ha desentendido del convenio de Lamont, ni los banqueros han declarado a dicha nación deserta en sus pagos.

Méjico tiene la intención de seguir acumulando los derechos de exportación del petróleo para reanudar en lo futuro los pagos. Con esto se observará, según se hace observar, la amenaza de todas las compañías petroleras de que no hay que contar con sus pagos de impuestos, desde el momento en que no se están aplicando al objeto a que están destinados.

American in Tia Juana Jail Refused Pardon

Injury of Mexican Soldier Cause of Trouble

Governor Makes Personal Investigation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 3.—Stanley W. Dobson, a member of the San Diego fire department is held responsible for injuries inflicted on a Mexican soldier by Stanley's automobile and must face the consequences, according to a statement attributed to Gov. Rodrigues, for the northern district of Lower California, in a local Mexican newspaper.

An official investigation by the Governor led him to the conclusion, the statement says that while Dobson was not drunk at the time of the accident he had been drinking and was under the influence of liquor. Dobson's aunt, who was with him at the time, is said to have resisted arrest and to have blackened the eye of the Mexican policeman.

The Governor also was quoted as having expressed some doubt that the woman with the fireman was the latter's aunt, as claimed by Stanley. She was released a few hours after the accident, but Dobson has been held in the Tia Juana Jail for payment of $750 as a fine and $2000 as damages to the soldier.

"In view of the facts," the Governor's statement in the newspaper continued, I believe Dobson must continue to stay in jail until the sentence of the court is carried out. If a Mexican is arrested in the United States he must take his medicine. The fact that Dobson is a fire official does not alter the case."

Fire Chief Louis Almgren, who has interceded to obtain Dobson's release, said today he would continue his efforts to get the man out of the Tia Juana Jail.

City and Near-by Communities Announce Celebrations

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 3.—Observance of July 4 in San Diego and vicinity will be given over this year principally to the celebration of the completion of municipal improvement projects, although elaborate programs have been arranged at the different beach resorts.

Indications today were that an unusually large number of holiday visitors would be in the city over the three-day holiday, starting tomorrow.

The biggest celebration in the metropolitan district will take place at La Jolla, where the recent completion of a big hotel, a community hospital, street-lighting system, and the San Diego-La Jolla high-speed electric line will be the inspiration for a day of merry-making which has been heralded far and wide as "La Jolla-fication." Nearly every town and district in the county will be represented in a floral parade tomorrow morning. A display of fireworks tomorrow night will be the concluding feature.

At Coronado there will be a program of aquatic events and entertainment. Coronado Tent City, filled to capacity, is expected to attract one of the biggest holiday crowds in its history.

The customary bull fight is scheduled at Tia Juana, Solano Beach, thirty miles north of San Diego, the youngest community in the county, will be officially designated as a town tomorrow, having attained that status because of its growth in the last twelve months. An appropriate program has been arranged in honor of the event.

PROSPERITY PICNIC

"Business is Good" is Slogan of Merrymakers

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 3.—In an effort to emphasize that Southern California is still prosperous despite the industrious spreading of propaganda to the contrary in the Eastern States, a prosperity picnic and parade will be held by the Lions Club of Inglewood in mid-July, it is announced today by Ernst S. Dixon, chairman of the committee in charge.

Substantial prizes will be offered for the best incident of improved business conditions to be related at the luncheon by a club member, including one of $5 in gold by the First National Bank of Inglewood. The parade will be held through the business streets of this city, the club members and their families in decorated motor cars, and to Manhattan Beach, where the picnic luncheon will be held.

LEGION POST STAGES ATHLETIC EXPOSITION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SIERRA MADRE, July 3.—One of the best entertainments ever staged in the city of Sierra Madre was given here last night at the Women's clubhouse by the newly organized Sierra Madre post of the American Legion.

The main features of the show were Ed Buck Stone, millionaire cowboy wrestler and strong man, and Ed Griffo, Pasadena fireman, and former heavyweight wrestling champion of Australia. These men, who donated their services together with the Pasadena Fire Department Band to make the occasion a success, staged a three-fall wrestling exhibition, and strong man act that was more than appreciated by the large audience.

Maj. C. F. Floyd, commander of the local post, introduced the men in front of the City Hall, and Mr. Stone pulled the city's ten-ton fire truck with the band mounted upon it to the clubhouse, followed by a large and cheering crowd.

PASADENA, July 3.—Yes, we have plenty bananas we have plenty bananas, sang Howard Curtis, age 19, and his two younger companions as they walked down the street eating the fruit in question.

"But where did you get them?" chimed in Detectives Haighin and Decker, just as the second chorus was about to be sung. Frank Furuno's banana counter on East Colorado street had been robbed, it developed, and the trio finally admitted the theft.

The song will be finished in Juvenile Hall.

CONVICTS GET AWAY FROM CAMP

Second Escape Since Men Were Sent to Work on Road Near Bakersfield

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, July 3. — No trace of the two Folsom Penitentiary convicts who escaped from the prison road camp in Kern Canyon last night had been found by the Sheriff's office late today. Since the authorities were first notified of the break last night they have been scouring the country surrounding the prison camp, without avail.

The missing men are George Reynolds, 34, and James Voucow, 34. Reynolds is described at 5 feet 7 1-2 inches in height, weighs 137 pounds has blue eyes and dark brown hair. Voucow is 5 feet 6 1-2 inches in height, weighs 185 pounds and has dark brown hair.

This is the second escape from the prison camp. The first, however, since the arrival of the 100 convicts this week. Four prisoners stole two State automobiles and escaped less than two weeks ago. Two of them were recaptured in Los Angeles the day after the escape and the other two have not been apprehended.

MISFORTUNE KILLS

Man Brooding Over Reverses Drives to Death

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, July 3.—T. M. Jamison, a rancher of Fairmead, Madera county, about twenty-five miles from here, had a family of seven and for several weeks had been in a destitute condition. This morning, as he was brooding over his financial affairs, he drove an automobile occupied by three children onto the Southern Pacific tracks at Fairmead. Jamison and two of the children are dead and a third is quite seriously injured.

Before the man realized what he had done a Southern Pacific passenger train struck the automobile broadside, the four in the machine being thrown along the track for nearly 100 feet.

The cause of the tragedy did not become known for some time afterward, but questioning of the surviving child, aged about 12, revealed that Jamison had been talking about his financial condition to his children when the train struck them. His wife and two other children left early this morning for Sacramento, where they expected to obtain employment.

Bell, who fought in the "Devil's Den," and helped build a stone wall that still stands there today; Moses A. Luce, who left college to get into the melee; John C. Gipson, who fought on "Little Round Top," and William E. Allen, who battled in the sector where Gen. Reynolds fell.

SOUTHLAND CELEBRATES THE FOURTH

Great Crowds Flock to Sea and Mountains for Day of Fun and Frolic

VISALIA, July 3.—Tulare county mountains will be the rendezvous tomorrow of hundreds of persons, who will seek respite from the unseasonable heat of the valley. Guards will be posted near closed areas in the forest, while gas stations and auto clubs will further aid the forest service in spreading word of restrictions for protection, permits being issued to numerous open areas, where preparation has been made to entertain numerous visitors.

Giant Forest, Sequoia National Park, is perhaps planning the largest Fourth of July celebration, public initiation of Col. John R. White, park superintendent, by Visalia Legionnaires into Visalia Post No. 15, under the Gen. Sherman Big Tree, being the most prominent event in an extensive program, which opens with the morning gun at 6:00 and closes with a masque and costume ball at midnight.

Gen. Grant, California Hot Springs, Mineral King, Doyle's Camp Nelson, Camp Wishon and other points are staging three-day celebrations. Golf tournaments are feautres of the Fourth at California Hot Springs and Camp Nelson. Exeter Post, American Legion, is celebrating at McKay's Point. Indians at Auberry will be entertained by Baptists of Orosi, under direction of Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. King.

A "poisoless Fourth" will be observed in each city, owing to fear of fire from fireworks except in Visalia, where Chief of Police Court Smith will direct this phase of the kiddies' fun.

IN THE SAN JOAQUIN

FRESNO, July 3.—Eleven San Joaquin Valley towns will celebrate the Fourth of July tomorrow. For the first time since the foot-and-mouth epidemic broke out in the valley restrictions have been removed and the valley as a whole has taken on a festival appearance.

Workers of the Southern California Edison on its Sierra power development have declared a holiday for tomorrow and will gather at Big Creek, Fresno county, where the Edison Company maintains its supply base, for an old-fashioned celebration, which will include a ball game, rodeo, dancing, races and other contests.

The city of Fresno will hold its first Fourth of July celebration in many years. Plans for the affair were arranged by the Fresno Post of the American Legion.

Other communities to celebrate will be Turlock, Madera, Dos Palos, San Joaquin, Wasco, Merced, Modesto and Tehachepi.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT

REDLANDS, July 3.—Free and proud of it. Such seemed to be the battle cry of the vanguard of the holiday crowd that sailed through Redlands this afternoon in all varieties of automobiles bound for Bear Valley and other mountain points to spend the week end. Mountain men say it is going to be a record-breaking crowd. Even the weather man took a hand in making things pleasant for the mountain visitors for there was rain all through the mountains last night and yesterday so that the roads are wet down, there will be no dust and everything is lovely.

Camping places will be at a premium throughout the mountains by noon tomorrow, it is said. A crowd of more than 25,000 people will visit the San Bernardino resorts over the holiday, it is believed.

QUIET AT POMONA

POMONA, July 3.—Decorated in the national colors, Pomona presents a festive appearance on the eve of the nation's birthday, while in the air is an atmosphere of general expectancy as its citizens look forward to spending the holiday at the mountains, beaches or at the community picnic to be held in Ganesha Park.

Golfers will no doubt flock in large numbers to the grounds of the Mountain Meadows Country Club. There will be no other formal celebration outside of young America, who will shoot off his firecrackers unmolested by the local police.

SAN FERNANDO CELEBRATES

SAN FERNANDO, July 3.—The three-day rodeo at Newhall, the patriotic celebration at Owensmouth and the two-day carnival at Burbank constitute the Fourth of July demonstration planned for the valley communities. The other valley towns and settlements will take part in beach and mountain celebrations, picnics and outings as suits their pleasure. Business houses in general in all of the valley towns will close for the entire day, and many residents plan to carry the outing through Saturday and over Sunday.

SHIP FIRST GRAPES FROM KERN COUNTY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, July 3.—First grapes from Kern county this year were shipped today by Harker Cunningham of Weed Patch, who consigned fifty lugs of the Thompson seedless variety to Los Angeles markets. This is the earliest grape shipment in a period of years for this county. During 1923 the first grape shipment moved July 18; in 1922, July 19, and last year, July 6.

Harold Pomeroy, horticultural commissioner, stated that McFarland growers expect to ship a carload of grapes tomorrow from the Weed Patch and Shafter districts. It is expected that the first carload lot will be shipped Saturday.

Growers started picking cantaloupes in the Weed Patch district today. A carload of the melons will be shipped from McFarland tomorrow.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 3.—A light coupe was overturned and wrecked and two of three passengers were injured when the car struck and killed a large dog today at Washington Boulevard and Crestmore Place.

One of the passengers, G. K. Ordway, Woodrow Hotel, Los Angeles, was thrown through the roof of the coupe, suffering cuts that will disfigure him for life. The driver, Philip McCall, 1027 1-2 West Seventh street, Los Angeles, escaped unhurt and the third passenger, Miss Mary Stone, 11 Avenue 18, Venice, suffered a wrenched back. The injured pair were brought to the Emergency Hospital here and were later taken to their homes.

COMMUNITY SING

Redlands Stages First Get-Together Meet

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, July 3.—Redlands got together on a great community effort last night when more than 3000 persons filled the great outdoor amphitheater here for the first community sing. Gage Christopher of Los Angeles, who is to direct the sings every Wednesday night during the summer months, was in charge.

The sing was featured by a visit from a large group of Hollywood people who were guests of honor at a picnic at the Sylvan Park preceding the sing. They were welcomed by Mayor A. E. Brock and short talks were given by Mr. Christopher, Rev. John Wood of Grace Church, and H. H. Garstin of the Kiwanis Club.

The amphitheater held one of the largest crowds it has ever seen. Mr. Christopher sang several songs, Miss Reba Rice sang and then came the community sing with such songs as "Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," and many other favorites. Miss Anna Blanch Foster, president of the community chorus, presided and Miss Ruth Grinnell was at the piano.

MAY ESTABLISH DIVORCE RECORD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA ANA, July 3.—June concluded with 490 couples, a record number, taking the marital path here, but July, on the contrary, county clerk officials declared today, has started out to shatter all divorce totals.

Heading the list of those who would be free was Monica Flores of Santa Ana, who made the sensational charge her husband coerced her into marriage. He forced her to go to Riverside in an automobile, she stated, where the ceremony was performed. She left him immediately, she claimed.

SECOND ARREST ON MOONSHINING CHARGE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OXNARD, July 3.—Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Born, 2843 Eleventh street, are at liberty on $2000 bail on charges of manufacturing liquor. When officers visited the house late last night a thirty-gallon still was found in operation. It was necessary for the dry agents to threaten breaking in the door before Born would admit them.

Born admitted to police that he had been raided by county officers at his home last week, and that he had been awaiting hearing on similar charges when the above-mentioned amount of money was put up to assure his appearance.

Committee to Aid Officials in City Feud

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, July 3.—In an effort to settle peaceably the dispute over the question of whether or not Alhambra owes Pasadena $34,000 as its share of constructing the outfall sewer from the treatment plant in this city to Rio Hondo, a committee was appointed by the local Chamber of Commerce today to go into the matter thoroughly and co-operate with the City Commission in coming to a decision.

J. Lloyd Moore, new City Manager of Alhambra, who assumed his office this week just at the beginning of the threatened turmoil between the two cities, said today that there was no reason why this community and Pasadena should not be the best of friends.

Although City Manager Moore, Kushner of Pasadena informed the local chamber in an unofficial ultimatum recently that this city would lose its right to participate in the sewer farm if it did not pay a share in the cost of the construction of the outfall line, and although Grant M. Lorraine, City Manager of Alhambra at that time, said that Alhambra would not and could not pay the bill, Mr. Moore asserted that he believed a peaceful settlement could be worked out shortly and a threatened break in municipal relations between the neighboring communities be avoided.

FAVOR ANNEXATION

Santa Monica Residents to Launch Campaign

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 3.—Nearly 100 property owners and voters in sympathy with the annexation proposal of this city to Los Angeles met in the Miramar Hotel last night and urged action by voters on the issue.

A tentative organization of committees to ascertain the feeling of property owners on the question has been completed, according to E. Blenkhorn, secretary of the Santa Monica Multiple Listing Board, who declared that the proannexation organization is only in an embryo stage, and that no public announcement of plans for an intensive campaign on the issue could be made at this time.

It is the intention of supporters of the annexation question, Mr. Blenkhorn intimated, to bring the issue before voters only after a strong organization of those in sympathy with the proposed annexation of the city has been formed, and a rigid campaign plan agreed upon.

BOY TRESSPASSER SHOT BY RANCHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 3.—Shot by an irate rancher when he and three companions trespassed in an apricot orchard at Chula Vista, Harry Baeder, aged 18, of that city, was said by attending physicians today to be near death. Bertram Hamblin, the rancher, gave himself up to the authorities and is held in the Chula Vista jail pending the outcome of Baeder's wound.

Hamblin, who was married only Monday, said he had experienced considerable trouble from youthful trespassers, and was determined to protect his property. He fired four shots at the boys, three going wild and one striking Baeder in the head and lodging at the base of the brain.

FACE DEATH CHARGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, July 3.—W. E. Russell and C. E. Robertson, who figured in a fatal accident near Camarillo several days ago, today face charges of manslaughter. C. E. Robertson was first charged with reckless driving and released on $500 bail.

Later the District Attorney's office made an investigation and brought the manslaughter charges against the two men who were in the automobile at the time of the accident, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Russell and the serious injury of Mrs. Robertson, who is still in a local hospital.

LETS SEWER CONTRACT

Los Angeles Firm Lowest Bidder for Burbank Job

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, July 3.—City Trustees have awarded the contract for the construction of the municipal sewer system to the Janes Construction Company of Los Angeles on its bid of $214,451.65. This was $150,000 lower than the highest bid received.

The plans are to start work just as soon as the contract can be legally executed. The contract includes the construction of a septic disposal tank, laying of main trunk line and the installation of three pumping stations. One of these will be located on Flower street, a second will be on Varney and the third on Scott Road. For the present laterals will be installed only in the business district.

Practically the entire work will be accomplished under the improvement act of 1911. Bonds were voted last year for $25,000, but nearly all of this was used in the acquisition of a site for the disposal plant. The ultimate intention is to dispose of the effluent through the Los Angeles city San Fernando Valley outfall, but it is estimated that it will be at least five years before that connection can be made.

LET PREACHER PREACH

No Provision in Charter to Stop Religious Meeting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, July 3.—After searching the Bakersfield city charter for a clause which would give the City Welfare Commission power to restrict religious meetings in Bakersfield, Police Judge C. F. Baughan today announced that he was unable to find any such provision and refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Rev. R. L. Erickson.

Mr. Erickson was placed under arrest by H. C. McCune last night while conducting a revival meeting at Eighteenth and N streets. Chief of Police Horace Dupes, however, refused to look him up until a warrant or complaint had been issued.

"I gave him a permit to hold his meetings there, and I would do so again as long as he conducts them in an orderly manner," declared Chief Dupes, when Welfare Commissioner McCune demanded that Mr. Erickson be put in jail.

QUIET HOLIDAY IN PROSPECT AT OXNARD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

OXNARD, July 3.—Oxnard will experience a quiet Fourth of July. The entire county has been invited to Ventura where the American Legion is staging a big celebration. A parade of 130 floats will start the day's activities and interesting events are to follow until midnight.

Through an order issued by the City Trustees Oxnarders are forbidden to set off firecrackers or fireworks of any description on the city streets, in front or back yards. Two places have been designated for this purpose, the Community Center Playgrounds and the Oxnard Boulevard Playground, where children may play with fireworks to their hearts' content.

The extreme fire hazard here at this time is the cause for the Trustees' action. It is feared that with the serious water shortage at hand and the American Beet Sugar Company factory supplying the city with water that if a fire was started a serious conflagration might result.

SELLS THEATER INTERESTS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MAYWOOD, July 3.—Involving a consideration of about $50,000, Dr. T. J. DeVaughn of Huntington Park has disposed of his interest in the Maybell Theater, and the new Alcazar Theater, the latter being in course of construction, to his partner, J. V. Spaugh, who will continue with the construction of the Alcazar, the Maybell having been in operation for several years. The theater is located on Baker avenue. Dr. DeVaughn is the owner of the Mission Hospital near Huntington Park, and will devote his entire time to that institution, which has just recently been enlarged.

Pasadena Congregation Soon to Have Beautiful House of Worship

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 3.—Plans have been completed and work will be started soon on a beautiful new church building for the United Presbyterians on South Lake avenue, it was made known today. The new edifice when completed will represent an investment of $125,000, it is said. Bids for construction work will be received by the church officials on the 11th inst.

According to the plans, the church will be a modern structure of Gothic architecture. It will be built of reinforced concrete with ornamental stone trimmings, and will have a floor space of 150 feet. In addition to the church auditorium there will be a Sunday-school room, social hall and a gymnasium. Shower baths, kitchen and a pastor's study will be other modern features.

The old church building on Colorado street will b etorn down and all valuable wreckage will be sold, it was announced. Until the new building is completed the congregation will meet in the Shakespeare clubhouse. Rev. J. A. Campbell, present pastor, has been instrumental in getting the work started on the new church.

Victim of Airplane Crash Dies Suddenly

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

POMONA, July 3.—After having narrowly escaped death two weeks ago in an airplane fall near Pomona, Lester H. Holman, field representative for the Ku Klux Klan, dropped dead while talking to a friend on the Valley Boulevard just west of Pomona yesterday afternoon.

Holman was just last week released from the Pomona Valley Hospital, where he was confined by injuries which he received in the airplane fall in which his friend and pilot, John Kleimand was killed.

The dead man was born in Wafth twenty-eight years ago and spent most of his life in that city. Before taking up work for the Ku Klux Klan he was an automobile dealer in that city. His death was due to internal injuries sustained in the airplane accident, the doctors stated, and because he left the hospital contrary to the doctor's orders.

ADDS ZEST TO WEDDING FEAST

Crack of Six Shooter Speeds the Parting Guest

Officers Take Exception to Revival of the Past

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 3.—Early days of the adventurous West, when the hilarity of wedding guests knew no bounds, were recalled today with the arrest of Lake Barlow, a rancher living near Baldwin Lake in Big Bear Valley.

Barlow was master of ceremonies at a wedding held at his ranchhouse Wednesday night and before the revelry ended, he is said playfully attempted to attack the guests with a meat cleaver and sent another guest flying out across the hills texterously dodging the bullets from his revolver, according to information received by Sheriff Walter A. Shay. Barlow was held under $2000 bail when arraigned late today before Justice Clifford Lynn in the Big Bear Valley Court, housed in a rustic log cabin erected in the days when sheriffs rode on horses.

After midnight when the wedding supper had been served and the guests had kissed the bride, Barlow became so hilarious that guests at the wedding hid their guns, according to the word received by Sheriff Shay. Deciding that the revelry should not be interrupted, Barlow flourished a meat cleaver and later escaped the house by himself, the sheriff learned.

That the celebration might have a touch of the wild and woolly and that Bear Valley knew when its residents were stalwarts and belles, he-men wore knickerbocker trousers, and striped socks. Barlow found his gun and fired five shots at a guest who had incurred his displeasure by merely suggesting that the wedding had been celebrated pretentiously, according to the sheriff.

Disgusted, Barlow hit out across the hills and was not arrested until today by Constable Hank Cross, himself a pioneer of the valley who frowns on knee-pants for men and quiet wedding ceremonies.

CAR HITS HEAVY TRUCK

Driver Seriously Injured In Culver City Smash

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

CULVER CITY, July 3.—Seven passengers on a Venice short line car were badly shaken, and Motorman Gregg, Santa Monica truck driver, was perhaps fatally injured when the truck he was driving was completely demolished at the intersection of National Boulevard and the Venice short line tracks shortly before noon today.

Although several windows in the street car were broken, none of the passengers were injured, as a result of the impact.

Gregg, according to witnesses, drove his heavy truck loaded with brick directly in the path of the Venice-bound train. He was thrown more than twenty feet and sustained a fractured skull, which is the opinion of the Culver City Receival may result in his death.

GODSHALL, FERRANDINI TO TACKLE CHAMPIONS

BY BILL HENRY

The annual North vs. South battle for the Pacific Coast tennis championship in men's doubles, will be played this afternoon as advertised on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club but with a slight change in the cast of characters. Howard and Bob Kinsey of San Francisco will be there battling for the fourth consecutive victory, but the local end will be upheld by Harold Godshall and Tom Ferrandini, who overturned the applecart of Messrs. Snodgrass and Wesbrook in a ferociously contested five-set match yesterday, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7, 0-6, 6-4.

The Kinseys put out Bob Allen and Wallace Bates, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1, 1:30 sharp with an exhibition mixed doubles contest in which Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Jim Davies will play Mrs. Ethel Sutton Bruce and Phil Neer. Following this contest the finals of the Pacific Coast doubles between the Kinsey brothers, holders, and Godshall and Ferrandini', challengers, will be played. Tea will be served in the clubhouse following the match.

Tomorrow morning the Kinsey brothers and Snodgrass and Wesbrook will leave for the national play court championship tournament at St. Louis. Should Godshall and Ferrandini be victorious over the Kinseys, they would likewise make the trip east.

MURPHY FAVORITE IN RACE

Expect Hot Competition in Kansas City Classic Today; Milton Gets Pole

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, July 3.—With fifteen speed monarchs each waiting impatiently for the moment when they can push a heavy foot on the throttle, everything is in readiness for the semiannual auto classic on the Kansas City speedway here tomorrow, which will be a 250-mile affair with $36,000 in prizes and points for the national championship going to the leaders.

Most of the drivers wheeled their mounts around the track in short workouts today, the last before they tune up for the race tomorrow. Eddie Hearne, 1923 national champion, will not be among the competitors, having recently retired from the hazardous profession, but Jimmy Murphy and Tommy Milton, 1922 and 1921 titleholders, respectively, will be on hand, and with Bennet Hill, Frank Elliott, Harry Hartz, Harlan Fengler, Joe Boyer, winner of the recent Indianapolis race, Ernie Ansterberg, Earl Cooper, Fred Comer and numerous other world-famous pilots in the running the race should be one of the most bitterly contested in years.

Milton won the pole by virtue of his brilliant feat in breaking the track record with a lap at 122.3 miles per hour Wednesday, while Boyer and Ansterberg have the next best positions. Fred J. Wagner of Los Angeles, an official in the American Automobile Association, will wave the flags.

As usual, three of the drivers rule slight favorites, Jimmy Murphy being the popular choice with Milton and Hartz having plenty of backers.

AEsop at Play

An Athenian once found AEsop joining merrily in the sports of some children. He ridiculed him for his want of gravity, and AEsop good-temperedly took up a bow, unstrung it, and laid it at his feet. "There, friend," said he, "that bow, if kept always strained, would lose its spring, and probably snap. Let it go free sometimes, and it will be fitter for use when it is wanted."

PADDOCK DRAWS TOUGH HEATS

Formidable Rivals in Trials for Olympic Sprints

American Distance Men Also Find Real Competition

Boxers Give Blood to Save Yankee Boxer

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 3.—With few exceptions, the American runners have been favorably placed in the drawings announced today for the Olympic track and field championships which will be held next week at the Colombes Stadium.

Under the "seeded" system of drawing, scattering the stars throughout the trials, no two of Uncle Sam's cracks will oppose each other in first heats, but several of the runners have drawn strong opponents.

Charles W. Paddock, the Olympic 100-meter champion, has drawn formidable rivals in both sprints, meeting in the 100-meter dash Catalon, the Filipino flash, who is credited with 9 4-5 seconds for the 100 yards, and Harold M. Abrahams, the Cambridge star, and leading British sprinter, in the 200-meter dash.

NO DANGER

Inasmuch as the first two men will qualify in each of the first trials for the semifinals, there is little likelihood that the Californian will be in danger of failing to qualify even if the unexpected should happen and he is beaten by one or the other of his strong opponents.

Other outstanding instances of encounters of American athletes with prominent fores occur in the distance events. Marven Rick, New York A. C., in the 3000-meter steeplechase will meet Elvin Wide, the Swedish star, and Willie Ritola, the Finnish-American ace, while John Romig, Penn State, in the 5000-meter race, oddly enough, will encounter the same pair of Scandinavians.

Rick also has a third rival in Ryan, the widely heralded Irish steeplechaser.

In the 1500 meters, Ray Buker, Illinois A. C., and W. O. Spencer, Mississippi A. & M., have been drawn against two British stars, the former meeting H. M. Stallard, noted Cambridge crack, and the latter opposing D. J. A. Lowe, also a Cambridge man.

Lloyd Hahn, Boston A.A., and Watson, Illinois A.C., the other Americans in this race, should have an easy prospect to qualify, Hahn meeting the only opponent of note in Llewendahl, Finland.

The only opponent of note in Llewendahl, Finland, Nurmi, Finland's ace, will also have an easy path to the finals in the 1500, which he will run together with the 5000 meters finals on the same afternoon, the 10th inst., but he is not drawn for the 800 meters.

Aside from Paddock, the American sprinters have no great obstacles to the semifinals. Neither Chester Bowman, Syracuse University; Loren Murchison, Newark A.C., nor Jackson V. Scholz, New York A.C., will meet any dangerous rivals in the 100-meter heats, though Murchison has Rivas, a promising Argentine, against him in the first heat.

LOOKS EASY

In the 200 meters, Bayes Norton, Yale, will oppose the Canadian star, Coaffe, who ran indoors in the United States last season under the colors of the Illinois A.C. Scholz meets Halme of Finland, and George Hill, U. of P., will toe the mark against Matthewman of England. But the Americans should have little difficulty in winning.

J. C. Taylor, New York A.C., in the 400 meters run, meets Dustan, the speedy South African, and Schuyler Enck, Penn State, draws Houghton of Great Britain, but otherwise the Americans in these two events have no prominent opposition in their trial heats, in which the first three qualify.

The only remaining features of the draw worthy of mention are in the 400-meters hurdles, where C. F. Coulter, University of Iowa, meets Wilet, Finnish star, and in the 110-meters hurdles, where F. B. Johnson, Illinois A.C., encounters the veteran Frenchman, Andre.

In the relay racing the United States has drawn Sweden, France and Latvia in the sixth heat of the 400-meters event and Spain, South Africa, Canada, Holland, Mexico and Poland in the third heat of the 1600 event. The Americans oppose France, Spain, Mexico and Sweden in their heat of the 3000-meter team race.

Despite the second straight rainy day, the Americans had a workout in the Colombes Stadium, the entire squad being put through their paces for two hours, but owing to the heavy condition of the track the coaches did not extend the runners. The majority of the men who have encountered minor ills and mishaps in rounding into condition, the coaches assert, looked better than ever today. Osborn, high jumper and decathlon star, has been the subject of repeated alarming reports arising from his visit to the hospital several days ago, but Coach Robertson declared tonight that the strain in his back is slight and he expects that a few days' rest will put the Chicago man in good condition.

The starter of the Olympic track games must be a real official. Whether the command "Get on your mark," "Get ready," be shouted in French, English or Swedish does not matter a great deal, because every contestant knows that there will be two commands and then the shot from the pistol.

WIMBLEDON FINALS TODAY

Helen Wills and Kathleen McKane Meet in Women's Singles; R. Norris Williams is Eliminated

BY JOHN STEELE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WIMBLEDON, July 3.—Lawn tennis history was made here today. It is the first time since the inception of the championships at Wimbledon, that a Frenchman reached the finals. A. Gobert, the famous French stylist, reached the all-comers final in 1913 but failed against A. W. Gore, who in turn was sent down to defeat by A. F. Wilding in the challenge round.

The present-day finals have a different aspect to the finals in which Gobert scored, for the challenge round which was abolished in 1922. R. LaCoste, the French wonder, who is only 20 years old, beat R. N. Williams by three sets to one. It was a remarkable achievement for one so young. Against Williams he revealed wonderful tennis temperment, and having to regard the supreme importance of the match he played remarkably calm.

His grat strength lay in his accuracy with the ground-strokes placing, which showed clever court craft. Williams also endeavored to place, but as so often happens with him, he failed by his inconsistency. The first set Williams won only the fourth game, but went 4-1 in the second set in which he served, and finally made some excellent cross-court volleys.

LaCoste pulled up to 2-4, only for the American to take the set by 6-3. LaCoste seldom varies his tactics, although when the occasion demanded he showed he was equally at home at the net, as he was in back of the court.

It was two until the third set,

AMERICAN POLOISTS WIN GAME

British Team is Badly Beaten by Convincing Score of 10 to 2

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

Paris, June 30.—Playing in a driving rainstorm, the United States great polo team continued their victorious march to the Olympic Games championship with a third straight win this afternoon, decisively beating Great Britain 10 goals to 2 upon a slippery, muddy, water-soaked field at St. Cloud Country Club. A shivering crowd of less than 400 dyed-in-the-wool enthusiasts, including Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, witnessed the match, thereby ruining what is estimated at $100,000 worth of feminine finery in hats, frocks and shoes by the rain which was whipped across the uncovered grandstands by a whistling wind.

Great surprise was expressed in the stands when the teams rode onto the field shortly after 5:00 o'clock. Despite the earnest protests and entreaties of the French Olympic committee, the American press and influential sportsmen and horsemen, the Americans stubbornly insisted on playing the matches as scheduled, stating that otherwise they would claim a victory by default. The British team, which just has arrived in France, finally was persuaded to play.

Despite the fact that the players carefully nursed their ponies upon the glassy turf, the match produced excellent polo. The American team work and riding was vastly superior to that of the British, who lost numerous opportunities to score by their inaccurate of hitting.

Once again Tommy Hitchcock, dashing American No. 2, lived up to the reputation given him by European critics that "Hitchcock is the best American polo player that ever came to Europe." Hitchcock scored five American goals himself, and his expert feeding of the ball to Elmer Boeske, No. 1, helped the latter score four times. Rodman Wanamaker, No. 4, scored once.

Hawthorne Race Opening Draws Many Chicagoan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 3.—Hawthorne race track opened its gates to a new racing season today. Some 15,000 Chicagoans responding in typical Chicago fashion made the journey to the West Side and helped make it a gala inaugural.

The biggest upset came in the running of the Inaugural Handicap when Judge Fryor, a sprinter of renown, fresh from the Far West, stepped out in front and stayed there to beat the best that Kentucky and the East could muster for the first day feature, which carried a $2500 value.

Did the crowd wager on the result? Yes. But it was strictly oral. No money passed and there was not the confusion and disorder that marked the opening a year ago.

Three bookmakers and four alleged customers of the odds givers were arrested.

LAUREN UPSON IN SEMIFINALS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TORONTO, July 3.—Thompson and Seymour Lyon, both of Toronto, Ross Somerville of London, Ont., and Lauren Upson of Sacramento, Cal., today won their way to the semifinals of the Canadian amateur golf championship on the Rosedale links. Thompson defeated C. C. Fraser of Kanawaki, Montreal, 4 and 3; Lyon triumphed over C. B. Grier of Mount Brune, Montreal, 3 and 1; Somerville won from Norman Scott of Mount Brune, 2 and 1, and Upson downed F. G. Hobbitzel of Sarnia, 5 and 4.

Lyon will meet Thompson and Somerville will clash with Upson in the upper semifinals tomorrow.

TWO WAYS OF CELEBRATING

Marguerite De la Motte, shown below violently waving the checkered flag, believes refereeing an auto race is about as exciting a way of spending the Fourth as any, while Johnny Kay, exhibited below in his Miller Special, is of the opinion that a fast car and a heavy foot combine to make a real celebration. Both will be seen in action at Culver City today, when an elaborate program of speed events will be pulled off at the speedway.

STAPP SMASHES RECORD

Babe's Performance Makes Him Favorite in Gruelling 100-Mile Auto Grind at Culver City Today

Indicative of the speed and gruelling competition which may be expected in the 100-mile Independence Sweepstakes on the Culver City Speedway today when sixteen of the fastest drivers in Southern California are to line up for the longest dirt-track race ever held on the Pacific Coast, Babe Stapp and Eddie Winfield, two of the outstanding favorites for first honors, yesterday smashed the track record of 46.2 seconds which had been established on Wednesday by Cliff Bergere in his famous Duesenberg which conquered Leon Duray at Bakersfield last week.

Stapp, who held the record until Bergere came to the front, set the fastest pace with a sensational 45s. lap that placed him outstanding among the candidates for the $5000 first-prize money and the special Green Mill trophy that will be presented by Ora Carewe, film star. Winfield's time was 46.1, bettering Bergere's by a tenth of a second. Both Stapp's time and that of Wnfield were made in the second day of the qualifying heats, which closed yesterday at 3 o'clock. Many drivers who were among the sixteen fastest on Wednesday were displaced yesterday by faster men and they will be among the twelve starters in the special ten-mile "firecracker" race for smaller cars. This event will start at 3 o'clock, to be followed by the sweepstakes.

BABE IS FAST

Stapp, driving his Hooker Ford at a furious pace, came close to the world record of 43.25, held jointly by Tommy Milton and Ralph De Palma.

Stapp's right to the lead will be seriously contested. Five other drivers are figured by the experts as standing an equal chance of victory. They are Winfield, in the Kant Skore Special, which placed second in the qualifying heats; Cliff Bergere, winner of the Bakersfield race last week, who will drive a Duesenberg; Fred Frame, in his new Little Joe Brady; Steve Elmore, in the Miller No. 4, which won the Decoration Day race at San Luis Obispo, and Frank Lockhart.

ENTERS LATE

The latter, who entered at the last moment yesterday, will drive the famous Anglin and Sund "101" which made such a reputation at Ascot with Jack Petticord at the wheel.

The track has just been oiled and is fast and free from dust.

Following are the entrants and the order in which they will line up for the starter's gun in the 100-mile event:

16	Babe Stapp	Hooker Special
18	Eddie Winfield	Kant Skore Special
9	Cliff Bergere	Duesenberg
12	Fred Frame	Little Joe Brady
4	Steve Elmore	Miller

VERNON DARK TUESDAY

When Bert Colima wrapped his left hand and arm around Mickey Rockson's head last Tuesday night at Vernon in the second round, he didn't realize what a monkey wrench he was throwing into the machinery which operates Jack Doyle's popular boxing arena. As a result of the punch, he jimmed up his hand and shoulder to such an extent that his physician refuses to permit him to do any boxing until next week and has positively declined to approve his appearance in the ring against Dave Shade because of the danger of permanent injury.

With no other available opponent in sight, in condition to face the great California welterweight, officials of the club decided not to take a chance with an inferior fighter against Shade so have announced that the Vernon arena will be closed next Tuesday night, and if Colima's hand and arm respond to treatment, will stage the show the following week or have some other opponent ready by that time.

Shade was well pleased with the postponement, asserting that the delay will give him more time to become acclimated and re-acquaint himself with the various angles of the four-round game. He will continue his training at the Lyceum gymnasium each day and expects to be in the finest kind of shape when he gets into action on July 8.

Club officials declare they could have staged other contests as a main event but Vernon fans are expecting to see Shade and until the club can present the former California, the house will be dark.

During the layoff the club is installing a roof sprinkling system that will assist the regular ventilation system in cooling the big building.

Lee Mallory, brother of "Memphis Bill" Mallory, the Yale catcher and fullback, like his elder brother, is a baseball and football player. He was captain and catcher of this year's Pomfret School nine, and he played end on the eleven last fall. He will enter Yale in September.

PROUGH VICTOR IN MOUND DUEL

Shellenback is Bested by Senator Veteran

McNeely Saves Game With Brilliant Catch

Sacramento Scores Winning Tally in Eighth

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Old Bill Prough outpitched Frank Shellenback in a heaving duel yesterday to give the Senators a 3-to-2 victory over Vernon in third game of the series. The win gave Sacramento a 2-to-1 edge over the locals in this week's eight-game fracas.

It looks as though Col. Pick has discovered a way to beat Bill Essick's prides if the results of the last two games are any criterion. All Pick has to do is shoot an old-timer at the Bengals and they fade away like the climax at the end of a movie. Wednesday, Charley Hall, who has frolicked on earth for forty summers, set the Bengals down like he would an empty stein in the old days, while in yesterday's game Prough, who is old enough to remember way back when the Oaks won a pennant, allowed the locals but seven hits. Vernon is due to win today for Pick has no more ancient hurlers to shoot at the Tigers.

JUST LIKE OLD DAYS

Yesterday's tilt was a real one to watch and was, in the words of the famous movie star, Larry McGrath, just "like the ones they used to play in the old days" when baseball fans thought the rabbit ball had something to do with Easter.

Chet Chadbourne and Earl McNeely, rival center fielders, pulled off some sensational catches which drew down for them the plaudits of the assembled multitude. McNeely saved Prough's bacon in the eighth when he made a sensational running catch of Hannah's drive to center off the fence, banging up against the barrier with a thud that was heard back in New York above the din of the Democratic convention after snagging the liner. There were two out at the time and Blakesley was on second base with the tying run. Chadbourne robbed Siglin of a double in the fifth, but he made the difficult catch look so easy, as Chad has a way of doing, that most of those present didn't appreciate it.

The Tigers had Prough perspiring red perspiration before the game was over, putting on a rally in the ninth that gave promise of extra innings. Rod Murphy, whose hitting of late has caused opposing teams much woe, started the home half of the ninth with a single to right and was sacrificed to second by Wee Griffin. Pete Schneider did nothing to help the cause, his best being a pop fly to Hemingway.

TO DEDICATE HARDING LINKS

Appropriate Ceremonies Will be Held This Morning

Johnny Mescal Defending His City Championship

Talented Field of Golfers Entered in Tourney

BY CHARLES WEST

With Johnny Mescal of Rancho defending his city golf championship against a field of splendid players, the annual battle for the Los Angeles men's golf title opens this morning on the Warren G. Harding municipal links at Griffith Park. Late yesterday almost 100 potential champions had signed up, and well over 200 are expected to qualify today, tomorrow and Sunday, the three days set aside for medal play.

The gates will be opened at 4:45 a.m., today and Sunday to take care of the huge holiday crowd of golfers, and the municipal course will undoubtedly be busy until dusk. At 10 a.m. the official dedication of the municipal links to Warren G. Harding will take place, with the unveiling of a tablet and short speeches by Mayor Cryer, Boyle Workman, C. W. Guerin and Thomas P. White. J. H. Alverd will be in charge of the ceremony, and will introduce the speakers.

In addition to Mescal, who is granted an excellent chance to retain his laurels, Harold Thompson of Glendale, recent conqueror of Jack Neville, has signed up, as have Lonnie Conrad and Earl Neitzel of the Hollywood Country Club. Among other low handicap players expected to make a strong bid for the title are A. R. Cox, Louis Bauer, Arthur Rey, Ed Sorenson, Glen Waite, H. C. Taylor, Russell Thompson and Fuller Thompson.

Match play will progress a round each week, beginning the 12th inst., and continuing until the finals, which will be played over thirty-six holes. Several flights will be drawn in addition to the championship flight, with defeated eights for those eliminated in the first round of play. Sixteen will qualify for the championship flight. Many trophies have been put up for competition in the various flights, while prizes will be awarded for the low net and low gross scores in the medal round as well.

The course is in the best of condition, the greens having received particular care, having been closed for several weeks, and are said to be perfectly true. Contestants will be permitted to start at their convenience in match play, the manager of the club assigning starting times by telephone.

RAIN PUTS STOP TO WESTERN NET PLAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—Rain halted the western tennis tournament here today after William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, had entered the semifinals with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 victory over George Lott, Chicago's national junior champion. The Tilden-Lott match was the only one completed today, although Gerald Patterson, the Australian star, won a set from Louis Kuhler, Ohio champion, by a 6-3 score before the showers came up.

The matches will be played tomorrow morning and the regular schedule continued in the afternoon.

BULL FIGHT ON FOR TODAY

Spanish Sport Selected to Celebrate the Fourth in Interesting Program at Topanga Beach

Refugio Hernandez Cuco, the most popular bull-fight fighter of Spain, will be the featured attraction of the sensational program lined up for the bull fight and rodeo at Cooper's Ranch, Topanga Beach, this week-end.

The series of fights started yesterday, and will continue today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Cuco is heralded in Spain as the champion of champions in that country's most beloved sport—bull fighting and upon his last appearance there was presented with the King's medal, the highest honor bestowed upon members of his precarious vocation.

Incidentally, Cuco is the same bull fighter that saved a man's life at the Ince studios two weeks ago when a maddened bull broke loose during a scene.

Scores of Mexico's most prominent picaderos, toreadors and matadors have been chosen to furnish thrills for the spectators. In conjunction with the thrilling bull fights, one of the biggest rodeo programs ever attempted will be presented. Bud Crone, well-known Wild West circus performer will enter hundreds of his tempered bronchos along with scores of other animals.

A special permit was needed to stage the bull fights and considerable difficulty was encountered to secure this permission.

Thousands who have read in books and witnessed on the screen these prohibited exhibitions, are expected to attend.

YANK FENCER ELIMINATED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 3.—The last semi-final matches in the Olympic fencing foil competition today resulted in the elimination of America's last contender, George C. Calnan of the United States Navy, and in the qualification for the final round of Larraz of Argentina, who won three of his five matches brilliantly and lost the other two by flukes. The final round will be completed tomorrow.

Calnan far below yesterday's form, could beat only the unfortunate Lorentzen of Norway, who has been beaten by everyody in the tournament. The American representative showed considerale fatigue and nervousness. Caittau of France was the star of the day, winning all of his five matches.

The finals tomorrow will be fought in twenty-eight matches, twenty in the afternoon and eight in the evening.

The following have qualified:

PLAY FINALS AT WIMBLEDON

but after Lacoste had broken through with a service in the sixth game, and led by 4-2, rain fell and interrupted the play for the first time in Wimbledon this season. After an interval of an hour and a half, the game was resumed and LaCoste won quickly the last two games to win the third set.

In the early stages of the fourth set, Williams was at his best, by brilliant service and academic placing to the side lines with his ground strokes and good volleying took him to 6-3, and then developed his erratic tendencies. LaCoste carried on, and became a little more sure with his ground strokes and drew to a level score of 3-3, then completing by winning the six games of the set, and match amidst loud applause, the score being 6-3.

In the second men's singles of the semifinal another record was created for as the result, another Frenchman will be in the final. J. Borotra, who holds the French championship, beat the South African, L. R. Raymond, by straight sets in a match which was played nearly throughout a drizzling rain. Despite the damp court, Borotra, who won, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5, displayed marvelous agility and it was his exceptional speed afoot that enabled him again and again to cut off his opponent's hard drives.

Miss Helen Wills reached her second final in the ladies' doubles when she and Mrs. Wightman beat the other American pair, Miss E. Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup in the second semifinal by 8-6, 6-4. Mrs. Jessup and Mrs. Wightman did the major portion of volleying for their respective sides, while Miss Goss and Miss Wills preferred for the most part to stay back. Miss Wills was clever in making openings for her partner and revealed fine stroke control.

In the finals Miss Wills and Mrs. Wightman will have opposing them the internationals, Miss K. McKane and Mrs. Covell, who in the semifinal had a fine match with Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, before winning by 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Mrs. Chambers, former champion, played extremely well and received good support from her partner, but the winners had the advantage at the net. It is interesting to recall in the recent international match, Miss Wills and Mrs. Wightman scored the only victory for America by beating Miss McKane and Miss Colyer. Mrs. Covell is perhaps a steadier player than Miss Colyer and should be great in the finals. Miss McKane has a possibility of winning in the ladies' singles and ladies' doubles, but it remains to be sene whether she will be able to stand the strain that such a triumph would necessitate.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer and former world's light-heavyweight champion, today was signed for two out-of-town bouts.

On the 11th inst. Siki will meet Dixie Kid in a scheduled twelve-round bout at Bellaire, O., and on the 18th he will clash with Blacksmith Russell in Manchester, N. H. Both of Siki's opponents are negroes.

PASADENA TENNIS TOURNEY SCHEDULED

The Pasadena tennis tournament, under the sanction of the Players' Community Service Association, is already to go. The matches will be played at Pasadena High School. From the looks of the entry list, the tournament will be worth seeing, as there are names signed, whose owners know how to play the noble game of the net and racket.

PITCHER MEETS ADAMS TONIGHT

Other Good Bouts on Regular Show at Legion

Four-round boxing shows are a failure unless they contain plenty of thrills. This fact has been known to the Hollywood Post of the American Legion for many moons, and to satisfy the demand the bouts at the Legion stadium carded for tonight have the called-for thrills and spills.

Kayo Frankie Pitcher, the side the limit. His last four round debut at the stadium tonight, has promised Tom Kennedy that he will stop Johnny Adams inside the limit. His latest four bouts in the East were won inside of four rounds with a kayo sock, and he figures Adams just as easy as the others he has flattened.

MANY PROMISES

Just to be sociable, Johnny Adams has made the same promise about Pitcher, so all around it should be a fracas full of wallops. There may be boys hereabouts who can win decisively from Adams, but they have not yet demonstrated this to a Hollywood audience.

Bill Flynn, one of our best sportsmen, has under his wing Johnny Drew, the New England lightweight champion. Tommy Carter, a good two-fisted socker, entertains Mr. Drew for four rounds, or less. Carter is far from being gentle with his foe. The sooner he sees them take the count the better he likes it. Drew and Carter are very apt to be the light spot on a great card.

Solly Seaman, under the guiding hand of Bob Perry, battles Jimmy Lanning. Both boys are clever and know their oil when it comes to pleasing a critical audience. Seaman is one of the best lightweights on the Pacific Coast. If he is to get another shot at Hollywood he must show why, and the same goes for Lanning.

RECEIVED FOR JACK

Jack Herrick has been on the receiving end of many of Jack Dempsey's haymakers. He has acted as one of Dempsey's sparring partners. Kid Williams, a big boy, asked for Herrick as a special favor, and Tom Kennedy, ever obliging, furnished Herrick for the fourth spot.

Set Date for Carp-Tunney Title Battle

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for the Polo Grounds A. C., officially announced today that Gene Tunney, the American light-heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, the French boxer, will clash in their fifteen-round bout at the Polo Grounds on the night of the 24th inst. This is the date suggested by the New York State Athletic Commission, when that body refused to sanction July 22, a date originally planned by the Polo Grounds A. C., because it conflicted with the regularly assigned weekly dates of a local boxing club.

Matchmaker Johnston also announced that final arrangements had been completed for the ten-round semifinal to the international bout with Paul Berlenbach, the hard-hitting Astoria light-heavyweight, meeting Augie Ratner, Harlem boxer.

HAGEN-SARAZEN CAPTURE MATCH

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CHANTILLY (France) July 3.—Walter Hagen, American holder of the British golf title, and Gene Sarazen, American professional, today won their thirty-six-hole, four-ball match with the French golfers, Arnaud Massey and Jean Gassiat, 3 up and 1 to play.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

It looks as though Tommy Gibbons had at last given up the hope of meeting Dempsey again for the heavyweight championship—at least for a while. That's a great concession on Tommy's part, for the good-natured Irishman has certainly sacrificed nearly everything to the thought of getting into the ring with the champion once more. Outside of Tommy there are very few people who believe that he would have the slightest chance against the title holder, but then, as long as Tommy believes it, he has to be credited with some distinction. That's one of the big differences between Gibbons and the rest of the heavyweights—Tommy really thinks he can beat Dempsey.

Gibbons is now sailing for England, to fight Jack Bloomfield, British light heavyweight, after which he will return to this country with the idea of fighting either Gene Tunney or Jack Renault, or both. Tom is going to make a lot more money fighting these fellows than he ever would make following Dempsey around—and he'll have a better chance of success. He got his first taste of real money in a long while when he walloped Georgeous Georges of France a few weeks ago, and he ought to go a long ways toward rebuilding the family fortune with a couple more fights.

Gibbons can never hope to beat Dempsey because he isn't sufficiently aggressive and can't hit. But he is fast and clever enough to avoid being hurt by such fellows as Tunney and Renault, and is game enough to take anything they can throw at him if they should happen to hit him. He ought to draw rather well against them back in the East, and should emerge from the summer season a couple of hundred thousand dollars better off instead of having made a fine donation to charity, as he did at Shelby.

It begins to look very much as though the French were out to make it tough for this country in the tennis world. Any time that a nation can make the showing that France is making over at Wimbledon we have to begin looking to our laurels. We had better begin developing some of the boy wonders that pop up every year. The old story that Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston can't go on forever seems to be more true than ever. We're going to have to dig up a lot of youthful talent and do it quickly.

Rene Lacoste of France is just a youngster still in his teens. He has had a sensational career during the past two or three seasons, and has gradually improved until he is capable of eliminating such a genuine internationalist as R. Norris Williams. True, Dick Williams has been beaten frequently in his career, but seldom by a dub. Lacoste, Borotra, Brugnon and a whole flock of young Frenchmen are coming right along, and we will have to look to our laurels.

This is the big day, incidentally, when Helen Wills gets her chance to capture the Wimbledon championship. She meets Miss Kitty McKane, England's greatest player, for the title after having shown a steady improvement ever since her disastrous appearances in the Wightman Cup, when she was beaten by both Miss McKane and Mrs. Covell. She finds a different situation than she had expected for the finals, as the crowd, instead of pulling for her, as it would had she played Lenglen, will be naturally pulling for Miss McKane.

Miss Wills is without any doubt one of the finest tennis players this country has ever produced. She has made a remarkable record for one so young, and what setbacks she has had have come largely through bad advice. She has demonstrated real fighting spirit in coming back after her terrible defeats of last month until she has earned the right to play the best in Europe for the title. Here's hoping that she wins and that she does a good job of it for the benefit of Suzanne and her "jaundice."

They are telling a funny one on Cliff Argue and Morton Kaer, the two Los Angeles boys who went back East and tied for second in the pentathlon trials. Howard Torkelson of U.S.C., anxious to act as a sort of committee of one to entertain the two aspirants, went to the train to meet them, but in some way missed them. Not knowing what hotel they were to stay at he hung around the track at which the tryouts were to be staged. For four long days, right up to the day before the meet, he stuck around, but they never showed up. He finally located them and says they had been afraid to leave the hotel for fear they couldn't find their way back. Such are the advantages of a college education.

ZBYSZKO GREAT GRAPPLER

Brother Wladek Tells of Days When Brothers Were Bitter Rivals

Stanislaus Zbyszko, who meets Yussif Hussane in the main event of next Wednesday night's program of grappling at the Philharmonic Auditorium, has a brother who is as famous himself. Wladek Zbyssko has met all of the best men in the game and is well qualified to tell some interesting facts about his own and his brother's career. Here's what he has to say:

Stanislaus, upon my father's death, when I was a youngster, became the head of the family. He raised me, sent me to school, and indulged my every whim; I must say he never allowed me to wish for anything more than once. He was not satisfied until he saw me through the university and launched upon a career as advocate, or lawyer, as you say.

FOLLOWED BROTHER

I wanted to wrestle in those days, even as Stanislaus was doing. He did his best to discourage me, and several times actually spanked me to cool my ardor. Disregarding his advice I followed the wrestlers, and in consequence fell in with his rivals—and some enemies. They saw a chance to rob my brother of some of his reputation and capitalize the name. They prevailed upon me to enter some of the tournaments. Outfront they placed huge placards with the single name "Zbyszko" in large letters.

I was young and flattered by such publicity. I thought it was my due. I even came to believe the stories told me of Stanislaus being jealous of my ability. I was extensively exploited and advertised, and every time I saw the name in big letters the more convinced I was that Stanislaus was trying to stick me away in some stuffy lawyer's office purely for selfish reasons. I came to believe that I was a better wrestler than Stanislaus. Why did I believe such rot? Just because of my youthful selfish conceit.

Today we are real brothers, and closer because of our old estrangement. We train together, and I want to say that in our daily practice he amazes me, as I learn more and more of his wonderful ability. Stanley is master of them all.

MET 'EM ALL

I am qualified to speak authoritatively about the other wrestlers. I have beaten and been beaten at various times in matches with Stecher, Lewis, Caddock, Pesek and others. I will always feel that with proper rest and training I can give them all a good run.

As between Stanislaus and myself there is no comparison. I must admit that he is a much better wrestler. Every time we work out he shows me something new and proves to me that the others are not his equal. He may not be as showy as some, nor as flashy and fast, but he has the patience of a game man who will plod along taking punishment to outlast his man.

Will he defeat Lewis should they meet again? My answer is just as sure as tomorrow follows today. Stanislaus will prove to the world that he is the greatest wrestler in the world today. Moreover, he is the finest conditioned living athlete.

Firpo Leaves Argentina for Wills Battle

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BUENOS AIRES, July 3.—Several hundred admirers were at the dock today to say farewell to Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, who sailed for New York aboard the American Legion to prepare for his fight with Harry Wills.

Firpo is accompanied by a retinue consisting of a secretary, private cook, sparring partner, business agent and publicity man.

Juan Homs, the agent here for Tex Rickard, who spent nearly three month persuading Firpo to return to the ring, also sailed.

"This time," declared the South American battler, "I am not going to accept advice from anybody, but myself. Knocking out Wills will be the least of my troubles. What'll trouble me more will be the people who want to tell me what to do and how to do it."

CHICAGO PLANS OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 3.—Plans to hold the world's largest open golf tournament some time next year, with the leading players of the world competing, are under consideration by officials of Olympia Fields, the largest golf club in the world.

The tournament, it is proposed, would be held under the auspices of the United States Golf Association and carry a cash prize list of $10,000. All of the four championship courses of Olympia Fields would be played over in the proposed seventy-two holes event.

Washington University eight-oared crew has lost in Capt. Donald Grant an exceptional coxswain. Coach Callow said recently he was a marvelous aid in developing the crews, and with Fred Spuhnour, No 7 in this year's champion crew, whom he considered perhaps the best oar he had ever seen, would make a great pair of coaches to work together.

YACHT CUP GOES BACK TO NORTH

Lady Gay Defeats R-boat Debra in Race for the Historic Trophy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The Lady Gay, Arthur F. Rousseau's champion R-boat, racing as the challenger for the Corinthian Yacht Club against Vice-Commodore Ben Weston's defending Debra of the California Yacht Club of Los Angeles, sailed over the fourteen-mile channel course today in 2h. 22m., 10s., wresting the San Francisco Bay challenge cup from the Southern California yachting organization. The Debra went over the distance in 2h. 26m. 11s., crossing the finish line more than four minutes after the Lady Gay.

Starting off the foot of Fillmore street with the gun at 11 o'clock this morning, the Lady Gay immediately went into the lead and at Presidio Shoal buoy was twenty-five seconds ahead of the defender from the south.

Rousseau kept the Lady Gay into the lead until reaching the Yerba Buena Shoal buoy, but the Debra sailed faster running against the wind and passed her rival.

Shortly after rounding the mark Rousseau again piloted the Lady Gay into the lead, gaining a little in time until the finish, when he crossed the line a little more than four minutes before Weston and his crew completed the race. The Debra's lead at the South Hampton buoy was lost when Weston went through a series of short tacks and sailed into the lee of Angel Island. One tack would have probably been sufficient and Rousseau would have encountered more difficulty in getting to the good lead.

Rousseau's familiarity with the course was a great asset in overcoming Weston's lead in the Debra. It was the first time the vice-commodore of the southern club had been over the complete course in which there are certain peculiarities that only experience will counteract.

The race was the thirtieth time that boats have competed for the San Francisco Bay cup. The Lady Gay will be a big favorite in the R-class series of three race starting tomorrow in the annual championship regatta of the Pacific Interclub Yachting Association.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Tire Manufacturer Strikes Note of Constructive Optimism; Tribute to Bankers; Business News

At a meeting of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles, A. Schleicher, president of the Samson Tire and Rubber Corporation, paid a tribute to the late Stoddard Jess as the pioneer among bankers who was inspired with vision and understanding of the great industrial development which is now a fact in Los Angeles.

Mr. Schleicher, in speaking of the fundamental elements which he considered active in the remarkable development of his company, spoke of the loyal, practical, whole hearted co-operation of the banking institutions of Los Angeles.

"I wonder," he said, "whether the manufacturers and business men in general appreciate the remarkable transition that has taken place in the banking activities of this community. If we stop to think that your large financial institutions grew to their great size in a natural environment of real estate activities, fruit and oil development, tourist business and pleasurable pursuits over a period of many years, we can realize then what a transition there has been in the course of the last seven or eight years to a dependable co-operative factor in the upbuilding of industry.

TRIBUTE TO LEADERS

"Too much credit cannot be given to such financial leaders as Henry M. Robinson, Joseph Sartori and their organizations and their benedcial and helpful influence in the present great industrial activity. They have added to their organizations men of experience from industrial centers and have built up important statistical departments.

"In these days of so much talk about the necessity of supporting industry already established and industry which we hope to bring here by organizing new financing bodies, I wish to say it is my opinion that our bankers are amply able and willing to encourage and support all meritorious industrial effort that can measure up to the standards which bring industrial operation to a successful culmination."

Referring to the popular opinion that the rubber industry is in a chaotic condition, Mr. Schleicher cited the fact that the business of his company to date in 1924 was greater than for the entire year of 1923; that the sales in April, May and June have shown a gain over the same period last year of from 41 to 67 per cent each month and that their gain in dealers from the first of May, 1923, to May 1, 1924, was over 300 per cent. He explained that the Samson company had been running from early spring up to the present time on a twenty-four-hour basis and would have continued so had it not been necessary to cut down about 25 per cent of their production activities on account of the present power situation.

In conclusion Mr. Schleicher sounded a note of warning to all manufacturers and business men to be cautious and careful, but not pessimistic; that conditions in general, while not as good as he would like them, are still healthy for the man who will increase his sales effort and make his saving in increased efficiency and economy in his manufacturing operations.

NO ABNORMAL REDUCTION

June output of the automobile companies is expected to show about 250,000 cars and 33,000 trucks. May output was 266,300 cars and 35,000 trucks.

Automotive Industries makes the following comment:

"Slow conditions in the manufacturing branch of the industry are expected to continue until the middle of July. Beginning the 1st inst., some of the major producers will enter upon their semiannual inventory taking and overhauling period, and the plants, for the most part, will remain closed for the following two weeks. This period will also be utilized to give employees their usual vacation.

"The slackening of automobile building operations is affecting the manufacture of parts used in original assembly, and many makers are working on greatly reduced schedules, with signs of further curtailment as the month progresses. No advance is looked for until well into July, when preparations will be made for fall consumption. The summer slowing down in operations is normal."

EFFECT OF HIGH WAGES

Speaking of the effect of high-wage scales on American prosperity, the Mechanics' and Metals National Bank of New York, in its July monthly letter, says:

"The factor of wage levels has become of more importance than before in determining the trend of business. Demand for goods has declined in many trades, and prices have fallen. But wages have resisted the decline, so there are now many inqualities which need correction. The law of supply and demand has come into effect, and in some localities unemployment has made its appearance, altering the labor situation from the time when the need for brawn and skill of workmen greatly exceeded the supply. But labor in general is not yet working at less than scheduled rates in preference to not working at all, and there is a stubborn resistance against downward adjustments, the thought of labor being to get all it possibly can out of the common production of wealth, leaving the sacrifices to others.

"High wage scales in this country were a notable effect of the war and post-war inflation; they became established in a period of rapidly increasing wealth, extravagant desire and rising prices. We have passed through that period, and deflation has lowered many standards. It remains now to be demonstrated how far industry can operate under a condition wherein wage scales will not yield, and where pay rolls absorb an undue proportion of industry's income dollar."

INSURANCE MEN COMING

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters will be held in Los Angeles July 21-25, with headquarters at the Biltmore.

The first day's activities will consist mainly of executive business meetings, with the opening session scheduled for Tuesday morning. Golf in the afternoon with a reception, entertainment and dancing in the evening will close this day.

One business session in which various topics of insurance will be discussed will be held on each of the three succeeding days, with tours, ocean swims, banquets or other entertainment completing each day's program.

Business of the convention will include discussion and addresses on business insurance, life income insurance, "the approach," and estate insurance. The annual banquet will take place Thursday evening, July 24.

George I. Cochran, Danford M. Baker, Dr. W. W. Mackett and C. I. D. Moore are scheduled to speak, after which a buffet luncheon will be held. The election of Big Three club officers, a business meeting and a banquet at the Biltmore are the major events of the afternoon and evening.

The Pacific Mutual agency association will hold two business sessions July 22 and 23 in the directors' room under the chairmanship of W. R. Letcher, president.

MOTOR BUS DEVELOPMENT

More than 630 motor busses costing $4,347,000 were purchased by trolley companies in 1923, Electric Railway Journal reports. On the basis of present indications, it is estimated that 3000 busses will be purchased by electric railways this year, 7000 in 1925 and 15,000 in 1926. This will mean investment in busses of $14,000,000 for 1924, $49,000,000 for 1925 and $105,000,000 for 1926.

"The realization that there is a real field for busses in the hands of the present electric railway companies which now see themselves as 'transportation companies,' embracing all kinds of transportation vehicles in the service for which each is suited, is spreading rapidly," says the journal.

TAX CUT EFFECT

Effective yesterday the tax on telegraph and telephone messages and the stamp tax of 2 cents per $100 on drafts or checks (other than at sight or demand,) and on promissory notes, are removed. In addition to the 25 per cent reduction in income taxes, these are among the most important changes in the payment of current taxes.

TELEPHONE RIGHTS

Mitchum, Tully & Co. advise that all stockholders of American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock have received the warrants evidencing their right to subscribe to the new issue of stock. These rights must be exercised on or before August 1, after which date they become valueless. On that date the rights plus the first payment on the new stock must be present in New York in order to take advantage of the company's offer.

DIVIDEND NOTICE

The Monolith Portland Cement Company has declared its semi-annual dividend No. 5 on preferred stock, payable at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, covering the period from January 1 to June 30, 1924. As the total amount of preferred stock outstanding is $1,500,000 the dividends paid at this time will aggregate $60,000. The company reports a satisfactory volume of business for the first six months of 1924.

NO MARKETS TODAY

This is a holiday observed generally through the United States. Accordingly all exchanges are closed and no quotations will be established. In Los Angeles the vacation will be extended over the week-end and the local exchange and most places of business in this city will remain closed. However, the eastern exchanges will resume business tomorrow for the usual half-day period, although very little activity is to be expected.

FINANCIAL COMPANIES

The Standard Union Finance Corporation has issued an interesting circular on "Financial Companies." In addition to explaining the unique plan under which the Standard Union Finance Corporation operates in helping local industries, it has some interesting extracts from the Federal Reserve Bulletin touching upon the subject.

According to Irvin Jordan, vice-president of the company, considerable interest in the plan has been evidenced by local industrial leaders and business men.

BABCOCK ELECTED

PERSONAL MENTION

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Citizen's National Bank, George H. Treide was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Treide has been associated with the Citizen's National Bank for fifteen years and has worked in practically every department of the bank, including the management of the transit department and acting auditor. DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—The butter market has a bullish aspect and conditions are favorable to the selling interest. The receipts of fine butter have not been large and there has been willingness on the part of some of the July speculators to buy now and fill their options. The call for spot delivery was well attended with sales as follows: 119 tubs creamery extras, 39 cents; 100, 100, 50 and 100, all at 41½ cents per pound.

The egg market developed a little weakness on the highest grades and dealers were not averse to shading prices in order to effect clearances. Call sales, 50 extra firsts, 38 cents; one car small pullet extra firsts, in Jersey City, 38 3-4 cents. In futures, seven cars of storage firsts seller December were taken at 33 cents.

Pacific Coast white extras, 39 cents; extra choice, 34@38 cents; firsts, 31@33 cents.

TEA MARKET ACTIVE

The general movement of tea in the local market is seasonably active and while prices have not actually advanced the undertone is strong and growing stronger in keeping with conditions at primary sources. The stocks carried by local importers are estimated to be from moderate to light as to desirable grades, but for the present the supply seems to be sufficient for current demand without affecting values. All the latest cabled news has been bullish.

The rice movement is active. Visible supply is so small as to forecast a shortage before new crop. Prices for domestic and oriental rice are firm but unchanged.

The situation in beans is more favorable than it has been for the last several weeks and certain varieties are firmer, especially on kidney beans, both red and white. The demand for lima beans has been fair.

COPPER EASIER

The copper market was much easier in tone today and electrolytic was available again at 12 3-8 cents a pound. It was reported that the American Steel and Wire Company, a subsidiary of the Steel Corporation, purchased a large quantity at this price. London's Thursday cables standard spot as declining 7s 6d to £60 17s 6d and futures 5s to £61 17s 6d, while electrolytic registered a drop of 10s with spot closing at £65 and futures £65 10s.

Lead is still unchanged at 7 cents New York and from 6.65 cents to 6.70 cents a pound, St. Louis. London cables reported a dro pof 2s 6d there, spot closing at £23 7s 6d and futures £23 17s 6d.

Zinc still holds at 5.50 cents, St. Louis, and 6.15 cents a pound, St. Louis. High-grade zinc still commands from 7 3-4 cents to 8 1-4 cents, delivered in the East. London spot declined 5s to £31, 17s, 6d, and futures 2s, 6d to £31, 12s, 6d.

There was a definite decline in the tin market today. In the domestic market all deliveries and positions of straits and straits shipments closed at 44 cents a pound, a decline of 5-8 cents. London reported standard spot as declining £2, 15s to £228, 10s; futures, £2, 10s to £226, and straits, £3, 15s to £228. The Far Eastern market reacted and straits in Singapore registered a decline of £5, closing at £228, c.i.f. London.

OIL MARKET

The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended June 28, was 1,975,850 barrels, as compared with 1,978,550 barrels for the preceding week, a decrease of 2700 barrels, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Receipts of California oil (crude and refined oils) at Atlantic and gulf ports for the week ended June 28, totaled 1,034,000 barrels, a daily average of 147,714 barrels as against 832,000 barrels, a daily average of 118,867 barrels for the week ended June 21.

Imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal ports of the week ended June 28, totaled 2,528,000 barrels, a daily average of 360,857 barrels, compared with 1,391,000 barrels, a daily average of 198,714 barrels, for the week ended June 21.

BONDS HOLD

Bond prices held around the previous closing levels and at no time was there any concerted buying or selling movement. Advances were small. Liberties held around yesterday's figures and the volume of trading was smaller. The speculatives made the best showing, Katy adjustment 5s and the International and Great Northern adjustment 6s both scored small gains. The French obligations held their gains and the Japanese 6 1-2s, which showed weakness yesterday were firm around 91 3-4.

Trading was restricted by the fact that many began their holiday early in the day. Money is still plentiful and bankers are still confident bonds will work higher.

COTTON FUTURES ON DOWN IN QUIET DAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Spot cotton today 29.75, down 15 points.

The trend of cotton futures continued downward in quiet local trading today under an extension of yesterday's depression due to bearish crop condition statistics. The opening was irregular, 1 point higher to 13 net lower and on overnight liquidation the list fell off 10 to 18 points. Moderate trade buying turned prices up from this level and the ensuing rally carried July forward for a net gain of 12 points, while other months came back to last night's finals. With no snap to demand, and with sentiment unsettled, due to crop and acreage figures, the market steadily sold lower again and closed down 12 to 18 points net.

FLAXSEED MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DULUTH, July 3.—With two days holiday impending, operators in the flaxseed market here were not inclined to extend commitments and crushers were not interested in the cash offerings. Awaiting the arrival of a 10,000-bushel cargo reported en route from Fort Williams prices were of small fractions all around. Close: July, 3.29½; September, 2.29½; October, 2.25½; Stock, 2.30½@2.45½; arrive, 2.30½.

Profit-Taking Sales Plunder Grain Exchange

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 3.—Grain values felt the effect of heavy profit-taking the past few days, which, combined with the coming-up process for the holidays, as there will be no more trading in the United States until next Monday, brought a lower level of prices, with the close around the inside for the first time in a week or more.

There were sold 1,000 bushels of wheat of 1@1¼c with July the strongest. Corn was off 1¼@2¼c, the latter in September. The oats market went to pieces, both cash and future, the former declining 1@3c, the latter 1¼@2¼c, with July in the lead. Rye finished flat, with prices off 1¼@2¼c.

Losses in the southwestern wheat market were ⅞@1¾c, while Minneapolis was only ¼@⅝c lower, and Winnipeg, after an early advance, finished ¼@⅝c lower for the day. Trade in provisions was light, with lard and bellies unchanged and short ribs 5@10c higher. At no time was there any semblance to the buying and the bull edge appeared to be off the market for the time being.

In the wheat market there was the same underlying conditions of a bullish character that have been prominent of late. Liverpool was ⅛@⅜d higher, with more disposition shown by foreigners to take hold.

The market also felt the effect of moderate hedging sales from the Southwest and has yet to stand the test of the new crop movement. Reports from the Southwest were of large yields of high quality, the first threshing at Manhattan, Kan., showing yields of forty-one bushels tipping sixty-three pounds.

Corn was under pressure from longs, who were taking profits, and from the trade generally who were moderately bearish owing to the improved weather. Buying was less in evidence, especially in the new crop futures and September white. July was tight, early selling up to 97⅞, with a break of 2¼ cents later, closing 95¾. December at its best was around 84, with the finish at 83¼@83⅝. Indications were for a small increase in country offerings, but receipts here were only seventy-two cars. Cash market was easy to ¼ cent lower. The shipping sales, 250,000 bushels and charters for 125,000 bushels.

Oats were under pressure practically all day, with July down to 39⅞ and September to 44⅞. Liquidation was on and new buying limited and scattered. Bartlett, Frazer & Co. were liberal sellers of July and September. Weakness in the cash market, with a break of 1@2c was due to buyers holding off and to reports that Canadian oats are offered much cheaper in New England than domestic and are filling up the trade. Holders of rye were good sellers and the market lost its snap. Export buying developed on the decline and Norway was said to have bought a cargo.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Bond Gains Cut
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Profit-taking tendencies today reduced recent gains in the bond market and prices drifted unevenly lower in dull preholiday trading. With money rates stiffening slightly, institutions unloaded several large blocks of securities.

Mixed price movements were recorded in the railroad list, but losses outweighed fractional gains in both the high grade and speculative groups.

Foreign and United States government issues were steady.

CRUDE RUBBER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Crude rubber prices in some grades of spot were ¼@½c higher today. There was active demand for ribbed smoked sheets from the manufacturing and although no large transactions changed hands, the price nevertheless increased ¼ cent since yesterday, selling for 19 cents per pound. All other grades were dull, and in view of the pending holidays no real activity was expected. Several speculative operators made their appearance, together with some importers and dealers, but their presence excited little activity. Brown crepe, in thin, clean sheets was offered selling for 17¾ cents per pound today. Amber No. 1 was quoted at 19¼ cents. Pale yellow Para increased in price to 20¾ cents.

NEW YORK CURB

Curb Securities Firm
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 3.—Curb securities displayed a firm tone in preholiday trading today. Business was chiefly professional, however, on evening up of commitments. Profit-taking appeared in a few issues, but offerings were easily absorbed. The majority of the oil group showed a firmness on further reduction in crude oil production last week.

Activity in General Motors, new stock, featured the industrial list, gaining nearly 2 points for the day on reports that it might be placed on a $6 annual dividend basis when the plan for exchange of stock becomes effective in September. National Tea reacted for a loss of nearly 7 points.

IMPROVED POSITION IN STEEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Improvement in the breadth and volume of new business in steel is of a minor character, but the situation is more settled and less dubious, says Iron Trade. The tone of opinion indicates to the belief that better things are in sight, which accounts for the more cheerful feeling prevalent. Buyers do not seem so concerned that they can break prices below the present levels, but they have only a limited amount of tonnage to bid for concessions. Production and prices have been pinched down and the low state of stocks in buyers' hands apparently puts the buyer in a good position to await favorable developments.

A move in the direction of stiffening steel prices and driving in the dogtrot tonnage is seen in the action of some large producers in raising their dead level on plates, shapes and bars at 2.15, Pittsburg. Production at the beginning of the week showed no appreciable reduction over one week ago. The full suspension of steel works and mills scheduled to begin Thursday night will continue to July 7.

June pig-iron production fell to the lowest point since the coal strike in August, 1922, showing a further loss of 20.3 per cent in the average daily output from May. This brings the total loss of production since March down to 39.8 per cent. The country in June was down to the point of making iron at the rate of only 24,600,000 tons annually. The total output for June was 2,021,377, compared with 3,384 tons for the preceding month.

The loss of active furnaces in June further increased to twenty-seven, making the total drop since March 309. In June 3060 stacks were active. The demand for ship steel reappeared in considerable volume, due to the number of projects and the issuance of inquiries for several new undertakings, four new freighters being bid by lake builders requiring 20,000 tons of steel. The Steel Corporation will place 11,000 tons of material for the vessels just awarded. Cable advices state that the Standard Oil Company placed two tankers with Japanese yards.

Building steel maintains activity, with new awards this week of 25,000 tons. Distributed over forty-odd different jobs, new inquiry is pending for 30,566 tons. Bids go in July 16 on 25,000 tons for approaches on the Delaware River bridge at Philadelphia.

American fabricators are bidding on 57,0002 tons for bridge work for East Indian railroads.

The reported award for 3000 steel cars for Mexican Railway to locomotive builders has aroused interest. The Missouri Pacific is reported to have deferred action on its inquiry for 3000 freight cars. Buying of pig iron simmered down somewhat this week, but further developments show recent sales were even in excess of the trade estimate of 600,000 tons.

The Iron Trade composite for finished iron and steel products for this week is $40.15, compared with $40.55 for last week and $46.46 for June, 1922.

Two Hundred Battle Blaze West of Kern River

Firecrackers Ignite Woods Near Bakersfield

Forty Acres of Shrubbery, Timber Burned Over

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALIFORNIA HOT SPRINGS, July 3.—"Still uncontrolled on the west and south," was the meager word received here late this afternoon from the fireline toward Greenhorn Mountain, which has been burning in the Bull Run country on the west side of Kern River since Sunday evening.

The country is rough and full of brush and timber, making fire fighting very difficult. About 200 men from Kernville and the South Fork are aiding Supervisor Cunningham and the forest force.

The brush fire, which broke out between Hot Springs and the Jack ranch yesterday, is controlled.

NEW FIRE BREAKS OUT

BAKERSFIELD, July 3.—With the greater portion of available men aiding in fighting the forest fire raging along the west bank of the Kern River near Greenhorn Mountain, visitors at Jack Ranch and boys of all ages were drafted into service late yesterday to combat a new fire started apparently by firecrackers in shrubbery and timber along the White River near the Guy Ames ranch.

The fire was discovered shortly after it started and immediately all men and boys in the district of Jack ranch were gathered together. Among the residents of the district who aided in combating the blaze were George Haberfelde, Curtis Wible, Bert Barry and others. Approximately forty acres were burned over before the force of forty men and boys, who fought for four hours, could get the blaze under control.

The firecrackers which started the blaze five miles from Jack Ranch were set off on a road that was closed because of fire hazard. The forest fire which has been sweeping toward Greenhorn Mountain on the west bank of the Kern River is apparently under control, according to information received from the A. Brown Company store at Kernville. The fire is said to be practically out on the north end. Efforts of the fire fighters are being concentrated in controlling the western border of the fire.

WEEKLY REPORT ON TRADE CONDITIONS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 3. — Bradstreets Saturday will say:

"While trade corporation and industrial reports are more than ordinarily irregular, retail and immediate need jobbing distribution and crop reports show further improvement. Industrial conditions are, if anything, rather less satisfactory.

"Retail buying seems to have been helped by warmer weather in some areas by special 'sales,' and by preparations for vacations.

"The opinion of experts points to improvement noted in spring and winter wheat in recent weeks having somewhat reduced the probable deficiency reported a month ago in the yields of both these crops as compared with a year ago. An almost surprising gain in cotton condition is also noted. As against this, it is to be noted that the own crop, owing to excessive rains and lack of sunshine is still backward and in the poorest condition in at least twenty years."

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Actress Undecided at Turning Point

Lorraine Eason

Given year's tryout in films by parents, who now regret step, she must make up her mind in week.

FILMS OR HOME--WHICH?

Lorraine Eason, After Year at Studios, Has Now to Decide Between Parents and Career

Which shall it be—a film career in Hollywood, or home and social life in Texas? Lorraine Eason, 19-year-old film actress, has to think out the answer. She has come to the forking of her career. One road is the long weary climb to stardom with peril at one end and success at the other. The easy tranquil way which leads to normal home life with her family looms on the other road, with a place in Texas society and just out of sight, perhaps, marriage and a home of her own.

This is the very vital and real problem which is agitating the household at 1736 Orange Drive avenue, Hollywood, where Lorraine and her mother have been making their home while she has worked in motion pictures. A year ago her father, J. J. Eason, general manager of the Galveston Construction Company of Galveston, Tex., promised his daughter that she could try a year in the films. He was sure that by that time she would be thoroughly convinced that the way to stardom was a difficult path and would be glad to come home.

Now the time is up and Mr. Eason arrived in the city last week to take his wife and daughter back with him. However, Lorraine has found that although she hasn't been raised to the pinnacle at a rapid rate, she is making marked progress, and there is every reason to look forward to a successful career in the future. She does not want to go home. She can see glitter afar off and society life seems dead and drab in comparison.

FEARS THE FUTURE

Which shall it be? Lorraine says that the career is the only thing. But her father, who was

WIFE SUPPORTS ALIBI OF STEEN

Says Husband at Home When Mrs. Hanley Kidnaped

Held as Material Witness Following Statement

Suspect's Associate Sought to Verify Story

Expressing resentment against her husband's accusers, Mrs. Alicia Lee Steen yesterday made a statement to the police supporting the alibi offered by Robert D. Steen in denial of the charge made by Mrs. Helen Hanley that Steen abducted her in his automobile and attacked her at a lonely point in the western part of the city.

According to Mrs. Steen's story, which was told to Detective Lieutenants Teal and Velt, her husband could not have attacked Mrs. Hanley early Sunday morning because he spent the entire night until 8 a.m. at home with his wife. Following her statement Mrs. Steen was held as a material witness in the case against her husband, who is charged with a statutory offense.

HUSBAND AT HOME

"I don't understand why such a charge should be made against Robert," Mrs. Steen declared with feeling. "I never saw Mr. or Mrs. Hanley until they broke into our house Wednesday morning. My husband was in bed when the Hanleys came. I saw him and his wife moving around in front of the house, as if they were examining the automobile number."

"Why, it is ridiculous," she continued, "Robert came home about midnight Saturday night and remained home with me until the next morning about 8 o'clock."

Mrs. Steen, who lives at 4430 West Pico street, was found by the detectives yesterday after an all-day search. She said she and Steen have been living together for two years. She expressed doubt that she is legally married to him because the ceremony, she said, was performed by a minister not of her religion.

Detectives yesterday continued a search for Glenn Walker of 1044 Georgia street, said by Steen to have been with him until midnight Saturday. According to Steen's story to detectives shortly after his arrest, he and Walker are business associates and had a business appointment. Steen declared he went straight home from the appointment, arriving there shortly after midnight.

In her statement to the police, afterward repeated to the District Attorney's office, Mrs. Hanley, attractive wife of Cal Hanley, automobile dealer of 116 North Western avenue, declared Steen kidnaped her about 1 a.m. Sunday and kept her out until daybreak.

The attack story was brought to the attention of the police when Wilshire police were called to Steen's home early Wednesday, as a result of an altercation between Steen and the Hanleys. Hanley and his wife had gone to Steen's home after they said they traced the assailant's automobile number and found it to be Steen's. Steen was also identified by Mrs. Hanley as the man who attacked her.

FIGHT IS WAGED

When Hanley and his wife entered the Steen home the police were told. Hanley produced a gun and threatened Steen. Afterward, Hanley declared, he decided to beat up Steen. But Steen, weighing 200 pounds and athletic, proved too strong and was getting the upper hand when the police arrived.

After telling her story to the District Attorney's investigators Wednesday, Mrs. Hanley collapsed and was taken home in a nervous condition. When she was examined at the Receiving Hospital early Wednesday, physicians there reported she showed evidence of having been subjected to violence.

Steen was still in custody late yesterday although efforts are being made, it was stated, to obtain his release on $10,000 bail pending his arraignment. Detective Lieutenant Spinner joined the officers working on the case yesterday and is aiding in the hunt for Walker, Steen's reputed business associate.

NO RESORTS HIT BY BAN ON CANYONS

Fire Order Closed Only Out-of-Way Trails and High Danger Spots

R. H. Charlton, forest supervisor, in a statement made this morning, said that the recent order closing twenty-six canyons and trails in the Angeles National Forest to traffic did not in any way affect any mountain resort. The order closed canyons and trails in out-of-the-way places, and included spots known as high fire hazards. The list of canyons and trails given out was headed with the name of Wilson Canyon, which canyon is on the western end of the mountains, near Sylmar, and which was misinterpreted by many to be the canyon leading to Orchid Camp and Mt. Wilson Hotel. The Mt. Wilson Canyon is not at all affected by the order.

Mr. Charlton asked that it again be requested of the public to be especially careful in going into the mountains at this time of the year to prevent the starting of a forest fire, as a conflagration of that type when started, is a menace to all.

DESERTED WIFE WINS

Testimony that her husband deserted her after twenty-one years of married life won a divorce yesterday in Judge Shaw's court for Blanche G. Renwick from Dr. Robert W. Renwick. The couple were married in St. Louis in 1900, and separated August 15, 1921, according to Mrs. Renwick.

The Star Spangled Banner

by Francis Scott Key

O, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming;
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight;
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming;
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does the star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

On the shore, dimly seen thro' the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines on the stream.
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

When our land is illum'd with liberty's cry,
If a foe from within strike a blow at her glory,
Down, down with the traitor that dares to defile
The flag of her stars and the page of her story;
By the millions unchain'd who our birthright have gain'd
We will keep her bright blazon forever unstain'd.
And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Oh! thus be it ever when free men shall stand
Between their loved home and the war's desolation,
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserved us a Nation
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust."
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Celebration of Independence Day in Los Angeles today will center at the unveiling in Pershing Square of the soldiers' memorial monument erected in honor of sons and daughters of the Southland who participated in the World War. The celebration will start at 9 a.m. when the California Grays and National Guard units will march from Disabled Veterans' Hall to Pershing Square. Twenty-seven Southern California patriotic organizations sponsoring the memorial will join in the ceremonies, which will be conducted at Pershing Square at 10 a.m.

Reading of the Declaration of Independence and the preamble to the Constitution will inaugurate the program at Pershing Square. This will be followed by the following ceremonies:

Assembly called by Col. Charles W. Decker, president of the Los Angeles sector, Association of the Army of the United States.

Introduction, Lieut.-Col. Perry N. Weidner, master of ceremonies.

Address, "Citizenship," Hon. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, United State District judge.

INSPIRED BY TALK

The monument, which will stand as a memorial to service men and women, was inspired by a talk made to the Association of the Army of the United States last October by Maj. Cotton on "Loyalty to Principles." The association immediately started a campaign for funds to erect the monument. Humberto Pedretti, local sculptor, executed the monument, which is the figure of the "doughboy," eight feet high on a shaft twenty feet high. Through the courtesy of the War Department the monument will be flanked by heavy rifles formerly used in the coast defense of San Francisco until World War trophies become available.

Assignment of thirty-seven battleships and destroyers from the battle fleet at Los Angeles Harbor to various Pacific Coast ports for the celebration today will leave the harbor virtually deserted of naval craft. For this reason no set program of observance has been arranged.

Banks will observe the holiday, but will reopen tomorrow morning. All stores that are members of the Retail Merchants' Association will also remain closed tomorrow, because the majority of them close at 1 p.m., on Saturday throughout the summer. It is expected a majority of the city's business establishments will observe the holiday today. Federal, State, county and city offices will be closed today.

PARK CELEBRATION

What promises to be the biggest sectional celebration will begin at 10 a.m. at Lincoln Park. The program will include athletics, music, patriotic addresses and a special fireworks display. City Attorney Stephens will be chairman of the day and Don Tyler, winner of the national oratorical contest, will re-

NEAR RIOT MARS DOUBLE INQUEST

Cartridges Found in Meyer Car Cause Row

A near riot and threats of violence directed at two prominent attorneys ended the inquest late yesterday afternoon over the bodies of Mrs. Therese Doris and Henry Dietrick Meyer, whose deaths last Monday prompted the issuance of a murder complaint against Charles W. Doris, husband of the slain woman and wealthy apartment-house owner of Long Beach.

The inquest was held yesterday afternoon at the McFadyen undertaking parlors, Long Beach. After several hours of startling testimony, in which Doris was frequently accused as the slayer of his wife and the Pasadena millionaire, a Coroner's verdict charged the Long Beach man with being the probable killer and recommended further investigation by Dist.-Atty. Keyes. Doris is now at liberty on $50,000 bail, having been charged with the crime and arraigned last Wednesday.

The near riot occurred a few minutes before Coroner Vance announced the verdict. All spectators, witnesses, relatives and friends had been excluded from the chapel, pending the jury's deliberation. They were congregated upon the lawn. Groups were scattered here and there, discussing phases of the case. Mrs. Meyer, the widow, and her six fatherless children were posing for a photographer. Suddenly a storm of anger arose. The Meyer children and their friends were rushing madly toward Attorneys Spicer and Daugherty, attorneys for Doris.

FIGHT IS AVERTED

The two defense lawyers were backed against the Meyer's automobile, parked a few feet from the chapel.

"I saw you do it!" shrieked another.

The two older sons of the dead man, both husky chaps, were closing in on the lawyers, with their clenched fists. Others seized them. Amy, the eldest daughter, ran from the scene, crying. Mrs. H. T. Sundbye, sister of the dead man, was engaging Spicer in a heated argument. For a space of several minutes the cause of the disturbance could not be learned, though many spectators lined up with the Meyer's family and threatened violence against the lawyers for Doris.

Finally Cpt. J. D. Hunter of the District Attorney's homicide squad explained it. He was standing beside the automobile after he had quieted the trouble, with five cartridges in his hand.

"Attorney Spicer came to me after the exclusion of everybody from the chapel," said Capt. Hunter. "He asked me if I had searched the Meyer's automobile. It was the same car Meyer had driven to Long Beach on the morning of his death. I told him I had not, but that two Long Beach detectives had searched it thoroughly several times.

HELD AS EVIDENCE

"'I want you to search that car in my presence,' Spicer told me.

"I walked over to the car with him. He told me to look in the side pockets. As I reached into one of them, the family came rushing up. I drew five .32-caliber cartridges from the pocket."

It was then that the accusations began to rain upon Spicer and Daugherty. Dr. R. A. Lichty, a woman physician of Pasadena, and who has been the Meyer's fam-

STATE OPENS WAR ON FIRE

California Organizes As Its Forests Are Menaced; Citizens' Committee Enlists Body of 10,000

That California is faced with the greatest potential fire emergency in the history of the State is shown by the fact that there have been to date this season 634 forest fires in California, or three times as many as usual, burning over an area of 86,000 acres, or four times the average destruction for this time of the year, according to figures issued by the United States Forest Service yesterday.

Paul G. Redington, district forester, further points out that 70 per cent of all forest fires are man-caused, and have forced the expenditure so far this season of over $100,000 for actual fire suppression work besides many thousands of dollars lost through the destruction of the forests so far burned.

Ten thousand citizens of the State are being organized to meet the greatest forest-fire emergency existent in California in twenty years. At the request of Col. William B. Greeley, chief forester of the United States, and Mr. Redington, district forester of California, Norman H. Sloane, manager of the California Development Association, the State Chamber of Commerce, has turned over his entire organization to the Forest Service. This force will unite the civic organizations of all communities of the State in an effort to conserve the millions of dollars directly involved in the threatening forest holocausts.

BOARDS CHOSEN

A State citizens' committee has been formed by the California Development Association and its executive State officials appointed today. Chambers of commerce throughout the State are being asked to appoint immediately local chairman and committees to act in the fire emergency.

The State executives appointed by the California Development Association are: A. B. C. Dohrmann and R. B. Hale of San Francisco, C. C. Teague of Santa Paula and Harry Chandler of Los Angeles.

KHJ FAMILY HAS HARMONY TREAT

Grace Eaton Dow Arranges Attractive Program

Community Broadcasters Do Their Part Well

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

It is always a great joy to all of us at KHJ when an especially loved member of our artist family takes the time and effort to arrange such a program as was presented last night.

Grace Eaton Dow, who was responsible for its success, is one of the finest pianists and accompanists of our city. She shared honors with Mrs. George L. Charette, soprano, and Mrs. Thomas Howatt, reader.

With her characteristic enthusiasm for resident composers, Miss Dow chose as her first solo "Valse Fantastique," by J. Wood Porter. Mr. Porter came to Los Angeles thirty years ago, and from his pen have come many attractive works for the piano. We feel certain that his waltz never received a more colorful or brilliant interpretation than that of yesterday evening.

During the course of the program Miss Dow also played selections from the works of Albeniz, Cadman and Avensky. Miss Dow's playing is particularly adapted for broadcasting, being always clear cut, vigorous in rhythm and rich in emotional value.

BALLADS ARE PLEASING

The group of songs given by Mrs. George L. Charette, soprano, were memory-evoking ballads, tinged with the bitter sweetness of things long past. Through the medium of her sympathetic voice Mrs. Charette extracted to the last bit the beauty of such songs as "But My Bird is Long in Homing," by Sibelius, and "The Willow Song" of Coleridge Taylor.

To those of us associated with the work of various clubs in the city, Mrs. Thomas Howatt needs no introduction. Her readings last night were full of the charm and simplicity of previous occasions. The magnetic crimson-suffused beauty of southern youth with all its joyous abandon to life was brought into being last evening through the spirited performance of Jose Arias and his Mexican orchestra. Their numbers followed each other like gaily colored beads slipping through white hands, and the effect was stimulating to say the least.

Edward Murphey brought his Community Broadcasters from Pasadena to entertain our radio family with more of their delightful work. No "little theater" movement was ever more to be commended than what this group of fine artists are doing dramatically for Radioland. Last evening they presented two short one-act plays. Mr. Murphey's assistant artists of last night won particular approval from their invisible audience. They were A. H. Palmer, pioneer supporter of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, and Olive Pape, a charming young actress, who has recently appeared at the Majestic Theater.

George H. Hood brought infinite pleasure to the masculine portion of our family with his spirited reading of "The Spell of the Yukon" and "Carita." Mr. Hood has a most picturesque personality, which doubtless projected itself through the microphone and it is typical of the country of which he read.

The matinee hour of KHJ for some time to come will be of value both from the educational and recreative angle. Every Tuesday and Thursday interpretative talks on the programs to be held this summer in the Hollywood Bowl will be broadcast from HKJ at 2:30 p.m. These talks will be given by Miss Bess Daniels who will play themes from the various compositions to be played by the orchestra on the date of each talk, and will have the different instruments of the orchestra illustrated. Yesterday afternoon Miss Daniels illustrated various moods such as joy, majesty, grief and other emotions common to us all by themes from famous composers such as Chopin, Beethoven and MacDowell. Miss Daniels is a gifted pianist and fluent speaker and we are sure our family will take her to their hearts.

The noon hour brought the Piggly-Wiggly Hawaiian Trio with the accompaning "roof audience" which never fails to pay us a visit whenever George Mackie and his men appear. John P. Ogle, baritone, sang Duna. Mavoureen and several of Sidney Homer's Bandanna Songs. Mr. Ogle's voice is of a smooth, soft, effortless kind which rests while it inspires.

TALKS OF HISTORY

A stir of homesickness and a thrill of pride was aroused in all Massachusetts-born folk who listened to the children's hour to Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog. He talked on the battle of Concord and Lexington. Inspired as always, his words formed a fitting atmosphere for the great holiday which we celebrate today. Dickie Brandon made his usual vivid, clever weekly talk before the microphone. Audrey Wood and Helen Kalionzis, two pupils of Dorothy Casselman, proved to Radiolaid that they had laid a solid foundation on which to erect a fine career as pianists.

An embryonic Elsie Janis was with us in the studio in the person of Eilese June Walsh, 7-year-old screen juvenile. She gave a striking impersonation of Jackie Coogan, which sent us into gales of laughter. Five-year-old Louise Tordera gave some quaint reading that much delighted her young radio sisters.

McBride is charged with holding up John Y. Elwood, an employee of the bank, and taking $1500 in currency. The case was reset for trial yesterday by Judge Keetch.

FILM LIFE OR HOME, WHICH?

born and brought up in Virginia, wants to have his daughter the center of the home and social life which he has built up. Moreover, he now has a powerful ally in his wife, who after a year of anxious watching, helping and chaperoning her daughter at home and at play, has discovered that this business of having a career is about the last thing which she wishes for Lorraine. The decision must be made this week, for Mrs. Eason leaves in a few days with her husband to go back to the home she left to aid her daughter's career.

There is no disagreement in the family. It is just that Lorraine can only see the far-off glimmer of stardom, while her parents see still has risen from playing extra road which leads toward it. If Lorraine had met with constant failure and discouragement, it would be different. She would be ready to give up and return home. But, while she hasn't become the center of a rapid comet rise, she parts to small bits, larger bits, and now real parts. And she doesn't want to give it all up. Her mother cannot bear to leave her alone, and yet she feels that she cannot give up her home life any longer.

"It isn't that the motion-picture life is bad," Mrs. Eason explained yesterday. "It is just that it is no life for a young girl. Lorraine has gotten along remarkably well, but what is there ahead? Perhaps in a few years she may be featured or starred. But what then? It can't help but change her. Mr. Eason and I want to see our girl a perfectly normal girl in our home or happily married and in a home of her own. After all, no matter what is to be said about a career, it is a home and children which should count most with a woman.

"I wish we had never come to Hollywood," Mrs. Eason sighed. "You see, Lorraine won a beauty contest and was promised work in the pictures. I think those contests are terrible things, for they inspire hope and restlessness in girls who are growing up happily in their homes, and they come out here only to meet with failure. However, although the contest people didn't give Lorraine work, she and I started out to the various studios and before long she began to get extra work. Then came small bits and real parts.

"Oh, she has gotten along remarkably well. Don't think that I'm criticising the motion-picture industry. The people are fine, but they don't live the same life or have the same ideas on things that Mr. Eason, Lorraine and I have. And I don't want her to change."

So there you are! It is the story of a mother who has made every effort for her daughter to succeed, but now that there is a chance for that success, weakens at the thought of the price which she feels her daughter must pay. Lorraine sees the problems and the difficulties, too, but she is 19 and ambitious, and thinks that she doesn't have to change her ideas or ideals just because others may do so. Meanwhile, there is also Mr. Eason, who has waited a year down in Texas and is now here to take his wife and daughter home.

Which is it to be—a home in Texas with her parents, or a career in Hollywood—alone? Within the next week Lorraine Eason will have to think ou tthe answer.

BOWL TICKETS IN DEMAND

Season Book Sale of 3000 Indicates Mark for Attendance Will be Broken

Season books to the number of 3000 have been sold for the Hollywood Bowl summer concert season which opens Tuesday evening, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood Bowl Association. With this as a nucleus for the summer's attendance, Mrs. Carter is confident that the concerts will prove to be a greater success than ever before.

A great majority of patrons pay 50 cents admission at the gate, and as the 3000 book holders will attend nearly every concert, it is believed that more people will hear the bowl music this summer than last year, when a total attendance of 224,000 was recorded. These season books will remain on sale until the 15th inst., at $10. They contain forty transferable tickets good at any of the thirty-two evening concerts which takes place every Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from the 8th inst. to August 30.

Out of a total of 174 boxes, each costing $100, all but ten have been sold, it is announced.

To aid the association in its efforts to pack the huge outdoor theater, the city has given permission for the placarding of electroliers throughout the city. These call attention to the concerts and direct motorists and pedestrians to the bowl.

Alfred Hertz, famous symphony conductor, has arranged a colorful program for the opening concert Tuesday night. Sylvain Noack, violin soloist, will play the prelude to "Le Deluge," by Saint-Saens. Tschaikowsky, Wagner and Liszt are included on the program.

John T. Vawter Made Architect of City Schools

John T. Vawter, local architect, was appointed architect for the City Board of Education at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Vawter will have entire charge of the architectural department of the board. A large amount of work is expected to develop with the launching of an enormous building program under the $25,000,000 bond issue, including many jobs listed in the recent announcement of new buildings and additions.

SLAYER TO GET LIFE TERM

A jury in Judge Hahn's department of the Superior Court yesterday found Leslie Ward, negro, guilty of first-degree murder and recommended that he be imprisoned for life. He shot and killed Josie Anderson, colored, on April 9, last, in a quarrel over money. The slayer will be sentenced Tuesday. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan prosecuted the case.

CITY SILENT ON VALLEY ROW POLICY

Stand Will be Announced After Engineers Return Owens River Report

The city will not commit itself to any definite policy in regard to the controversy over water rights in the Owens River Valley until the report of the special engineering committee sent into the valley to make a study of the technical phases of the problem is received.

A resolution to this effect was adopted yesterday by the Board of Public Service Commissioners after a three-hour conference behind locked doors with the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. The resolution goes on record as reconsidering the vote on a previous resolution in which a tentative policy dealing with the controversy was outlined.

The engineering committee is not expected to file its report for about thirty days. It was appointed at the instance of the directors of the chamber.

It was stated after the meeting that the board of the chamber has before it the report of a special subcommittee sent into the valley to investigate and report on the situation apart from its legal and engineering features. This committee was sent to the valley at the request of ranchers living there. It was stated yesterday that this report would not be acted upon until the report of the engineers is submitted so that the problem can be studied as a whole.

William Mulholland, chief of the Bureau of Water Works and Supply, and Councilman Criswell were also present at the conference.

SEES WANE OF ANGER IN JAPAN

Scotch Nobleman Here from Tour of Orient

Says Exclusion Resentment Will Die Quickly

Cites Inconsistent Stands Taken in Tokio

Japan's hue and cry over the American Exclusion Act will soon die down, thinks Earl Cassillis of Ayrshire, Scotland, who arrived with Countess Cassillis in Los Angeles yesterday after an extensive tour of the Orient, where he had an opportunity to observe at first hand the reaction of the Japanese to the exclusion law.

Earl Cassillis, who is the Grand Principal of the Royal Arch Chapter of Scottish Masons, undertook his journey to the Far East primarily to visit the chapters of that order located at Shanghai, Hongkong, Manila and other cities in the Orient. His travels also included parts of Australia and New Zealand. Earl and Countess Cassillis, who are now at the Alexandria, will remain in Los Angeles for several days as the guests of former Judge Harvey, Past Grand Master of the local Masonic lodge.

MUCH WROUGHT UP

"It is true that the Japanese are at present much wrought up over the situation," said Earl Cassillis. "The more intelligent of the population are able to see the American side of the question, however, and while the lower classes have made the exclusion provision an excuse for noisy demonstrations against America, I believe the cooler heads will prevail. I am of the opinion, though, that the situation is one that requires delicate handling by all parties concerned."

In this connection the Earl suggested that he had been impressed by the inconsistency of Japanese exclusion views as revealed shortly after the passage of the exclusion law was announced.

"While the Japanese are strenuously opposed to the exclusion of their own nationals from any country, it is a well-known fact that they have always maintained a strict exclusion policy in Japan, especially in reference to Koreans and Chinese," he said. "But shortly after the American ban was announced, the Japanese suddenly let down the bars on natives from Korea and China who might wish to locate in Japan. Apparently this was done for the moral effect it might produce on the rest of the world."

ANOTHER INCIDENT

Earl Cassillis related another incident that came to his attention during the recent anti-American demonstrations, which amused him very much.

"I was told that a group of the malcontents made an attack one evening on the home of a foreigner, believing him to be an American. It turned out that he was Portuguese, and when the rioters learned of their error, it greatly increased their fury against the Americans and they continued their demonstrations in the streets with far greater violence than before."

During his stay in New Zealand, Earl Cassillis witnessed a parade of dry forces in the city of Auckland, engineered by "Pussyfoot" Johnson, famous anti-saloon worker, in the interests of the dry movement in that country.

"Among the banners displayed by the marchers were several bearing the legend, 'Liquor is made in hell.' Presently the opposition forces appeared in a parade of their own carrying banners reading, 'O death, where is thy sting?'"

Former Haunts Lured Husband From Easy Life

Life on "Easy street" in an exclusive West Side district of the city irked William M. Moran. He was not used to it and pined for the comraderie of the East Side, where he had spent the better part of his life. Early one morning he cranked up his "rut hopper" and left the neighborhood of swank and formality to chug back to his old haunts on the East Side. He never came back. Yesterday his wife was granted a divorce in Judge Thompson's department of the Superior Court. They had been married for thirty-three years. Mrs. Moran told the court, but prosperity and a new habitation ended their happiness.

SI SENOR, EL TORO HAS COMPETITION

Joan Lowell

The queen of the Fourth of July festivities at Tia Juana today and Sunday is Joan Lowell, film actress, who recently finished a leading part opposite Neal Hart in his production of Mexican frontier life, "Branded a Thief."

She receives this honor through Senor De Los Rios, famous bull fighter from Spain, who will tackle several charging bulls in the Tia Juana arena.

Senor De Los Rios met Miss Lowell in Los Angeles while visiting his friend, Le Chevalier du Brac, the dancer. He was so taken by her beauty that he asked her to preside at the holiday festivities across the border. She left yesterday.

Miss Lowell will present Senor De Los Rios with the key to the arena and will be escorted in the grand march preceding the bull fights.

The cost of financing the next Shrine convention to be held in Los Angeles during the first week of June, 1925, will be approximately $400,000, according to a letter signed by Motley H. Flint, director-general of the 1925 imperial council, and addressed to City Council.

"There is no convention in the United States," says the letter, "which carries with it the attendance that the Shrine brings, with its vigorously uniform bands and patrols. We expect to have 150 special trains from all over the United States."

Assistance in financing the expenses of the convention is asked.

QUIZ NEAR ON POLICE RAIDS

Grand Jury Expected to Get Data Linking High Official With Poker Party Hold-Ups

Evidence purporting to link up a high police official with a series of hijacking and fake poker-game raids will be presented shortly to the grand jury for a detailed investigation, Assistant Captain of Detectives Cato anounced yesterday.

The announcement followed the arrest of Patrolman S. H. Millsap and his asserted confession that he had participated in two such expeditions, in one case obtaining $50 and in another $75. No new arrests have been made in the case.

The police investigation to date has followed two angles, it was stated, one dealing with the asserted criminal operations of the high officials and the other centering on the effort to locate Millsap's companions on the occasion of the two asserted robberies. Millsap continues in his refusal to name his companions, it was stated, but descriptions of the men are in the hands of the investigating officers and their arrest is expected soon.

Millsap was arrested Monday when he was recognized, it is asserted by H. Smith, proprietor of a Third-street hotel, as one of three men who got $50 on June 2 from poker players in his hotel. The other robbery is asserted to have taken place May 20 in a hotel in South Main street when $75 was obtained. Millsap was held incommunicado until Wednesday when his arrest was announced.

Judge Keetch Announces He Is Candidate

Judge Keetch announced yesterday that he will be a candidate to succeed himself on the Superior Court bench. His statement follows:

Having served nearly two years as a judge of the Superior Court in Los Angeles, since my appointment, I have been urged by a large number of citizens and members of the bar to become a candidate to succeed myself at the forthcoming election.

Therefore, I make this formal announcement of my candidacy. In so doing I can only say that I have always been keenly conscious of the solemnity of the obligation I accepted, and of the great responsibility of the trust imposed upon me to fairly and impartially administer the laws of the State and to do justice to my fellowman.

I have conscientiously endeavored to do this, and I will continue to do so if my fellow-citizens, by their votes, desire to retain me in office.

STEEL DEMAND HERE IS STEADY

tern Lull Not Reflected Producer Asserts

Output Taxed to Capacity by Local Building

The demand for steel is still strong on the Pacific Coast, though there has been a lull in the market of this commodity in other parts of the country the last few months, according to D. H. Botchford of San Francisco, vice-president and general manager of the Columbia Steel Corporation, which operates a steel plant at Torrance. Mr. Botchford, now at the Alexandria, is accompanied by N. A. Walker, the superintendent of the company's plant at Pittsburg, near San Francisco, and the two are here to inspect the local plant with a view to its future enlargement and improvement. He stated that the production of the Torrance plant had been increased about 150 per cent during the last year and that the company had under consideration plans for extensive improvements.

RUN AT CAPACITY

"The vast building operations that have been in progress in this state have taxed the plant almost to its capacity and there has been only a slight decrease in the demand," said Mr. Botchford. "Reports from other steel producing sections of the country state that many plants have cut down production owing to a lessened demand. This has probably been felt more largely by pre-election industry in business, but it has been hardly appreciable in the steel."

"The blast furnaces at our Utah plant are the first of their kind to be established in the West," said Mr. Botchford. "Before our company started its operations about four years ago, all the pig iron that was used in this section had to be shipped in from other parts of the country. Now much of this product that is used here is supplied by our Utah plant."

STEEL PRODUCT USED HERE

In addition to the Torrance plant, the company operates one steel manufacturing plant near San Francisco and another at Portland, Or. The pig iron to be used in this steel is shipped to the points from Salt Lake City. The company disposes of most of its finished product on the Pacific coast and also does some export business.

The iron mines are at Iron City, Utah, where 1000 tons of ore are now being produced. The large coal mines are a short distance from its iron mines and there is a railroad connecting its properties with the fuel supply. "We have all the raw materials for making iron right on the ground," said Mr. Botchford. "In addition to the ore and fuel supply we have an abundance of water, which is an important item, as it requires about 9,000,000 gallons of water a day to operate the blast furnaces."

QUIET FOURTH FOR CHINATOWN

Fire Chief Resents Declaration of Independence in Form of Sale of Illegal Fireworks; Leads Raids That Net $6000 in Pyrotechnics and 24 Orientals

Today will be rather dull in Chinatown as far as pyrotechnic displays are concerned.

Late yesterday afternoon a force of police officers and deputies led by fire department officials descended on Chinatown and cleaned up the district of firecrackers. They confiscated several tons of noise-makers under the provisions of the city ordinance forbidding their sale because of the fire hazard. The officers also took into custody two dozen Chinese on charges of violating the ordinance.

The raids were led by Fire Battalion Chief Todd and Fire Lieutenants White, Mauser and Hotaling. The orders for the raids were given by Fire Chief Scott and Chief of Police Vollmer. The value of the seized firecrackers is placed at about $6000.

A campaign to stop the sale of fireworks of the kind capable of starting fires was begun some weeks ago and merchants in Chinatown were informed the ordinance would be enforced rigidly this year because of the water shortage and the greater fire hazard which has resulted.

A half-dozen Chinese appeared in Police Judge Crawford's court yesterday for violation of this ordinance and were fined.

PROPER DISPLAY OF FLAG

Rules for Use of American Banner on Fourth of July Given by American Legion

Los Angeles Post No. 8, American Legion, asks banks, merchants, business houses and citizens to bear in mind the following rules in displaying the American flag on Independence Day.

"When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

"When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

"When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of building, the union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless the flag is at half mast.

"When festoons, rosettes or drapings of red, white and blue are desired, bunting should be used, but never the flag."

BRUSH FIRE AT FOOT OF MT. WILSON

Blaze in Eaton Canyon is Extinguished by Force Sent by County Forester

A small brush fire in Eaton Canyon at the foot of Mt. Wilson was reported to the office of County Forester Flintham yesterday. More than 100 men were dispatched to fight the flames, which were said to have been brought under control late in the afternoon.

Extra guards have been stationed throughout the mountain districts around Los Angeles to guard against fires over the week-end. Flintham said all his deputies had been advised not to permit campers and others to take fireworks into the mountains. The forester pointed out that it is against the county fire laws for anyone to discharge fireworks without first having received a permit from the county forester's office.

ORGANIZE STATE IN FIRE MENACE

citizens' committee are: Claus Spreckels, San Diego; Clinton E. Miller, Los Angeles; Fred W. Kiesel, Sacramento; Dudley V. Saeltzer, Redding.

Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles and Mrs. D. E. F. Easton of San Francisco have been appointed regional executives of the Citizens' Committee to interest the women of California in this fire-prevention activity.

It is estimated that when the organization is completed the State Citizens' Committee men on fire prevention will number 10,000.

DANGEROUS WEEK

A concrete statement of additional patrol, emergency funds necessary and an authentic analysis of the fire hazards with which the State is confronted is being prepared by District Forester Redington and State Forester Pratt. This statement will be broadcast through the State Citizens' Committee to all organizations, water users, Board of Supervisors and property owners.

The public is asked by the emergency organization to use every possible precaution in the use of camp fires, matches, cigarettes, cigars, which constitute the main causes of forest fires, and to cooperate in fire prevention by alert watching for fires in the forest areas. Chief among the larger fires in the national forests are listed:

Near Kernville on Sequoia National Forest: 100 men on the lines, 2500 acres burned.

On Trinity National Forest, on Little Papooge Creek, 1500 acres already devastated; seventy fire fighters.

In Plumas Forest, Feather River Canyon, near town of Poe, has covered 400 acres of forest land. Being fought by fifty men.

Stubborn fire near Forest Hill, Tahoe Forest; eighty men employed. These fires do not include several severe fires under the fire-fighting direction of State Forester Pratt.

With this situation existing just before the Fourth of July, forestry officials make special appeal to all citizens to be especially careful over the week-end. It's one of the periods of greatest danger in a fire season of unprecedented severity.

JUDGE SEES SERVICE AS GREAT NEED

Burks Pleads for More Practice and Less Talking as Patriotic Duty

Less lip service and more practice of the gospel of toleration and good will is the "solvent for the diseases with which organized society appears to be affected," Judge Burks of the Superior Court declared in an address on citizenship yesterday before the Philanthropy and Civics Club.

Today, he said, the entire nation will celebrate "a festival in which freedom received a nation's homage." But the celebration will be meaningless unless the occasion is used to drive home the fact that for "each protection afforded by the government there is a duty owing to that government."

The greatest menace to effective representative democracy, he declared, is lack of understanding of the basic principles, apathy and distorted thought.

"Education, in the broad sense of knowledge of the duties of government, of the rights of men and of the privileges and reciprocal responsibilities of citizenship, has been neglected," he said. "That there has been evolved no generally accepted or generally acceptable definition of what constitutes Americanization affords cause for shame."

The Constitution, he continued, is but a symbol of power reposed in the people and all alike are pledged to keep the social compact which it represents. Worked down to the bone, there is no government except public sentiment. It is therefore essential that this sentiment be made clear and enlightened and strong.

JUSTICE CRAWFORD IS FIRST WITH PETITION

Police Justice Hugh J. Crawford was the first of the many candidates for a place upon the Superior Court bench to file his nominating petition, which was received by Registrar of Voters Lyons yesterday. Other candidates to file were Assemblyman Sidney T. Graves, candidate for re-election to the Sixty-third District, and Supervisor Henry W. Wright of the Fifth District.

DAMAGES ARE AWARDED

Judgment of $2500 was awarded yesterday to Mrs. Ethel White and her daughter Fern, against the Samarkand Ice Cream Company by a jury in Judge Walton J. Wood's department of the Superior Court. They were run down and seriously injured by a truck owned by the company a few months ago while returning home from church.

DORIS IS NAMED IN BOTH DEATHS

ily physician for many years, charged Attorney Spicer or somebody else with having placed something in the pockets of the car while members of the family were not loking. She charged agents for Doris's defense with "planting evidence."

"I saw them do it!" she declared. "I saw it with my own eyes."

Capt. Hunter eventually succeeded in quelling the disturbance and then confiscated the cartridges to hold pending an investigation and as evidence, he explained.

The cartridges, which were new and shiny, were not the same kind as those used in the .32-caliber pistol that figured in the tragedy. Besides, he further explained, Detective Sergeants Moseley and Ward had searched Meyer's car thoroughly three times on the morning of the double slaying.

"If the cartridges were planted by anybody in the car," said Capt. Hunter, "it was done in an attempt to disprove the testimony at the inquest, in which it was declared Meyer had never owned a gun, had never carried a weapon in his car and, particularly, did not have one on the day he was killed. Anyway, we shall include this incident as evidence in Doris's trial."

DENIAL BY LAWYER

Attorney Spicer denied any knowledge as to how the cartridges happened to get in the car. He explained that he just had a hunch the car should be searched and followed up his hunch by requesting Capt. Hunter to do so.

It was not the only sensation of the inquest. Earlier in the afternoon two police detectives admitted on the witness stand that they were thoroughly convinced that Doris killed not only Meyer, but also his own wife.

"There was nothing in my investigation to indicate that Meyer ever had possession of one of the guns used in the shooting," the detective said. "I can't see any other way than that Doris killed Meyer."

Doris sat an arm's length from the witness. His ashen face, which before held an expression of sorrow, now changed to anger. He glowered at the officer.

Detective Ward testified that he based his conclusion upon Doris's original story, upon a rehearsal of the tragedy in which he was one of the actors, and upon tell-tale bits of evidence found upon the scene. He declared it would have been a physical impossibility for Meyer to shoot himself in the manner such as that which Doris described. Two ugly "gats" were whipped from patrolmen's hips and a second rehearsal was staged during the inquest. Attorney Spicer played the role of Meyer. After a series of contortions, during which he simulated suicide with much clicking of hair-triggers, he retired in a sweat to his seat. All of which amused Mrs. Meyer, the widow, and the six children grouped about her.

OPINION EXPRESSED

Detective Sergeant Mozeley repeated the story told by Doris on the morning of his arrest. Doris listened attentively, affirming some of the officer's statements by nodding his head, denying others by vigorous shakes of his head.

"Were you able to determine, in your investigation, who fired the shots?" Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison asked him.

"No—but I have my opinions. Basing my conclusions upon the positions of the dead, upon the piece of Mrs. Doris's skull found on Meyer's collar and other findings, I believe Mrs. Doris was killed last. And I believe Meyer's wounds were not self-inflicted. It would have been physically impossible for him to shoot himself."

Detective Moseley concluded his testimony by stating that, after the arrival of the police, Doris knelt beside his dead wife and removed several articles of jewelry from her stocking.

Eleanor Meyer, 12-year-old daughter of the slain man, approached the witness stand. She wanted to tell everybody that her daddy did not have a gun on the morning he was killed. Doris leaned forward, cupped a hand over his ear and listened attentively to the freckle-faced child.

Elleanor swore her father was not armed. She watched him place the contents of his pockets while he dressed at Pasadena, she said, and if he had had a revolver she would have seen it. She accompanied Meyer to Long Beach and he got nothing on the way, she said.

"How did Mr. Doris greet your father?" she was asked.

TELLS OF GREETING

"He said, 'Hello there, Henry' and he seemed to be excited," she said. Doris took her and her brother, Henry, Jr., to a drug store for ice cream, she testified, and told her to remain in the parlor of the apartment or play in the street when she was through.

Mrs. Meyer, the widow, took the stand. Strewn around her was a bullet-pierced, blood-stained coat and vest, a perforated necktie, a white collar with a piece of skull sticking to it, two pistols, a photograph of two dead bodies huddled upon the floor. The clothing was her husband's—but no tears appeared. Doris appeared the sadder. He wiped a tear from his eye when he saw the widow of his slain business partner at his elbow. He threw an arm around a friend, then shook his head sadly.

Mrs. Meyer declared her husband owned no revolver, never had one about the house, was opposed to firearms, never borrowed one and did not know how to handle one.

"He never had a revolver in all our twenty-five years of married life," she said.

Mrs. Meyer also denied that her husband owed Doris any money.

TELLS OF DEPARTURE

"I was a director in all his companies and was familiar with all his business," she said. "When he left home Monday he was in good spirits and happy. His last words to me were, 'Mamma, I'm off to Long Beach. Doris thinks he has a chance to sell the Elleanor.'"

She referred to the Elleanor Apartments, in which the slaying took place. It was the home of Doris and was formerly owned by Meyer and Doris jointly.

Dr. Frank D. Sweet, Long Beach police surgeon was an important witness. Asked if Meyer's wounds were self-inflicted he said his opinion would be conjecture but he would describe what he saw.

NO POWDER MARKS

"Meyer was fully dressed," he said. "His necktie was disarranged. The first bullet hole I noticed was in his left breast, under the coat lapel. There were no powder marks near it. The point of exit was at the back. His necktie showed a bullet hole surrounded with a metallic lustel. There were no powder marks on the coat, waistcoat or tie.

"Both wounds were made by the same sized bullet, apparently thirty-eight caliber."

"Would either of these wounds have proved mortal?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said, "but a man might have lived a few moments with them."

The shot that killed Mrs. Doris was fired, he said, with the pistol pressed against her scalp; otherwise the ball would have pierced her ear lobe. Dr. Sweet identified the two revolvers and the bloody garments of Meyer.

SKULL FRAGMENT SHOWN

He said it would have been impossible, in his opinion, for a piece of Mrs. Doris's skull to land on Meyer's collar if Meyer fired the shot that killed her. The collar with the bit of skull adhering to it was introduced in evidence.

Detective Sergeant Mozley said in his opinion, reached after careful investigation Mrs. Doris was killed after Meyer.

"I do not believe Meyer's wounds were self-inflicted," he said. "We re-enacted the shooting as described by Doris and I found it physically impossible to fire bullets into my own body in the manner he described."

Mrs. May Beardsley, manager of the Elleanor Apartments, identified the body of Mrs. Doris. A like service for Meyer's body was performed by Hisko Linneman, superintendent of Meyer's department store at Pasadena.

The verdict read: "We, the jury, find that Henry Dietrick Meyer and Mrs. Therese Maria Doris came to their deaths by gunshot wounds probably inflicted by Charles William Doris, but we recommend further investigation of the shooting by the District Attorney." The foreman was T. McCuddy of Long Beach.

HOLLY A. C. FAMILY NIGHT IS SUCCESSFUL

Family night at the Hollywood Athletic Club drew forth about 1000 members and their families to join in the aquatic festivities and sports in general last night. The spacious green swimming pool fairly teemed with humanity, and the outside of the tank was equally crowded.

Cleve Morrison, well-known local fancy diver was on hand and showed off his wares to the members and their families. Morrison recently won a diving championship at the Ambassador Hotel. He is the brother of Colleen Moore, the film star.

This is the second Thursday night set aside for the families of the club members, and has proven so popular that the practice will be continued.

COW'N HER CALF AGAIN IN COURT

Demurrer to $1000 Damage Action Over Staking of Bovine Mother and Offspring Insinuates That Bawls and Moos Complained of Were Musical

Moo-o-o-o! Ma, here's the Peabody cow'n her calf of Santa Monica to court again!

The Howard B. Peabodys are being sued by the Herbert W. Burdetts, who allege the Peabodys staked their cow and her calf in a lot next to the Burdett home and the cow and the calf mooed collectively and individually four hours per diem to the extent of $1000 damages to the plaintiffs.

It is charged the cow and her offspring were so tied that they could get only within twenty-five feet of each other and that this, combined with asserted neglect in feeding and milking the cow, caused the mooing and bawling.

Come now the defendants and, through Attorneys Tanner, Odell & Taft, file a demurrer to the complaint in which it is insinuated the bawls of the cow may have been musical. They ask that the plaintiffs take nothing because the complaint is uncertain and ambiguous for a number of reasons, among them the following:

It is not certain whether the alleged malicious intent of the defendants consisted in the staking out of the cow and calf or in eliciting bawls from them.

That it cannot be ascertained from the complaint how the staking of the calf twenty-five feet from the cow caused the bawls or whether the bawls were musical or otherwise or whether the feeding caused the cow to bawl or the calf caused her to bawl or whether the two bawled at the same time.

It is asserted that the complaint is faulty, according to the demurrer, because:

"It cannot be ascertained therefrom what is meant by the words 'make nerve-racking noises'" in connection with the allegation that the defendants wilfully and with intent to make said cow emit loud bawls staked said calf in sight of said cow.

"It cannot be ascertained therefrom how or in what manner the approach of the calf within twenty-five feet of the said cow occasioned her to bawl.

"It cannot be ascertained how or in what manner the milking of said cow by hand caused the emission of said bawls, or whether there is some other method of milking a cow so as to prevent said bawls.

"It cannot be ascertained therefrom whether the staking out of the cow and calf at 175 feet from plaintiffs' house caused the said cow and calf to emit loud bawls four hours a day.

"It cannot be ascertained therefrom when the normal sleeping hours of the plaintiffs were or at what time of day the said cow and calf emitted said loud bawls.

"It cannot be ascertained therefrom whether plaintiffs or either of them are of a nervous disposition."

After the demurrer was filed it was learned that counsel for the defense bemoaned the fact that they neglected to mention that it is not certain from the complaint whether the cow is the mother of the calf. All these matters some luckless judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county will have to decide.

Hearing Begun by Grand Jury on Port Riots

The grand jury yesterday began its investigation into the tarring and feathering of six Wobblies by a mob which wrecked the I.W.W. Hall at Los Angeles Harbor some weeks ago.

Twelve witnesses were heard and the investigation then continued until next Tuesday. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Shelley conducted the examination of the witnesses. Two men are under arrest charged with leading the mob.

REPORTING PROGRESS
Prof. Mathews says that he has killed a mouse with his death ray at a distance of sixty feet. They could do the same thing with a bow and arrow 6000 years ago.

BUSINESS AS USUAL
The postoffice receipts here during June were over 10 per cent greater than for the same month last year. It looks like a good season for Calvin Coolidge.

THE PUNISHMENT
A police official is calling for the infliction of the death penalty on dope peddlers and vicious bootleggers. That, at least, would be one way to get rid of them. They could hardly repeat.

THE WORLD AFLAME
It is just ten years since the world blew up over the assassination of a prince. It can hardly be said that the earth has entirely cooled off in the doomful decade, but it would take more than the fall of a prince to disrupt it again.

THE FIRE THAT FAILED
A Frenchman has created a cold light. Always light has been associated with heat and the production of a light that will not burn seems revolutionary. The cold light would spare America a lot of costly fires if it could be generally introduced.

FAULTY VISION
A survey made of more than 200,000 average workers in a number of trades showed that more than 44 per cent suffered from defective vision. Whether this impairment is to the extent of influencing some of them to vote the Democratic ticket is not argued. Their vision is imperfect—that is all.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS
The Mayor of Atlantic City is trying to drive lady cigarette smokers from his beach. One would think that the shore of a massive ocean was the finest and safest place in the world for a lady torch-bearer. If a girl must puff a fag, what better place than the shore of a vast ocean?

THE LADY'S LINES
The French say that short skirts are for short hairs, but Paris is making a desperate effort to bring back the lines of the feminine figure once more. This will have to be done with corsets and longer gowns and it will take more than the judgment of Paris to put this revolution over in Hollywood. The French designers are making progress, however, and are not without hope.

THE AMERICAN WAY
American motor trucks are to be used in the further invasion of the Gobi Desert by American explorers and archaeologists who are digging up dinosaurs in the cradle of the world. If they can commandeer a fleet of American steam shovels they could get at the bottom of things in short order. But it must be galling on earth's earliest inhabitant to be ripped from his moorings by a Frankenstein that breathes steam.

THE PRISON THREAT
A prominent clergyman is insisting on a five-year term in prison for the guilty party in a divorce case. Possibly the idea is to make divorce less popular, but it is a roundabout and exaggerated plan to attain that end. Likewise it would preclude paying of alimony. If the erring husband is locked up for four or five years he cannot be much of a financial producer. The preacher may be sincere, but he is impractical. There is a lot more prison talk than conditions really call for.

OUTDOOR PRISONS
There is no municipal farm at Griffith Park. The former open-air reformatory has become a public camp and playground for the youth. But this does not mean that the municipal farm was an unsuccessful experiment. The idea of an outdoor jail for a certain type of prisoner or for persons awaiting trial is a good one—especially in this climate. Efforts are being made to get the city and county authorities together on a constructive program of this kind. It is a proposition upon which there should be close co-operation on the part of city and county.

OUR OWN ARTISTS
Thousands of visitors are attracted to Exposition Park just now by the remarkable exhibit of art work by the students of the Otis Art Institute in the Museum Art Gallery. There are in the exhibit about 600 separate studies, comprising life-size portraiture, landscape painting, drawing, design, metal work, jewelry and sculpture. There is a showing of much talent in each branch that speaks well for the character of the work. The institute is maintained by the County Supervisors as a department of the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art, "to aid the education of workers in the different fine and applied arts." This home institution, with its faculty of twelve artists, is rapidly coming to the front with its four semesters covering the entire twelve months of the year and the excellence of the instruction given as is well demonstrated by the exhibit now to be seen at Exposition Park.

OUR HERITAGE
Nearly a century and a half has passed since a little group of men assembled in a frontier city on the edge of the great American wilderness and signed a document that openly defied the power of the strongest military force in the then known world. To the might of arms they opposed the power of an idea. Physically weak, they were morally strong. To European autocracy they opposed the idea of representative government, in which no hereditary distinctions should be recognized.

The total white population of the colonies represented at the Philadelphia conference was no more than that of the State of California at the present time. They had no army and no navy. Their only foreign commerce was with British colonies and carried in British ships. Rulers of other European autocracies, when they heard months later what had taken place, laughed at the folly of the "Continentals." Later they extended help; not because they thought the cause of the colonies was just, but because the revolt would tend to weaken the military power of Great Britain.

As one reads the record of those stirring, glorious days at the present time one wonders how they had the nerve to do it. For the moment Great Britain was enjoying an interim of peace. She was in position to send fleets and armies of trained troops to the colonies to suppress any attempted rebellion. And the penalty of the instigators of revolt in those days was death.

Yet the moral courage that the sense of justice gives proved stronger than physical weakness. The colonies fought, and the wilderness fought with them. New York and Philadelphia fell, the Continental army was reduced to a skeleton, but the spirit of liberty as expressed in representative government continued to live. They held on when all but hope was dead. So often did they perform the seemingly impossible that Frederick of Prussia and Louis of France realized that they could strike England a real blow through lending military and financial support to the revolting colonies.

Destiny fought on the side of liberty and justice. The cause of the colonies won support in the autocratic British Parliament. Liberty and the wilderness proved more powerful than British arms. Then came the glorious day when England signed the treaty that established before the world the independence of the American colonies.

The Constitution had not been written. The thirteen colonies were officially known as the Confederation. The United States was yet to be born. But the first step in the great march of progress in representative government in America had been taken.

No other people has made such progress since that epochal day in 1776, when the representatives of the colonies risked their fortunes and their lives in the cause of liberty and justice against autocracy and tyranny. It was the most glorious venture that modern history records.

As we face the world on the anniversary of that day we can well ask ourselves if we possess the sterling qualities of that rugged ancestry. So long as they were morally right they feared not powerful wrong. They did not know how their struggle would end; but they preferred to lose all in the cause of liberty rather than to continue to live as vassals of a foreign power.

There are decisions to take in the reconstruction of the world since the last war that are as important as the one made on that July the Fourth in Philadelphia. There are tyrannies as hateful to justice and morals as that of the former Old World autocracies.

The United States is now rich and powerful. It has no occasion to fear any foe armed with the weapons of war. But the field of conflict has been shifted from the physical to the moral and intellectual plane. Communism and anarchy are as hateful to the spirit of free representative government as absolute monarchy. Those who seek to pervert the education of the rising generation, to produce a race that is intellectually intelligent and morally ignorant and vicious, are secret enemies who must be unmasked and made to feel the lash of public scorn and indignation.

This is the day that we should reflect upon the traditions of our common country, should consider the things that must be preserved if our progress is to continue. The spirit of 1776 gave birth to the great and powerful American republic of 1924. Let us give a serious thought to the probable progeny of the spirit of 1924. No other people has received so high a heritage perhaps from its ancestors. What shall be the heritage that our descendants 150 years hence will have received from us?

In commemorating the anniversary let us not forget the emblem of our liberties, the Stars and Stripes. On Independence ADay they should be unfurled to the winds of heaven from every housetop. A family that is too poor to possess a flag is poor indeed, either in purse or in patriotic spirit. An American citizen who is in such haste to get away to the mountains or the sea for a day of recreation that he forgets the flag lacks something of the patriotic spirit of those who gave birth to our liberties.

This is the day when every citizen should show his colors; the one day in the year when the national colors should float above the poppies and the roses. Our flag is the emblem of our heritage. Let the patriots in Los Angeles prove today that they do not forget.

BOURBON GREED AND ENMITY
Warring Democrats in New York have broken all records for the length of conventions and the number of ballots taken in an attempt to nominate a President. The convention is a glaring example of a house divided against itself; and, as The Times pointed out when the delegates assembled, the bitter fight is not over the platform, but the struggle for patronage and spoils of office.

With the exception of the religious issue, raised by the attempt to denounce the illegal and un-American activities of the Ku Klux Klan, the platform was of but minor importance. Each group representing a considerable block of votes brought its planks and they were all utilized, making the platform a mass of contradictions. The different planks were just so much bait to be placed on the electoral hook. But selecting the candidate; there came the rub.

There is no outstanding figure in the Democratic party. The delegates are reduced to a choice among little men. There is no patriotic issue. The country is satisfied in the main with the Harding-Coolidge administration. Only those groups who placed their special interest before the public interest opposed in the Republican party the nomination of Coolidge and they represented but a small minority of the Republicans in the country at large.

How different is the situation in the Democratic party! The old South took the Klan side in the racial and religious fight. The old intolerance reappeared. And the votes of the old South have kept McAdoo in the lead for more than fifty ballots. New England and the Middle Atlantic States will have none of McAdoo. By a proportion of at least three to one they favor Gov. Smith of New York. Backed by the powerful Tammany organization the Smith forces have held their ranks intact and have made a few gains during four days of balloting. Their big drive has not yet started.

California is held by the unit rule to McAdoo, although some of the delegates prefer another candidate. The Middle West is divided. Some of the States are still supporting favorite sons, and McAdoo has most of the rest. When fifty-five ballots had been taken no candidate was within 300 votes of the number necessary to nominate.

Dispatches from New York Thursday afternoon reported that more than 100 delegates had left for their homes and alternates were casting their ballots. A feeling of disillusionment and disgust filled the convention hall and the city. It was openly asserted that every additional ballot meant at least five additional electoral votes for Coolidge and Dawes.

Hopes of Democratic success have gone glimmering. The present convention has offered a glaring example of how candidates should not be nominated. At one time 600 policemen were necessary in Madison Square Garden to preserve the peace. There has been no statesmanlike consideration of any issue since the convention assembled. If one doubts that the donkey is the emblem of the Democratic party he has but to read the record of this convention to date and be convinced.

Taken as a whole, it has been a great week for the Republican party, for the division in the Republican convention in 1912 was not more marked or more embittered than the present division in the Democratic ranks.

"Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." It is possible that the death blow will be struck to the Democratic party itself by the present convention.

HONOR AMONG THIEVES
It is a pretty tradition that there is honor among thieves. But the rogue's chivalry appears to have vanished along with the other brands.

Consider just one little case pending in the courts. The wife and another man robbed a jewelry store and the husband disposed of the stolen goods. Sufficient evidence against the thieves was, however, lacking.

But now they can be brought to trial. For the husband, assuring the authorities that he is not legally married to the lady, has confessed his own part in the robbery and offered to turn State's evidence against the other couple—in consideration of a recommendation to probation for himself.

This is quite satisfactory to the State—but deadly to the legend of honor among thieves.

PAINTING THE JUNGLE
Women are branching out into many fields of activity, but one of the most unusual positions held by anyone, either man or woman, is filled by Miss Isabel Cooper, staff artist of the Tropical Research Station of the New York Zoological Society. Miss Cooper's work consists of painting studies of lizards, boa constrictors and similar parlor pets. Since these change color and their appearance greatly after death, Miss Cooper maintains a studio at Katabo Point, British Guiana, in the heart of the jungle. Here she studies the denizens of the jungles at close range and copies their hues and poses with an exacting fidelity to detail.

Glass cages are constructed in the forest studio, to which natives lure some unwilling model. When his anger is sufficiently spent and he quiets down a little the intrepid artist saunters in with her easel and begins to paint his gorgeous hues and supple lineaments. Miss Cooper asserts that her own nerves remain sound, but that her helpers are kept on the anxious seat, as snakes and iguanas are constantly shattering their frail cages and scooting back to the jungle. Nevertheless, it's a great life, she avers, and painting in a peaceful New York studio would have no charms for her after the thrills she has enjoyed in her Guiana studio.

Dauntless adventurers are not necessarily all of the masculine sex, and, now that the conventions are less frenclad for the women, we can look forward to some thrilling stories from feminine explorers and followers of the unbeaten paths of the world.

THE RUSSIAN ROYAL JEWELS
Sir Martin Conway, a veracious British authority, just returned from Russia, tells the world that it is all bunk about the Czar's crown jewels having been sold or otherwise disposed of. He has seen and touched them all and they repose in their original cases in the Petrograd Museum.

If this be true they never have been in Los Angeles, international detectives all over the world are not hunting them down and certain wealthy American ladies have not secretly purchased various items of them from international crooks.

THE SAGE OF CALABASAS

It is easy to understand why people get impatient with the progress of civilization. There are so many things wrong and so few things are done to remedy them that it is natural to want to have the cards shuffled and a whole new deal made.

But progress is never made wholesale.

People think of the United States as a new deal in nations. But the colonies had had self-government, built up institutions for generations before the separation. They adopted the Constitution by several years of fumbling and experiment.

The features of the Constitution that have worked best were those previously tested by time and experience. Some of them, such as the Electoral College, were acclaimed as brilliant inventions and have never functioned at all as they were intended to function.

The tremendous resources of a new land probably had much to do with the success of the United States. We can be proud of that success with all due humility.

EDWARD C. KRAUSS.

RIPPLING RHYMES

PAYING UP

I feel all kinds of pleasant thrills, glad smiles my face adorn, as I proceed to pay my bills each time a month is born. I write my checks, a goodly heap, and to myself I say, "The grocer now may cease to weep, the butcher may be gay. The plumber's haggard face will shine, the blacksmith's breast will glow when they receive these checks of mine to pay up what I owe. The undertaker's patient wife may buy a Sunday lid. There are a hundred ways to aid the ones who weep and wail; some hand out maxims with a spade or spring a sunshine tale. Some will resort to any plan that does not tap their tills; but I would cheer my fellow-man by paying up my bills. And so I see the tailors smile, the blacksmiths show delight, mechanics come, in single file, to tell me I'm all right." There is a most benign old bird who tours the village streets; he always has a kindly word for everyone he meets; he always has a pleasant smile for everyone on deck; but when you'd draw upon his pile he freezes up like heck. The sunny smile and genial phrase are surely most sublime when offered by the man who pays his monthly bills on time.

LETTERS TO The Times

Why Moral Idiots?

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Referring again to your editorial under the heading, "Educating Moral Idiots," it has occurred to me that there must be a reason why we, as a people, are educating persons, so many of whom are in a more or less advanced degree of moral deficiency.

The failure of the present generation so to live as to hand down to the children of today an inherited desire for the higher and nobler attainments of life, combined with an environment that will not give the time or effort necessary to create an atmosphere that will develop moral ideas, is to a large degree to blame for the moral idiots. How can we expect strong moral characters to develop in our children when they are not taught or often caused to think upon character-forming subjects?

The ideals of our present civilization that have created mothers who give more time to the painting of their faces and fathers who give more time to the smoking of cigarettes than to the moral training of their children are probably more directly responsible for the moral idiots than any other cause. The price must be paid if we are to have a moral posterity. It is high time for parents, teachers, preachers, newspapers and moving pictures to radiate in their respective spheres an influence that will create the desire and will for higher ideals. Very truly yours,

RALPH B. LLOYD.

Obstructing Sidewalks

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Have you ever made a complaint to the building department of our city? If not, then let me give you the same advice which Punch once gave those about to marry: "Don't!"

At the corner of Carondelet and Sixth streets a contractor is erecting a set of stores on a lot 50x150. He has built a box-like structure along the entire frontage on Sixth street, 150 feet, and has completely effaced the sidewalk so that ladies or children have to walk in the dust and dirt or climb over cement sacks, piles of bricks or lumber or else they must go into the street, which affords them an opportunity to be run over by the automobiles, thousands of which go up and down Sixth street daily.

I have called up the building department on three occasions and have asked that this nuisance may be abated and every time the official to whom I talked carefully noted down the address and the exact location of the building in question. And that is all the good it did. Nothing has been done to remedy the trouble and only yesterday I saw how a lady and her little girl were very nearly run down by an auto, all because the contractor in question is permitted to occupy the sidewalk which, I am certain, is against the law or, rather, which should be against the law if such law were enforced by the building department.

SOUTHLAND WHITE SPOT, SAYS RIEHLE

Theater Magnate, Here to Plan Season at Morosco, Sees No Depression

"It requires only a few hours here to see that Los Angeles is the real 'white spot' of the country," said John Martin Riehle, New York theater magnate and business man, shortly after reaching the Biltmore yesterday.

Riehle is general manager of the Morosco theaters throughout the United States and is here to lay out plans for a general expansion of policy at the Los Angeles Morosco.

"The slight depression the country is passing through is largely due, in my opinion, to the uncertainty about the elections," said Riehle, "but this uncertainty does not seem in any way apparent in Los Angeles. I can assure you that I am happy to find it so.

"At the Morosco here in Los Angeles I propose putting on a lot of brand new plays, never before shown anywhere. In New York we have come to believe that the critical judgment made by Los Angeles audiences on plays is sound and worthy to follow."

Riehle is not only a theatrical magnate, but directs the affairs of a large eastern insurance company, realty interests and an automobile manufacturing company.

PHYSICIAN TO FACE CHARGE OF PERJURY

DR. G. H. WYMANN IS ACCUSED OF FALSIFYING IN LICENSE APPLICATION

For his failure to advise the State Board of Medical Examiners that he served time in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., Dr. G. H. Wymann was charged formally with perjury yesterday. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke issued a complaint against the doctor.

A year ago yesterday Dr. Wymann applied for a California medical license in which he swore to the fact that he had never been called before any enforcement officers or charged with violating a United States or State statute.

This is directly in contradiction of the truth, according to Special Agent Albert Carter of the State Board of Medical Examiners when he requested that the charges be preferred against the physician. Agent Carter produced the doctor's record at the Federal prison, which showed that Dr. Wymann was sentenced to two years on July 5, 1918, for violating a Texas narcotic law.

Records of the local Police Court also show that the doctor was arrested at his offices at 1073 South Central avenue on May 12, last, after making an asserted sale of narcotics. Two weeks later he was placed in custody by Commissioner Long and held for the United States grand jury, charged with selling cocaine to government agents.

Candidacy of Judge Collier Is Announced

Judge Frank C. Collier, appointed to the Superior Court of Los Angeles county by Gov. Richardson last March, yesterday made formal announcement of his candidacy for election to the position.

Judge Collier was born September 14, 1878, in Central City, Colo. He was a graduate of the San Diego High School, and was graduated from the law deparmement of the University of Michigan in 1901. He practiced in San Diego and Prescott, Ariz., before coming to Los Angeles. He has been an active member of the Los Angeles County Bar Association, particularly as a member of its grievance committee, on which he served three years, one as chairman, during which period he instituted or assisted in instituting proceedings in a dozen cases resulting in disbarment of attorneys found guilty of misconduct in practice.

At the time of his appointment Judge Collier was a member of the legal firm of Collier and Labarere.

Pitch Pot Boils Over and Starts Blaze at Harbor

A pitch pot boiled over early yesterday on the new wharves under construction at berths 177-178, and set fire to the underdeck structure, resulting in a loss of $1000 before the blaze was extinguished by four Los Angeles Harbor fire companies.

Fireman V. M. Bass of engine company No. 49 fell overboard while passing a hose line to men working beneath the pier, and was rescued with difficulty from the thirty-foot channel by Battalion Chief Baly, Bass being unable to swim in his heavy fire-fighting clothing.

Following a survey of the damage Engineer J. W. Ludlow announced that repairs to the dock could be made for several hundred dollars.

Tabor is asserted to have accosted Roth while the latter was sitting in his automobile, and to have ordered him to put up his hands. Instead of complying with the command, according to Helm, Roth wrested Tabor's gun away from hi mand took him into custoday. Mrs. Tabor then appeared on the scene, Helm said, and was arrested and jointly charged with the attempt to rob Roth.

Mr. Norton was driving his car back to Hollywood from Keeler, Cal. when, near Ricardo, the machine struck a sandy spot in the road and turned over twice. O. B. KIBELE WOULD KEEP HARBOR JOB

Desire of Commissioner to be Own Successor is Confirmed by Mayor

O. B. Kibele, member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, is a candidate for reappointment. His term expires on Monday, the 7th inst.

Two years ago Mayor Cryer requested Kibele's resignation, did not receive it and forebore to press the matter further, lacking, as was then reported, sufficient votes in Council to uphold him in outright removal.

Kibele and Commissioner Allen, the new member of the board, were callers Tuesday on the Mayor. Kibele, Allen and Charles J. Colden, president of the board, were in conference with the Mayor again yesterday morning.

Yesterday afternoon the Mayor confirmed reports of Kibele's candidacy. "Neither Mr. Allen nor Mr. Colden," he continued, "gave me their attitude. Some persons, I suppose, might infer from their presence that they were not opposed. Other matters also were discussed and they might cite them as sufficient reason for calling in a body."

There have been no intimations to members of the Council, it was said among them yesterday, that the Mayor intends to send in Kibele's name and the Mayor himself said he is not ready yet to state what he intends to do.

Monday, the 7th inst., promises to be a busy day in council. Tomorrow is a legal holiday and Saturday the council does not meet, but a full attendance is expected Monday and it has been agreed that the session will receive itself into a committee of the whole to take up the Mayor's nomination of C. J. Elsasser to the police commission, which was brought under fire when it was recalled that arson charges had been at one time preferred against him. Elsasser's defense was that the charges had been dismissed by Capt. John D. Fredericks, then District Attorney, as not supported by the evdence.

Thus far the appointment has lacked sufficient votes to insure confirmation. Mayor Cryer has heard Elsasser's side and between now and Monday will listen to the opposition in council. Nothing thus far has indicated that he intends to withdraw the appointment.

UNPAID CAST SCORES POINT

Labor Official Rules G. H. Oswald and Two Others Liable for "Mlle. Magnificent" Pay Roll

As a preliminary move in the disposition of the wage claims filed by members of the unfortunate "Mlle. Magnificent" cast, Attorney Lowy of the State Department of Labor ruled yesterday that George H. Oswald, who backed the show to the extent of $2000, Dick Castle, acting as trustee for the $2000 loan, and Mrs. Ann Small, producer, are jointly responsible for the wages due to players.

The decision of Mr. Lowy was made following a conference at the Labor Department where Mr. Oswald's attorney introduced an agreement which was entered into when the $2000 loan was made. While it contained a provision that Mr. Oswald would not be held responsible for any debts of the production, Mr. Lowy declared this was not binding as Mr. Oswald was to receive a certain percentage from the profits of the performances.

For this reason Attorney Lowy named Mr. Castle and Mrs. Small as liable for the claims as they were also to receive a proportion of the profits by the terms of the agreement.

Reading of the agreement revealed that Mr. Oswald was to receive 50 per cent of the proceeds and the other half was to be divided among Mrs. Small, Mr. Castle, a promotion manager of a local newspaper, and the Soldiers' Monument Fund.

The claimants, some fifty in number, were notified by the department that a hearing will be held Wednesday when they will be given opportunity to prove that the aggregate total of approximately $5000 is rightfully due them.

"Mlle. Magnificent" was presented a week ago yesterday at the Mason Operahouse. The performance Saturday night was called off, according to Olive Ann Alcorn, one of the wage claimants and star of the show, because three $100 checks given her as part payment on her $700 wages could not be cashed.

At yesterday's conference at the Labor Department Mrs. Small explained that these checks were given Miss Alcorn in all good faith but that a promised bank account had not materialized.

FIRST GUARDSMEN IN CAMP

Advance Units of Coast Artillery Reach Harbor Post for Annual Training

Advance detachments of the 800 National Guardsmen who will assemble at Fort MacArthur tomorrow for their annual fortnight of training as Coast Artillerymen arrived at the Harbor post yesterday. The main body, composed of fourteen companies from San Francisco, San Diego, Los Angeles Harbor and Long Beach, will arrive shortly after noon tomorrow.

Three expert artillery instructors, designated by the War Department to direct the coast defense training of the State troops, headed the advance guard yesterday. They were Maj. T. C. Cook, Capt. Douglas L. Carrington and Capt. J. D. McMullen, all Coast Artillery officers. A commissary detachment, under Capt. John L. Farley, also reported at the post last night.

Col. Robert E. Mittelstaedt, commanding the Coast Artillery Corps of the California National Guard, will again be in command of the encampment this year. In addition to the instructors designated by the War Department, five officers and twenty enlisted men from the regular garrison at Fort MacArthur, have been named by Maj. George Ruhlen, Jr., commandant, to assist.

The first week of the encampment will be devoted to infantry drill and elementary instruction in the handling of the big guns of the fortifications, while target practice with the fourteen-inch disappearing rifles, twelve-inch mortars and anti-aircraft batteries will be held from the 14th to 19th inst., Maj. Ruhlen announced yesterday.

A comprehensive program of athletic competition between the various companies will be carried out and the officers and men at the encampment will also be the guests of several local organizations at a number of entertainments being arranged in their honor.

Julian Wants Leave to Sell Stock Revoked

The Julian Petroleum Corporation, through its attorney, Percy V. Hammon, yesterday requested Corporation Commissioner Daugherty to revoke its permit for the sale of $8,000,000 in stock which was granted on April 10, last. Decision to request the revocation of the permit was agreed on at a recent board of directors meeting, according to Mr. Hammon.

The attorney told the commissioner that the company has no further use for the permit, as it plans to dispose of no more stock in the State. Less than one-fifth of the $5,000,000 issue is said to have been sold in California thus far.

Plans of the organizers are for continental divisions with branches in each nation, the association to devote its attention to international affairs only. The organizers say they expect to have 10,000,000 to 25,000,000 members in the United States and a corresponding number in other countries.

MAN FREED, ONCE AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Ex-Army Officer is Facing Impersonation Charge for Second Time

Tonnes Dennison, acquitted recently by a jury in Federal Judge James's court on a charge of impersonating a Federal officer, was arrested yesterday on an indictment returned against him in Philadelphia and charging an identical offense. He gave bond before United States Commissioner Long, who set the removal hearing for the 14th inst.

Dennison is 26 years of age and an employee of the Southern California Edison Company. His parents live in Santa Barbara. During the war he served as a first lieutenant in the Fifth Field Artillery, having enlisted in the service in 1916 as a private. Shortly after his honorable discharge from the Army and before he had donned citizen's clothes, he was at the Rossiyn Hotel where he presented a check which was returned from a North Carolina bank marked N. S. F.

As a result of that transaction an indictment was returned against him here. It charged him with impersonating an officer with intent to defraud. On the defense that he did not know his bank funds had run short and that he was entitled to wear the uniform of an Army officer for ninety days after his discharge, he was acquitted.

According to information received by the Federal officers from Philadelphia, the indictment returned against Dennison there charges him with presenting a bad check to the Y.M.C.A. in that city when he was there in the uniform of an Army officer. According to Stanley Visel, counsel for Dennison, the two indictments were returned at about the same time. It is assumed, he said, that the government officials are pressing the case as a test of the question of a soldier's right to wear the Army uniform after his discharge.

Pair Fined for Pulling Hair of County Officer

Fines of $150 for George A. Gill, 24 years of age, and of $25 for his wife, Pearl Gill, 19, were assessed yesterday by Justice Blake for pulling the hair of and otherwise mistreating Deputy Constable Flowers. The fines were paid.

Flowers said he called at the Gill home at 218 East Eleventh street to serve an attachment on their furniture. The couple met him on the front porch with hostility and a three-cornered, rough-and-tumble fight followed, which ended when Flowers struck Gill on the head and knocked him out. Then Mrs. Gill ran in the house and locked the door and Flowers had to break in, he said, to serve his writ.

DRUG STORE ROBBED

Grain alcohol, bonded whisky and narcotics comprised the plunder taken from the Putnam Drug Store at 1800 North Vermont avenue, Hollywood, early yesterday morning, according to a report made to the police. The thieves entered the store through a transome and, after ransacking the place, carried away five gallons of alcohol, twelve pints of liquor and a quantity of drugs.

ORANGE SITE FOR TEXTILE PLANT MOVE

Factory at Redlands to Locate Closer to Center of Material Supply

The removal of the West Coast Textile Company's plant from Redlands to Orange, where a rapidly growing textile center is being built up, was announced late yesterday by the industrial department of the Chamber of Commerce, following receipt of the information from George P. Valerius of Orange.

The move, according to Valerius, who is a manufacturer of Orange, is being made in order to place the textile company in closer proximity to several twine and yarn factories which already are located in that city, and which constitute a small colony of textile plants.

The West Coast Textile Company has a total capitalization of $250,000, and has been in operation for eighteen months at Redlands. The company manufactures high-grade bath towels and robes sold under the trade-mark of "Thistle Brand," in the biggest department stores of the nation.

This product, according to M. H. Merrill and Thomas Bomar, textile engineers for the Chamber of Commerce, is the finest of its kind made in the United States, and even excels the Turkish towels imported from France.

The new factory in Orange is being erected at Cypress and Almond streets, on asite 200x110 feet, and will employ more than 100 trained operators when running full capacity. The enlarged Orange plant will be able to treble its present capacity.

TANLAC IS MARVELOUS SAYS OAKLAND LADY

Mrs. Nicolai Gives It Credit For Restoring Health And Strength.

"The friend who recommended Tanlac to me was mighty enthusiastic about it, but even then I did not expect such wonderful results as it has given me," said Mrs. R. Nicolai, 1421 37th Ave., Oakland, Calif., recently.

"For months I had been so rundown that I felt worn-out all the time. My appetite had fallen off, I suffered dreadfully from nervousness and headaches and would wake up at all hours of the night. I lost about ten pounds and that miserable feeling of weakness and exhaustion beggars description.

"To begin with, Tanlac gave me a perfectly splendid appetite and it was a revelation how the medicine built me up. My nerves became calm, I could sleep straight through the night and before long I regained all my lost weight. I have felt good to this very day, too. Tanlac is certainly a marvelous tonic."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

CONFESSIONS OF A BABY

When I'm Hungry, I Yell

In one of my last talks with you, Mamas, I told you how imperfect and undeveloped our brains and nerves are—that they really could be called unripe; that most of the nerves in you adults have sheaths or little coverings, while ours are uncovered and these coverings are not completed until we are 7 years of age; and that it takes several years longer than that before our nervous systems are as stable as those of you grown-ups. It is because our nervous systems are unstable that we are so emotional—that we laugh and cry so easily and we are startled and shocked so easily.

I told you that because of this raw and changing, growing, state of our nerves and brain and other organs, we must not be considered as little adults; but that we have to have special care and consideration (that means care of all of us, mental, physical and spiritual, of course,) and that wrong conditions which would leave no impression upon adults may make permanent impressions upon us. When we have to assume responsibilities beyond our years, as a lot of children do when they have to work, or when we do not have wise restraint and discipline and careful guidance in our development, we are going to suffer, not only at the time, but permanently. Many nervous disorders of adult life are traced to errors in training in childhood. And parents and guardians, not knowing these facts, are the unhappy people who are responsible.

Of course, when we are babies and young children, we show all of our emotions without any restraint. For instance now, if I am hungry I yell loud and lustily. I don't care who is present. You wouldn't think of yelling so loudly as I do when you are hungry! As we get older, we also express our emotions without restraint, and we have to be taught by patience and wise discipline not to do this.

It is while we are in this growing, plastic stage that most of our lifetime habits are formed; and it is up to those who are around us to see that those habits are the right kind of habits, isn't it, Mammas? You see we don't know, ourselves. We have not had enough experience in life to know what is right and best.

For instance, in this question of expressing our emotions, when something goes differently from the way we want it, and we become enraged and stamp our feet and otherwise act disagreeably, and by so doing get what we want, then naturally we think that is the way to do always, don't we? But if we find that doing these naughty things does not result in our getting what we want, but results instead in our getting a little something unpleasant in the form of wise punishment, then we realize that this emotional expression does not gain our ends, and we learn a very valuable lesson in self-control.

And, Mamas dear, will you remember what I told you last time we had our little conference? That is, that we babies do not inherit what we are going to be nearly so much as we are going to mold what we are going to be from the patterns around us. If our Mamas and Papas and others around us lose their tempers, say disagreeable things about their neighbors and their friends, complain and do other unhappy things, we are very apt to do the same things. And you can't blame us, can you? That means that we are going to have unhappy lives, mentally and physically. Pretty serious, isn't it, Mamas (and Papas, and others who take care of us during childhood,) this conduct of yours?

An Revoir, Mamas dear.

A. SOCKUMS.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

P. S.—Today is the Fourth of July! Our doctor friend was calling on us today, socially, and she told us that four years ago today Gen. William Crawford Gorgas died. We had all heard of Gorgas, of course, but we really did not realize what a great man he was and how much he did for humanity.

Gen. Gorgas was the man to whom nations appealed when they were threatened with deadly plagues or infections. It was under his direction that yellow fever was driven from Havana, and that Panama—which used to be known as the "white man's grave"—became one of the most healthful places in the world. Americans were able to build the Panama Canal on account of Gorgas's work. It was under his direction, during the last war, that the American Army had one of the lowest mortality records, even though there was a fearful epidemic of influenza.

Oh, Gorgas was a wonderful man! He was the savior of untold thousands of human lives. Doctor says she is so happy that she met him personally and that she never will forget how distinguished looking, how gracious, how kindly he was. So we have decided that I am not going to be President, but I am going to be a Gorgas and help save untold thousands of human lives as he did.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Home Remedies

When you feel a cold brewing and are resorting to the good old-fashioned method of a hot bath, plenty of covers and a hot lemonade, throw a handful of salt in the bathtub with the hot water. It will relieve fatigue and help break up the cold.

Mah Jongg

Many owners of bamboo mah jongg sets are lamenting the fact that the bamboo worm is ruining them. Always keep a piece of gum camphor in with the set and prevent this unfortunate mishap. The camphor will prevent discoloration of the sets made of tile, so it is a wise procedure in either case.

About the Mattress

The mattress of the bed should be turned over and around at least once a week, to insure comfort and even wear. A great many mattresses have straps on the sides, which make the turning very easy. If these are not on your mattress, they may be sewn on at home, using any kind of strong material for the purpose.

Immune to Breakage

Lamp chimneys will last a great deal longer if, when new, they are put in a pan of cold water and heated gradually until the water has reached the boiling point. Remove pan from fire and when the water is cold take out the chimneys. The process will greatly reduce the chance of breakage.

Pithy Thoughts

Olive oil applied to the finger tips each night will do away with brittle nails.

Spread a paper before cleaning fowls or fish and then all unpleasant cleaning up is avoided. The paper can be gathered up and burned.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

Cook half a pound of macaroni in boiling salt water until tender, drain in a colander and rinse well with cold water. Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a large saucepan, stir in four tablespoonfuls of flour and when smooth beat in two cups of milk and three-quarters of a pound of finely chopped American cheese, add the cheese, mix well, pour into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and brown in the oven.

POT ROAST

Have the butcher lard a four or five-pound piece of top sirloin or top round with strips of salt pork and tie in shape with string. Chop a slice of salt pork in small pieces, try out the fat in a Dutch oven, remove the scraps and place the piece of prepared beef in the hot fat; turn until evenly browned on all sides. Reduce the heat, remove the beef, add to the pot one sliced carrot and one sliced onion; cook until a light brown, add the beef, one split calf's foot and a half a cupful of cider; cook until nearly dry, add one and a half cupfuls of boiling water, a seasoning of salt, two whole cloves, six pepper corns, one stalk of celery, two branches of parsley, and one bay leaf; cook one hour, add eight young tender carrots and two small pealed onions; cover tight and cook slowly for four hours or until the meat is tender. POTATO PANCAKES

CORN STARCH PUDDING

Dissolve one-third of a cupful of corn starch in one cupful of milk. Heat in a saucepan three cupfuls of milk and two-thirds of a cup of sugar; add the dissolved corn starch and stir and boil five minutes; remove from the fire and beat in the slightly beaten yolks of four eggs and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter; mix well, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, half a teaspoonful of lemon extract, and the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Pour into buttered molds and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven. Unmold when cold and pour on them fruit preserves or a lemon sauce.

LEMON SAUCE

Place in a small saucepan two-thirds of a cupful of water, add one-third of a cup of sugar and stir and boil one minute; beat with a wire whip and beat in one tablespoonful of corn starch dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of cold water; beat over the fire until it bubbles, remove from the fire and beat in one tablespoonful of butter broken in small bits and one tablespoonful of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of lemon extract.

RADIO WILL REVIVE STAGE COACH DERBY

FEATURE OF PIONEER DAYS ARRANGED FOR NEWHALL CELEBRATION

Introducing a feature which years ago was a main part of western rodeos, the citizens of Newhall will put on a stage coach derby at the fourth annual Newhall rodeo, to be held today, Saturday and Sunday. It is expected to be a strong attraction for the surrounding country during the celebration, which annually draws a large crowd.

Miss Mary Lowden, daughter of E. B. Lowden of the American Auto Works, was recently elected by popular vote to act as queen of the rodeo. She recently graduated from the San Fernando High School.

Purses ranging from $10 to $100 and totaling $3000 will be given away by the management during the three days. The rodeo will be held a mile north of Newhall. A free barbecue will be given today and Sunday. Saturday will be children's day, when all youngsters will be admitted free. Parking and seating space for 10,000 spectators has been provided.

Daily Fashion Hints from VOGUE

Making the Beach Attractive

Even if one has very little money and even less love for the water, one may render the beach attractive this summer with some such arrangement as the one in the sketch, where red-and-white checked gingham is worn, three frills deep, over gingham-trimmed jersey tights.

While capes for wear over dark-toned suits are apt to be brilliantly printed, a gingham suit imposes a certain restraint on its accompanying cape, so this one is in modest white towelling, bound with red ribbon. Naturally, one's cape is red as a cherry above the white cape—and who would wish for more money to spend on beach attire?

NO MERCY SHOWN TO INFORMER

Judge Tells Stool Pigeon He Is "Not Even Honest Crook!" Gets Long Term

Freedom of one prisoner cannot be purchased by informing on another, it was stated yesterday by Judge Reeve in denying an application for probation for Abraham Snyder. The defendant had been convicted of burglary and the stealing of about $3000 worth of merchandise from a Pasadena store. He had been released on his own recognizance and had filed an application for probation.

It was brought out at the hearing yesterday that while at liberty Snyder had acted as an informer on persons suspected and upon this, it was stated, he based his application for probation. The defendant was questioned by Dep. Dist. Atty. Orme.

"No one can purchase his freedom in that manner in this court," stated the court. "You are not even an honest crook. You didn't play fair with either the officers or your acquaintances."

Snyder was sentenced to San Quentin for from one to fifteen years for second-degree burglary.

Rare Way of Getting a Living

Catching mountain lions is not an ordinary way of earning a living, but that is what Rob Bakkey, of Libby, Mont. does. The animals are for zoological gardens and circuses, and in twenty years he has captured 500 of them, many of them barehanded.

CONNIE'S NEW ONE

JOSEPH SCHENCK BUYS STORIES FOR LITTLE SISTER

By Grace Kingsley

Joseph Schenck is by way of being what you might call forehanded. At least he has shown himself so during the past couple of weeks by purchasing a new story he happened to hit upon for Constance Talmadge, although it cannot be made until after the Emerson-Loos story, "Learning to Love," is finished.

The new story is called "The Man She Sought," and is by Pearl Doles Bell. It is a comedy and the leading feminine role is said to fit Miss Talmadge like a glove.

In the meantime Miss Talmadge has begun work on still another comedy under direction of Sidney Franklin. It was written by Hans Kraely, author of "The Marriage Circle." The new story isn't named as yet, but it is described as a sophisticated comedy drama with just a trifle more drama than "The Marriage Circle," and is the story of a highly restless American heiress who has a most amusing series of marital adventures in Los Angeles, New York and London.

Ronald Colman, no less, is Miss Talmadge's leading man. Colman recently finished work in "Tarnish" for First National. He made a great hit previous to that with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister," and played with the Gish sisters in "Romola," which was made in Italy.

Jean Hersholt, who had such an effective comedy role in "The Goldfish," has an important part in the new comedy, while Albert Gran, who was also in the cast of "Tarnish," has the role of Constance's father.

Priscilla Bonner Writes In

From Priscilla Bonner, who is playing a leading role in Frank Woods's new picture, being made at San Mateo, comes an illuminating and amusing letter.

"This place, where we are stopping, is a typical small-town hotel," writes Miss Bonner, "run by a correct lady who skins her hair tight back and never heard of a highball. She thinks they are something to eat. I know, because Mr. Woods, just in fun, the other night, asked her, the evening being cold, 'How would you like a highball?' 'Oh,' she answered, 'I've just had my dinner, and I couldn't eat another thing!'

"Life is truly stranger than fiction! A local exhibitor up here is much interested in the village belle, who has a pretty face, but is at the gawky age and doesn't know what to do with her hands. But her mother has spent a lot of money on make-up for her, and says she is a wonderful elocutionist. (Therefore, she wants to put her in pictures!) The exhibitor insisted on her being in our picture, being sure she has hidden emotional talent. So she is doing extra work, and he sticks around every minute to coach her.

"The exhibitor also is very much disgusted at the way we waste time. He tells us so. He says that it is always the exhibitor who pays and pays, and why should they take two days for a scene they could take in half an hour? If they continue to do that, he simply and flatly refuses to buy their old pictures—Mary Pickford's or anybody's else! Well, at least he does liven things up here.

"The studio here is beautiful—much nicer than any studio in Hollywood. Everyone is charming and it is just like a big family, with Mr. Woods looking after all of his children, as he calls us. The locations are beautiful, and the picture is getting along nicely."

Universal Won't Move

Let not the Chamber of Commerce despair.

Whatever other firms may conclude to do about following out the motto, "Eastward the march of film empire takes its way," Universal heads declare that that organization will remain in the West.

"The statements relative to production activity moving to the east coast do not concern Universal," said General Manager Julius Bernheim. "In all the history of the Universal Picture Corporation, never have such elaborate plans been made as those which we have been following for the past few months, and which we will follow for the season to come."

Mr. Bernheim has just returned from New York, where he held daily conferences with President Carl Laemmle.

"Universal City was made to order for motion-picture production, and nowhere in the East could such a locale be secured that would compare at all favorably with our present one. Stage artifice cannot replace the natural advantages which nature offers the picture producer."

Mr. Bernheim didn't mind admitting that all the Universal pictures will be censor-proof, too.

Perhaps the biggest picture in the history of Universal will be Max Marcin's "The Phantom of the Opera," adapted from the stage play of the same name.

Svend Gade, noted Swedish director, has arrived at Universal City and is now looking over several stories preparatory to choosing one as his first production.

Harry Pollard, who has directed Reginald Denny's biggest successes, is at work on an adaptation of one of Byron Morgan's racing stories. Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor, is inspecting a number of new stories with a view to future Laura LaPlante, Virginia Valli and Mary Philbin features.

Else Palmer Weds

Else Palmer, assistant booker for the chain of theaters belonging to the West Coast Theaters, Inc., is celebrating the Fourth by getting married. She was at her desk all day yesterday, but last night she went to "dine" with a certain young man named Edward Christy, who is an employee of the Union Oil Company, the two quietly visited the home of a clergyman, and came back married.

Miss Palmer, now Mrs. Christy, has been a valuable member of the staff of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., ever since that organization was formed, and she will continue her association with them after a brief honeymoon.

Rene Franklin and Sheely

Nothing has been found, so far as Irene Franklin is concerned, to refute the good old saying that this world is a small place. On the contrary, she is freshly impressed with that idea.

Manager Sheely, down at the Metropolitan, came backstage to see the lively Irene the other day and asked her: "Don't you remember me, Miss Franklin?"

"I had to confess that I didn't," said Irene, "but he reminded me then. He was the soldier who had helped pull me out of the mud in France. It was while I was doing entertaining work for the boys in a Y.M.C.A. hut near a small village. The rain was simply pouring, one day, and I had to cross through the mud from a small inn to the hut. Mud isn't mud in France; it is mixed melted concrete and caramels. I looked out and saw a soldier passing.

"'I mustn't ruin my one stage dress,' I told him. 'Won't you please bring me an umbrella or something?' He went and got a major's tall rubber boots, his greatcoat and umbrella, and thus I started across. But nothing doing! Half-way across the road and I found myself sinking and sinking! Then Mr. Sheely and another soldier came to my rescue again. They pulled and pulled, and finally pulled me out of that major's boots, carrying me safe across. For all I know, the major's boots are still there!"

Sales Manager Here

James R. Grainger, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sales executive, has returned to Los Angeles, following two weeks spent in the Northwest, where he completed the consolidation of the Metro and Goldwyn exchanges in Portland, Seattle and other Northern cities.

Grainger expects to remain in Los Angeles for about a week before returning to his headquarters in New York. He will spend most of his time while here at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, going over the forthcoming production plans with Louis B. Mayer, vice-president in charge of production.

Warner Baxter Vacations

Warner Baxter and his wife, Winifred Bryson, are taking their first considerable holiday together in more than a year. Both have been so busy working, that they found little time for relaxation. They are spending a week in La Jolla.

After taking the hero's colorful mantle on his shoulders in support of Betty Compson, at the Lasky lot, Warner returns next week to the Ince Studio to begin his first Ince picture under his new three-year contract. He will be starred with Florence Vidor in "Christine of the Hungry Heart." George Archainbaud will direct.

Corinne Griffith Comes Home

Corinne Griffith has returned to town from New York, and will shortly begin work for First National on her new picture, "Wilderness." Later she will make "Declasse."

Renee Adoree Among Us

Bringing a trunk just plastered with interesting looking labels, Renee Adoree has returned home following a four months' trip abroad, where she appeared in the leading role in "Bandalero," a Tom Terriss production made in Cuba and Spain.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured contract player also took the opportunity to visit her mother and sister while she was aboard. Miss Adoree is a native of France, and she spent several weeks with her family in Paris.

Old Home Week Note

A group of screen pioneers are assembled at Universal City to make "Daring Deeds," a new feature starring William Desmond, loaned by Universal, and Helen Holmes, and directed as an independent production by J. P. McGowan.

J. P. McGowan is the man who directed the old Signal series and Helen Holmes thrillers of some years ago. Another famous serial star of the old company in the same cast is Grace Cunard.

Allen Forrest in It

It looks as though Allen Forrest is never going to be able to don regular clothes again.

Mr. Forrest, who, not only, as everybody knows, is a good actor, but who looks so well in period costumes that he is being sought constantly for this sort of production, is busy trying on a new set of gleeful garments of another day.

In short, Mr. Forrest has been engaged to play an important role in Vitagraph's new production of "Captain Blood," adapted from Sabatini's story.

Here and There

Paul Schofield and William K. Howard have completed production at the Ince studio of the short story, "Where Is the Tropic of Capricorn?" by Richard Connell. The picture was made for Associated Exhibitors. The cast included Owen Moore, Marguerite De la Motte, Ralph Lewis, Mary Carr, Eddie Gribbon and Francis MacDonald.

The Billy Sullivan Universal unit has just left for Palmdale, where exterior scenes will be filmed for his newest starring picture, "An Eyeful."

Will Work in New York

For the first time in his brilliant young career, Jackie Coogan is to work in New York. He will finish "The Rag Man" in the metropolis.

The opportunity to make scenes where the picture is laid comes at the psychological moment, as the little star is scheduled to be in New York late in August, and will sail the first week in September in command of a $1,000,000 milk ship to be delivered to the orphans of the Near-Eastern countries.

Trap Tornado

Trapping a tornado is the strangest feat ever attempted, and the trapping process is now under way, supervised by King Baggot, Universal director.

Baggot wants some scenes showing a real tornado in action. So he has employed a dozen cameramen, and, by careful study of government weather charts, has stationed them at different spots throughout the Middle West, to remain during the early summer season, which is usually the tornado season.

The cameramen are to be ready at a moment's notice to start their cameras. The first sign of a funnel-shaped cloud may send the rest of the population scurrying for cyclone cellars, but the cameramen will stay outside and grind film at the storm.

"There is no sight in the world like a real tornado," says Baggot, "and, of course, it has never been shown on the screen, because no cameraman has ever been set to work to trap one. It may take months—we may not get it at all—but I am in hopes of getting some great tornado stuff before the season is over. Of course, my cameramen will be in sheltered places, as much as possible, with every possible protection afforded them, but even at that their mission is a dangerous one."

The tornado scenes will be used in Baggot's forthcoming production of Lincoln J. Carter's play, "The Tornado," which will star House Peters. The company will be taken to Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, for most of the exterior action of the picture.

ANOTHER WEEK FOR NEW LLOYD COMEDY

Harold Lloyd in his latest comedy feature, "Girl Shy," will remain at Tally's Theater another week to satisfy those who have not witnessed this seven reels of rousing comedy.

As the bashful, stammering, stuttering country boy, who in real life actually feared the pretty girls, but who in his dreams imagined himself a dashing Romeo, Lloyd has a role that is ideally suited to his screen personality. Like all previous Lloyd comedies, "Girl Shy" is a riot of laughs coming more and more rapidly, in which Lloyd has successfully undertaken one of the most novel and difficult characterizations he has ever attempted, one entirely different from any of its predecessors excepting that it is even more funny than the other types he has portrayed.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO APPEAR FOR DISABLED

Mme. Schumann-Heink, concert and grand opera star, will be present at the presentation by Quentin Roosevelt Post, No. 5, Disabled Veterans of the World War, of the seven-reel war film, "Over the Top," at the Philharmonic Auditorium during the week beginning the 14th inst., it was announced yesterday. Mme. Schumann-Heink telegraphed the post that she will appear on the stage in person. The proceeds of the show will be used to aid disabled veterans now recuperating in Southern California.

SUSPECT CAUGHT HERE FOR CANADIAN CRIME

Harry Jackson, wanted by the police of Windsor, Can., on a charge of receiving stolen property valued at $35,000, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Officer and Houston at a hotel at 443 1-2 South Broadway. A warrant for Jackson's arrest had been sent to local police by Chief Constable Thompson of Windsor.

Coming to Two Screens Next Week

Bebe Daniels,

Good Training in Evidence at Violin Recital

Joseph Zoellner, Sr., founder of the Zoellner Quartet and Conservatory of Music, presented his advanced violin pupils in recital Wednesday evening at Chickering Hall. The several pupils who played gave evidence of masterly training.

The program opened with a performance of the Bach Double Concerto, played by Fred Clint and Antoinette Bush. The number is one of the most difficult in violin literature.

Lily Matison evinced a full and round tone in her performance of the first movement from the Mozart Concerto in D. An ovation was tendered Leon Burford for his musicianly rendition of the Perpetual Motion (Ries) and "Turkish March" (Beethoven-Auer.) Richard Bates, a colored boy of more than usual talent, gave a brilliant hearing of Wieniawski's Scherzo Tarantelle.

Two movements from the Bruch Concerto in G Minor were played with pleasing tone by Ethel Buchanan. Fred Clint in two Sarasate numbers, also showed ability. A double quartet in G Major (Bohne) completed the program. Artistic accompaniment was furnished by Joseph Zoellner, Jr., at the piano.

In general it may be said that the work of the students shows a development of solid musicianship, a working for style and the deeper significance of the music.

AUTHORS REWRITING NEW MOROSCO PLAY

What happens to a manuscript before a first public production of a play actually occurs is being daily demonstrated at the Morosco, where a "first production anywhere" will be presented just as soon as persistent public demand for "The Cat and the Canary" shows signs of abating.

Edgar MacGregor and Tadema Bussiere, co-authors of "The Open Gate" are here from New York to assist Agustin Glassmire in preparing the play for the stage.

Every act, every line almost, is being rewritten by the authors in the course of the rehearsals, which are taking place on the Morosco stage.

MacGregor, who has a long line of successes behind him, including "A Pair of Sixes," is completely "hard-boiled" about the constant changing of the comedy-drama of which he and Miss Bussiere are the literary parents.

"What we have done so far will be just a beginning, probably, on what we'll do after the first performance," he says. "A new play is never really written until it has been given at public performances for a few weeks."

METROPOLITAN HAS ATTRACTIVE BILL

A program of features is offered by the Metropolitan for the new show beginning tomorrow. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix appear in "Unguarded Women," a strong drama of love in American social circles in China. Vincent Lopez's Junior Orchestra, eleven youngsters between the ages of 14 and 18, make their Los Angeles debut. Carvet and Verena, known as the muted dancers, tell a complete story by their graceful dance movements and Creatore conducts the Metropolitan Orchestra in a rendition of Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture Solonelle."

NORMA APPEARS AS DANCER AT LOEW'S

Norma Talmadge dances her way into the action of "The Song of Love," her latest love drama, which comes to Loew's State Theater tomorrow. Those who witnessed Miss Talmadge's performance in "Secrets," will have a surprise awaiting them when they see her as a tempestuous dancing girl in "The Song of Love."

As a fiery, half-barbaric, impassioned little dancer, the actress has a role that is entirely different from anything she has portrayed heretofore, and one in which she reveals a hitherto unsuspected range of emotions.

Miss Talmadge is supported by a capable cast including Arthur Edmund Carewe, Joseph Schildkraut, Maude Wayne, Hector V. Sarno, Mario Carille and others.

"CHECHAHCOS" WILL MOVE TO MILLER'S

"The Chechahcos," the Alaskan-made film play, will be moved from the California to Miller's Theater tomorrow. The picture has had a successful engagement at the California, which will undoubtedly be continued during the Miller run.

This production makes an ideal summer attraction. The strong story is unwoven amid the scenic wonders of the frozen north and many new thrills are presented.

Eva Gordon and Albert Van Antwerp are the featured players. Their portrayals are said to be exceptionally fine.

Short reel subjects will fill out the Miller program.

"FIGHTING AMERICAN" WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

Broad comedy, not a thing more serious than that, is the reason for "The Fighting American" at the Clune Broadway this week. Pat O'Malley, star of many current successes, is cast in the role of the young collegian who prefers adventure to study, and the lovely Mary Astor has the feminine lead.

"The Fighting American" will run until Sunday night, when the theater will close for a few weeks to make way for carpenters and decorators. When it reopens, it will be under a new name, chosen by popular contest from several thousand names submitted by the public.

Much interest has been aroused in Austrian agricultural circles by the discovery that many of the hundreds of caverns found in the Austrian Alps contain valuable deposits of bat guano and other phosphates of animal origin.
